

NEWS RELEASE

BLANCHFIELD ARMY COMMUNITY HOSPITAL (PUBLIC AFFAIRS)

BACH/PAO

(270) 798-8865

650 Joel Drive

(270) 956-0208 FAX

Ft. Campbell, KY 42223

www.campbell.amedd.army.mil

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PR015

December 2, 2010

Army opens first Community Based Medical Home clinic in Clarksville

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. – The Army Surgeon General, Army Families, and leaders cut the ribbon Nov. 30 officially opening the first Community Based Medical Home (CBMH) clinic, known as the Screaming Eagle Medical Home. The clinic is located in Medical Office Building One, 647 Dunlop Lane, Suite 301.

“The CBMH model is a patient-centered primary healthcare model that uses a team based, comprehensive approach to meet the complete primary care and wellness needs of our beneficiaries. A major goal of the program is to better manage patient care, reducing unnecessary tests, drug prescriptions, doctor visits, and avoidable hospital admissions and emergency department visits,” said Screaming Eagle Group Practice Manager Ken Russell.

Active duty TRICARE Prime Family members who live in the 37043 zip code may begin applying for a request to change their primary care manager to a provider assigned to the Screaming Eagle Medical Home. Letters are being mailed to eligible Family members who may complete the change request form and fax it to the Fort Campbell TRICARE Service Center or take the enrollment form to the TRICARE Service Center in Building 2525, 22nd and Indiana Avenue from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. After paperwork is submitted, patients should continue to be seen by their current provider until they receive official notice from either Screaming Eagle Medical Home staff or TRICARE.

TRICARE will notify beneficiaries by letter if their change request is accepted. The Screaming Eagle Medical Home staff will contact enrollees individually to schedule an initial appointment to meet the care team.

The Screaming Eagle Medical Home staff consists of civilian government employees, many of whom are already part of the BACH team. Other team members were hired specifically to offer primary care services in the community where beneficiaries live.

Individuals who decide to enroll in the CBMH will enjoy limited pharmacy and lab services within the clinic. “Receiving these services within the Screaming Eagle Medical Home will allow our beneficiaries to truly experience patient-centered care through the medical-home model which offers the convenience of consolidated services within one location,” said Russell.

“We are elated to open the first Community Based Primary Care Clinic in the Army. Our population deserves the best medical care and attention available and we plan to offer them just that through the medical home model in the community where they live,” said BACH Commander Col. John P. Cook.

– END –

Photo cutlines:

4423/4437 The Surgeon General and the Commanding General United States Army Medical Command Lt. Gen. Eric B. Schoomaker addressed community leaders, Screaming Eagle Medical Home staff and active duty Family members at the ribbon cutting ceremony Nov. 30. The opening of the Screaming Eagle Medical Home is the first Community Based Medical Home to open in the Army.

4326 During a tour Nov. 30 before the official ribbon cutting ceremony, The Surgeon General and the Commanding General United States Army Medical Command Lt. Gen. Eric B. Schoomaker tells 101st Division (Air Assault) and Fort Campbell senior acting commander Maj. Gen. Francis J. Wiercinski, Blanchfield Army Community Hospital commander Col. John P. Cook and Screaming Eagle Medical Home Group Practice Manager Ken Russell how the Screaming Eagle Medical Home is the first of its kind and will serve as the benchmark for how healthcare is provided in the future.

4281 The Surgeon General and the Commanding General United States Army Medical Command Lt. Gen. Eric B. Schoomaker walks through the Screaming Eagle Medical Home with both Health Net Federal Services and Blanchfield Army Community Hospital leaders before the official ribbon cutting ceremony Nov. 30.

4303 Screaming Eagle Medical Home Group Practice Manager Ken Russell takes an opportunity to escort the Surgeon General and the Commanding General United States Army Medical Command Lt. Gen. Eric B. Schoomaker through the new community based clinic in Clarksville, Tenn. before the official ribbon cutting ceremony Nov. 30. This Community Based Medical Home is one of 17 clinics that will open in communities, like Clarksville, outside the gates of Army installations across the continental United States and Hawaii.