

Model Children's EHR Format Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

- 1. What is the model children's electronic health record (EHR) Format? The model Format is a set of requirements that contains child-specific items (or items of special importance for children) that identify the incremental functionality (beyond what is needed for adults) that an EHR should have to meet the particular needs of children. The Format expands upon the hierarchy created by HL7® for the EHR-S Functional Model and incorporates the HL7 Child Health Functional Profile.
- 2. Who would use the model Format? The Format can be valuable to various audiences, including developers of EHR software who want to ensure their systems optimally address the needs of children; purchasers of EHR software to enable them to assess the degree to which EHR systems support the care of children; child health advocates who want to influence the future development of EHR products for children; and standards and certification organizations that could leverage selected requirements to specify best practices or certification criteria.
- 3. What kind of requirements are in the Format? The Format includes over 700 requirements statements related to the general care of children that directly inform specific functionality. The requirements are organized hierarchically under "headers" and "functions." The specific requirements are called normative statements and include one of the following normative verbs:
 1. SHALL (denoting required system behavior)
 2. SHOULD (for recommended system behavior)
 3. MAY (for permitted, desirable system behavior).
- 4. What types of system gaps does the Format cover? The Format covers EHR functionality related to the care of children in the following areas:
 - Activity Clearance
 - Birth Information
 - Child Abuse Reporting
 - Child Welfare
 - Children With Special Health Care Needs
 - Growth Data
 - Immunizations
 - Medication Management
