

Obtaining the 2007 Recommendations of the ICRP

Printed copies

These can be ordered through the publisher at

<http://www.elsevierhealth.com/product.jsp?isbn=9780702030482>

Downloading electronic copies

These can be obtained, on a pay-per-file basis (using your credit card) unless you are a subscriber to the electronic version, at

<http://www.sciencedirect.com/science/journal/01466453>

User's Edition

This lower-cost version includes the full text of the actual Recommendations (pp. 1 – 135) but not the scientific Annexes with background data (pp. 137 – 332); it can be ordered at

<http://www.elsevierhealth.com/product.jsp?isbn=9780702030635>

Bulk orders and/or sponsored copies

Significant discounts are available if you wish to purchase a number of copies, e.g., for your employees, or regulators may wish to distribute copies to licensees. It is also possible if desired to discuss overprinting the cover with your logo on a print run (however, ICRP reserves the right to edit or reject specific proposals). For more information about these options, please contact Sarah Cahill at the publisher, at

s.cahill@elsevier.com

Special discount options and translations

Developing countries

In about 100 countries, the reports of ICRP (and many other scientific publications) are available at little or no cost through the 'HINARI' programme. In order to investigate whether you qualify for this programme, and to register, please visit

<http://www.who.int/hinari/en/>

In exceptional cases, the Scientific Secretary of ICRP can arrange access for selected departments in those relatively prosperous developing countries that do not qualify for participation in the HINARI programme. However, in such cases ICRP much prefers to permit translations and distribution of translated reports. So far, translations have been agreed for versions in Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, and Spanish. Negotiations concerning a possible Arabic version are under way. For information and permissions, please contact the Scientific Secretary at scient.secretary@icrp.org

IRPA Associated Societies

If your IRPA Associated Society has made the appropriate deal with the publisher and ICRP, there is a discount for members. For more information, please see

<http://www.icrp.org/freepubl.asp>