

Director's Message

Welcome to the second edition of the NTIS Technical Reports Newsletter. We are gratified with the response our first issue generated and thank those of you who have already signed up to continue receiving future editions of the newsletter.

For those of you who have not yet signed up, I wanted to share with you that we will be featuring different categories in each future edition. This month's edition features categories related to Government Administration. In September we will be featuring category 85 Transportation and in October categories related to healthcare and medicine. If you have not already subscribed you may do so by clicking this link: ntnews@ntis.gov.

With this Newsletter, NTIS hopes to build awareness and understanding of the depth and breadth of Federal Government scientific and technical information available. If you have suggestions for future topics, or questions about the collection, please contact us at ntnews@ntis.gov.

Ellen Herbst
Director, NTIS

The Nation's Source for Scientific Information

The National Technical Information Service (NTIS), is the nation's largest and most comprehensive source of government-funded scientific, technical, engineering and business-related information.

For more than 60 years, we have served as an innovative resource to Federal agencies, businesses and universities looking for high-caliber information. Our mission is straightforward: to support the nation's economic growth by providing access to information that stimulates innovation and discovery.

While you can find information on virtually any subject on the web, there's no guarantee that the information is accurate — or that it has been published by a legitimate source. NTIS undergoes a rigorous process to ensure that all the information we offer is authentic and credible. This integrity, along with the breadth and depth of our collection, is why NTIS is regarded as the nation's preeminent source of government information.

Highlighted Categories — Government Administration

This month, we demonstrate the diversity of the NTIS collection by featuring the NTIS categories that contain technical documents related to government administration. These include:

- Communication (Category 45)
- Computer, Control and Information Theory (Category 62)
- Administration and Management (Category 70)
- Behavior and Society (Category 92)

See inside for a short list of new titles in each of these categories.

Presidential Transition, 2008-2009: National Security Considerations and Options, April 21, 2008

Congressional Research Service

April 2008, 52 pages

Related Categories/Sub-categories:

70F (Public Administration & Government)

A presidential transition is a unique time in America and holds the promise of opportunity, as well as a possible risk to the nation's security interests. The 2008-2009 election marks the first presidential transition in the post-9/11 era, and is of concern to many national security observers.

This report discusses historical national-security related presidential transition activities, provides a representative sampling of national security issues the next administration may encounter, and offers considerations and options relevant to each of the five phases of the presidential transition period. Each phase has distinct challenges and opportunities for the incoming administration, the outgoing administration, and Congress. This report will be updated as needed.

Subject Category Codes/ Classification

NTIS classifies citations into 39 subject categories. Each of these subject categories is divided into subcategories. This method provides sorting categories for both hard and soft sciences. All subject categories consist of three character codes: two numerics and one alpha character. The numeric codes represent entire categories, the alpha codes are used to designate subcategories within these broad categories. The number of NTIS subcategories posted to an information product average from one to five, although there are some reports with more.
