

SMALL BUSINESS TAX CUT ACT OF 2012

The Small Business Tax Cut: Good News for Minnesota

The best way to boost economic growth and get people back to work is through small business growth. Over the past 17 years, small businesses with fewer than 500 employees have generated 65% of the new jobs in this country.<sup>1</sup> Yet under the current tax code, small businesses are faced with enormous burdens that are sapping their capital. Irrespective of whether they pay taxes at the corporate or individual level, small businesses can face up to a 35% federal tax rate.

H.R. 9, the Small Business Tax Cut, will help small business owners retain more capital, invest in their businesses and create more jobs. Under the proposal, small businesses would be allowed to deduct 20% of their income from taxes irrespective of how they are organized, up to 50% of their W-2 wages (in some cases distributions made to partners may be treated as W-2 wages for these purposes). So, whether you are organized as a corporation or you are one of the 75% of small businesses that operate as a pass-through, you will benefit from this new deduction.

How it Works: For simplicity, consider the example of a small business that under current law would pay a 35% federal tax on $100 of income, resulting in a $35 tax bill. Under the House Republican proposal, the small business would be able to deduct 20% of its income from tax (20% of $100 = $20), subject to the 50% W-2 wage limitation. The small business would then pay the same 35% tax on the remaining $80, resulting in a $28 tax bill. Under the House Republican proposal, the small business immediately saves $7 in federal taxes.

The non-partisan Joint Committee on Taxation has estimated that H.R. 9 will benefit over 22 million small business employers across the United States reducing their taxes by almost $46 billion. H.R. 9 is consistent with the budget plan just adopted by the House and was part of the Pledge to America.

What the Small Business Tax Cut Means for Minnesota:

As of 2009, in Minnesota, there are 116,210 small businesses with between 1 and 500 employees employing 1,205,700 individuals.<sup>2</sup>

The top three industries by employment:

- Over 194,000 employees in health care and social assistance
- Over 141,000 employees in manufacturing
- Over 133,000 employees in accommodation and food services

Of the small businesses in Minnesota with between 1 and 500 employees:

- 13,431 are women-owned and they employ 121,677 individuals<sup>3</sup>

In addition to these small businesses, in 2009 Minnesota was home to 325,518 sole proprietorships.<sup>4</sup> Many of these self-employed small businesses will also benefit from the 20% Small Business Tax Cut.

It is not just a cliché that getting small businesses growing again is the key to our economic recovery. Consider that:

- From 2005 to 2008, small business created a net total of 42,036 new jobs in Minnesota
- But from 2008 to 2009 a net total of 45,233 small business jobs were lost.<sup>5</sup>
