MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: BRUCE REED
JOSE CERDA III

SUBJECT: ADMINISTRATION STRATEGY ON CRIME AND VIOLENCE

I. ACTION-FORCING EVENT

With violence at epidemic levels across the country, the Administration needs to step up its efforts to pass the crime bill, the Brady Bill, and other gun measures. This memorandum outlines an aggressive political and communications strategy for an Administration-wide assault on crime and violence this fall.

II. PRIORITIES: MORE COPS, FEWER GUNS

The crime bill and the Brady bill are on a fast track in the House and Senate. The Senate could begin floor consideration as early as next week, but more likely the week after. The House Judiciary Committee has already begun subcommittee hearings, and is scheduled to mark up the crime package the week of October 18.

The recent crime spree is fueling Congress's desire to act on crime. But to do so, we need to do two things quickly: 1) Raise the Administration's profile on the crime issue; and 2) Speak with one voice to Congress and the public about our priorities. If we want to dodge the morass of side issues that have bogged down the crime-and-guns debate in recent years, we have to be very clear about our bottom line.

Crime and violence are complicated, provocative issues, and there will never be universal agreement within the Administration or the White House on how best to reduce them. However, we believe that the Administration, Congress, and the American people can unite behind the two most urgent elements of the anti-crime agenda you spelled out in August: more cops and fewer guns.

We can't settle for one or the other -- if we're going to make Americans feel more secure, we need both. Passing the Brady bill will be an important symbolic victory, but it will soon be eclipsed if teenagers still roam the streets with assault rifles and innocent children are still dying in the crossfire. To reduce crime and Americans' fear of crime, we need to put more police on the beat in their neighborhoods and consider a series of gun measures beyond Brady that will give police and residents a fighting chance to take their neighborhoods back. Otherwise, crime could be an even bigger issue three years from now than it is today.

III. WHAT WE NEED TO DO

A. Speak With One Voice on Crime

With so much of the Administration's attention directed elsewhere, it is critical that our crime effort be focused and consistent. The White House and Justice Department need to work hand-in-hand to promote the Administration's agenda and seize control of the crime and violence debate. Justice officials share our concern and are eager to work together. We don't know if the White House can handle another war room, but we recommend forming a team of White House and Justice staff that will meet regularly to coordinate the Administration's efforts. This group will bring respective departments from the White House and Justice together to ensure that crime is an Administration-wide priority and that we are speaking with one voice. With your approval, Carol Rasco will send a memorandum to all interested parties to send a designee and begin work right away.

B. Raise the Administration's Profile on Crime and Violence

In the past few weeks, you and the First Lady have both signaled to the press and the public that fighting crime and violence is a top priority for the Administration. We want to make sure your schedule includes opportunities for you to keep speaking out on these issues, and where possible, to continue to underscore the link between violence and health care. Anything you and the First Lady can say to specifically mention the crime bill and the Brady bill over the next two weeks will dramatically improve the prospects of passing what we want.

It would not be difficult to fold a few crime-related events into your existing schedule, without using much of your valuable time. Here are a few suggestions:

- * Use your visit to a trauma center in New Jersey this Friday, to highlight the costs of crime and health care. You can laud Florio for the strong assault weapons ban he passed and for his tough line on crime in general, and make a specific pitch for the crime bill and the Brady bill. (New Jersey was one of the first states to impose a routine waiting period and background check for handgun purchases.)

- * Radio address on crime on Saturday, October 16, just before the crime bill is scheduled to come up.

- * Use the upcoming release of the Administration's interim drug strategy to talk about drug violence and drug-related measures in the crime bill.

- * Be prepared to give the crime bill some kind of public plug when the floor debate begins.

- * Do a crime event with Mary Sue Terry in Virginia, where crime and guns are the #1 issue.

- * Invite Police Chiefs from around the country to one of your weekly CEO luncheons, and make community policing and other innovative crime measures the topic of discussion.

- * Bring mayors to the White House to announce the first communities to win community policing grants from the Justice Department under the $150 million FY 93 Supplemental. The first round of applications ends later this month; Justice could begin selecting communities anytime after that. These won't be large grants -- $1 to 4 million -- but they will make big news in medium-sized cities.

- * An impromptu Friday or Saturday night visit to a D.C. emergency room.

- * Attend the opening of the new D.C. drug court. You and the Attorney General have spoken about the need to use the "carrot" and "stick" of the criminal justice system to demand that drug offenders be treated and tested. The D.C. drug court, which will be opened later this month, is the first such venture funded with an HHS grant from your Administration.

- * Give a major crime speech at this year's International Association of Chiefs of Police Convention. The Convention is scheduled for the same week that the crime debate is likely to begin in the House and Senate. Lee Brown and the Attorney General are already planning to speak.

- * A phone call to Governor William Weld to ask his help in winning bipartisan support in Washington for the measures he proposed last week in Massachusetts: a waiting period, an assault ban, and a ban on handgun ownership by anyone under 21.

- * An Oval Office meeting with Sarah and Jim Brady.

In addition to all that you and the First Lady do to promote these issues, we will put together a coordinated effort by the Cabinet -- not only Attorney General Reno and Drug Director Brown, but also Secretary Cisneros and Secretary Riley.

C. Build Support Among Key Constituencies

We are already working with Public Liaison, Intergovernmental, Political, and their counterparts at Justice to build support among key constituencies. We need to focus on the following groups:

CITIES AND MAYORS -- Cities and Mayors have much to gain from the initiatives included in the crime bill, particularly in hiring more police and reducing gun violence. Putting more police on the streets was a central issue in the Los Angeles Mayor's race, and has emerged as a key issue in Detroit, where one of the two candidates in the runoff is saying that our crime bill will mean 1,000 new cops for Detroit, and promising to deploy another 1,000 on top of that. This constituency also represents one of our best opportunities to garner Republican support for the crime bill, from Riordan in L.A. to Althaus in York, PA.

STATES AND GOVERNORS -- Although States and Governors do not stand to gain as much as Cities and Mayors, they are still an important source of support. Moreover, the issues of crime, violence and gun control are being highlighted in several gubernatorial races (NJ, VA) and have dominated the news in others (CO, FL, MA).

STATE ATTORNEYS GENERAL -- While the State AGs were the original driving force behind the Biden-Reno habeas corpus compromise, they have elected not to endorse Biden's crime bill. Also, Senate staff indicate that we may have only around 20 of the 31 Democratic AGs in support of the crime bill, with key Democratic AGs in key States wavering (Butterworth of FL, Morales of TX, and Bower of GA). High-level White House calls need to be made to these individuals as soon as possible. Biden's staff will send us a list of pivotal AGs and DAs.

Republican AGs will be difficult to sway. For years, California AG Dan Lungren has led the opposition to Democratic crime bills, with habeas being his primary focus. This year he helped block the State AGs from endorsing Biden's crime bill. Lungren -- a former Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee -- can be expected to join forces with former U.S. Attorney General Bill Barr and former Justice Department Official Paul McNulty, who have established a conservative, hard-line criminal justice think tank.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS -- Many Members of Congress will have a hard time supporting the crime bill if the local DA comes out vocally against it. Last year, the DAs worked with the State AGs to defeat the crime bill. In fact, the DAs' former national President, conservative Democrat Bob Macy, stood alongside Republicans to criticize the crime bill during last year's election. This year, Macy and others endorsed the Biden-Reno compromise and attended the Rose Garden crime event.

We need to fight to keep the DAs on board, especially if the House tries to weaken habeas. The Attorney General's outreach and assurances to DAs have been helpful and must continue. We must solicit the help of friendly DAs such as Mark Stodola in Little Rock and Norm Early in Denver. Not only is Early a Clinton supporter (he spoke at the prosecutors/Sarah Brady endorsement event last October), but he is currently President of the Black Prosecutors Association.

POLICE GROUPS -- We need to make good use of major police organizations, which support the crime bill and measures to curb gun violence. At the same time, we have to neutralize a potential landmine, the Police Officers Bill of Rights, which would grant certain labor protections to rank-and-file cops. This issue, which is not included in the crime bill as introduced, would split the law enforcement community into labor and management, with police unions on one side and police chiefs (as well as Mayors) on the other. Senator Biden has made a personal commitment to the National Association of Police Organizations (NAPO) and the International Brotherhood of Police (IBPO) -- both Clinton endorsers -- to include the Police Officers Bill of Rights in the crime bill.

There is no easy answer here, but some type of commitment -- or separate effort -- needs to be made to get our police supporters not to insist on the Police Officers Bill of Rights. We have worked during the past few months to establish a direct network of supportive police chiefs around the country -- San Diego, Boston, New York, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Chicago, St. Louis and many more cities -- and we run the risk of losing this support if the Police Officers Bill of Rights becomes an issue.

COMMUNITY-BASED GROUPS -- The crime bill and Brady should appeal to local crime prevention groups and other neighborhood coalitions. We are reaching out to them to help build support for the crime bill at the local level and across the political spectrum.

D. Maintain Legislative Balance

BRADY -- The Brady bill will almost certainly pass the House this fall, either as part of the crime bill or on its own if the crime bill gets bogged down. The real battle will come in the Senate, where Biden is still a few votes short of cloture. His office is sending us a list of swing votes and their concerns. You and the Vice President, who helped Brady pass the Senate once before, will need to work the phones and the bully pulpit.

ASSAULT WEAPONS -- This will be a real struggle in both houses, but it's a fight well worth having. The House rejected a ban by 70 votes in 1991, the day after the Luby's massacre in Killeen, Texas. But the politics of the issue have changed since then, and although the NRA says otherwise, the freshmen may be more sympathetic. Cloture will again be difficult in the Senate, which passed a relatively weak ban by one vote last time.

We should ask for a stand-alone vote on assault weapons, that keeps it separate from either the crime bill or the Brady bill. Sarah Brady has asked us not to lump the Brady bill and an assault ban together, because she feels it could doom Brady. We also need to urge Senators Metzenbaum and DeConcini, who introduced different versions of a ban, to develop a consensus proposal.

CRIME BILL -- Last year's crime bill conference report passed the House by just two votes (208-206, with one Republican vote) and failed in the Senate under a filibuster threat. This year, we have gone to extremes to improve last year's bill and, hopefully, strike an appropriate liberal-conservative balance. Still, if the wrong amendment passes, there is a distinct chance that we could lose liberal or conservative votes at any point along the way. We need a careful strategy to keep the balance in both houses and in conference.

In the House, we believe the key targets are moderates (including some Republicans) and new Members. We also need to reach out to the Black Caucus, which will oppose death penalty provisions but may support our focus on more cops and fewer guns. If we do not reach out to the Caucus, we risk their vocal opposition.

In the Senate, separating Brady will make passage of the crime bill easier. The Republicans will press for more prisons, tougher sentencing, and more conservative habeas. The recent crime spree has improved the overall prospects of broad support, but may also increase pressure to pass even more conservative habeas procedures.

IV. OTHER CRIME POLICY OPTIONS

The crime bill includes many innovative approaches that don't get as much attention: boot camps, drug courts, certainty of punishment for young offenders, and so on. But to underscore the seriousness of the Administration's commitment to reduce crime and violence, we may want to consider other initiatives in the short and long term.

A. Gun Options

We can try to pass a few other gun violence measures that have broad support, either as amendments to the crime bill or as part of a separate guns package. We will ask Justice and Treasury to prepare a comprehensive list of possible measures, ranging from executive action to legislation. Some of these might pass with relatively little controversy; others would be too much for the crime bill to carry.

Here is a sampling of other gun legislation that could be incorporated into a separate gun violence package: banning assault weapons; reforming the Federal firearms licensing system by increasing the basic fee and not allowing dealers to circumvent state and local gun controls (this is what Mayor Dinkins talked to you about; it requires legislation which we can support); closing the loophole that allows convicted felons to regain their right to buy firearms; prohibiting the transfer of firearms to minors; expanding the category of persons prohibited from purchasing guns (i.e., individuals under a restraining order); limiting the multiple purchase of guns; and banning all forms of "armor-piercing" bullets. Other, more controversial measures include Senator Moynihan's bullet tax and Senator Bradley's gun tax.

B. Other Crime Options

There are several other options we can pursue immediately. They include:

COMMISSION ON CRIME AND VIOLENCE -- The Federal Government has not sponsored a commission to look at the issue of crime and violence since the Kerner Commission more than 25 years ago, and various police chiefs, including Lee Brown, and other criminal justice types have called for one. Although we would not generally recommend government by commission, there is a compelling case for a crime and violence commission to help lay the groundwork for bold new initiatives down the road. Moreover, on many basic questions we simply don't know the right answers. A new commission -- made up of those at the front lines as well as academics -- would elevate the issue and help show the public that we want to do more than simply talk tough on crime. The Biden-Brooks crime bills include a commission on crime and violence. Peter Edelman, Phil Heymann, and Lee Brown are heading up an internal Administration working group that will be holding hearings on youth violence.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON YOUTH CRIME -- Youth crime -- particularly violent and gun-related youth crime -- has increased dramatically over the past 25 years and must be addressed. The Attorney General and Lee Brown have a tremendous interest in this issue, and would both like to develop strategies. The Attorney General has scheduled field hearings to look into the problem, and Lee Brown has expressed an interest in focusing on the impact of crime and violence on African American males.

Last year's reauthorization of the Juvenile Justice Program authorized a White House Conference on Youth Crime. You could focus on this issue and establish such a conference.

FY 95 BUDGET/DRUG STRATEGY -- The FY 95 Budget will include a cross-cut analysis entitled "Safe and Drug-Free Communities." We need to utilize this section of the budget -- along with the upcoming Drug Strategy to be released -- to outline a comprehensive, credible crime and drug strategy.

MEMORANDUM FOR HOWARD PASTER

FROM: BRUCE REED
DOMESTIC POLICY COUNCIL

SUBJECT: Various Crime Matters

We would like to sit down with you as soon as possible to discuss the Administration's strategy going into the upcoming House and Senate debates on crime.

In response to the memos and letters you forwarded on crime and guns:

1. We welcome the suggestion that the President attend the Oct. 19 anti-violence dinner -- so long as he's going there to promote the crime bill as well as the Brady bill and an assault weapons ban. It would be a mistake for him to call for breaking out Brady now, when the House and Senate are scheduled to act on both the crime bill and the Brady bill within the month.

*Ch. to see
scheduling

2. Richard Aborn of Handgun Control is coming in this week to discuss other gun violence measures. The President already acted on one of his suggestions when he signed an executive order in August; we believe the other three recommendations can only be done through legislation. We'll be happy to work with Aborn to pursue these and other suggestions.

3. The President's response to Sen. Moynihan's letter on a bullet tax requires careful thought. Some time ago, Treasury drafted but did not send the attached letter commenting on his bill; the First Lady's office may have other concerns. This matter may have come up in her meeting with Sen. Moynihan last Thursday.

In general, we recommend dealing with this issue -- as well as Sen. Bradley's call for increased gun taxes -- in the context of the health care financing debate rather than the immediate crime and guns debate. We'll have enough trouble getting Southern and Western Senators to change their minds and vote for Brady this fall, without generating a backlash from constituents about taxing their guns. However, we could consider Moynihan's proposal as an element of a broader gun package to send up sometime next year, after Congress has acted on the crime bill and Brady bill.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
WASHINGTON

GENERAL COUNSEL

The Honorable Daniel P. Moynihan
Chairman
Committee on Finance
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Mr. Chairman:

This responds to your request for the views of the Department of the Treasury on S. 868, the "Firearm Victims Protection Act," the purpose of which is to help reduce the public health care cost resulting from firearm related injury and death.

The Department of the Treasury is examining whether an increase in the excise tax on firearms and ammunition is appropriate and whether any increase should apply to all firearms and ammunition or only to firearms and ammunition most commonly associated with gunshot fatalities and wounds. Although our examination is continuing, we would nevertheless like to offer several observations concerning the bill, and we would be pleased to work with the Committee as it considers the legislation.

Proposed section 4181(b)(1) defines "handgun" as "a firearm which, at the time of manufacture, had a barrel of less than 12 inches in length." If the purpose of this section is to tax those firearms commonly known as "handguns" at 25 percent, we note that a number of handguns have barrel lengths in excess of 12 inches (e.g., the Remington XP100 Silhouette pistol (14 1/2 inches), the Thompson Center Contender pistol (available in 10, 14 and 16 inches), and the Magnum Research SSP91 single shot pistol (14 inches)). We also note that the definition of handgun is not limited to firearms that may be fired with one hand, but would also include rifles and shotguns with barrels of less than 12 inches.

The definition of "assault weapon" in proposed section 4181(b)(2) is unclear. By defining assault weapons in part as having a barrel length of between 12 and 18 inches, many assault-type rifles would be excluded from the 25 percent tax rate (e.g., the AR-15, the M1A, and the HK91 rifles, all of which have barrel lengths exceeding 18 inches). Furthermore, including the phrase "capable of receiving ammunition directly from a large capacity ammunition magazine" in the definition has little meaning since any firearm designed to accept a detachable magazine can accept a large capacity magazine.

The definition of "assault weapon" also uses the phrase "concealable by a person." This language is meaningless because any firearm, irrespective of barrel length, can be concealed "by" a person. Since the apparent intent of the language is to include within the definition firearms that are "not concealable on" a person, we recommend that proposed section 4181(b)(2)(A)(ii)(I) be amended accordingly.

Finally, we are concerned that proposed section 4181(b)(2)(B) is too vague because any semiautomatic firearm would be substantially functionally equivalent to any other semiautomatic firearm as defined in proposed section 4181(b)(2)(A)(ii).

Section 3(b) of the bill would amend chapter 31 of the Internal Revenue Code, which concerns retail excise taxes, by adding a new subchapter D, "Handguns and Assault Weapons." However, since Section 3(b) generally would only tax transactions after the first retail sale (most first retail sales of firearms and ammunition are subject to the tax imposed by IRC section 4181), we do not believe chapter 31 is the appropriate chapter in which to include the new tax. Furthermore, although proposed subchapter D imposes a tax on transactions other than sales, it fails to include a provision determining a constructive price on which to compute the tax.

Section 4 of the bill would create a Health Care Trust Fund into which the taxes collected under IRC section 4056, that portion of IRC section 4181 attributable to the tax on articles subject to the 25-percent rate, and proposed new IRC subchapter D would be deposited. It should be noted, however, that this provision appears to repeal part of the Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Restoration Act (16 U.S.C. 669), which states that all taxes imposed by IRC sections 4161(b) and 4181, with certain exceptions, are to be deposited into another fund and used by the States for various wildlife projects, hunter safety training programs, and recreational programs.

The Department strongly supports increasing the level of fees charged for Federal firearms licenses as proposed in section 5 of the bill. Higher fees would help defray the increased costs associated with processing and investigating firearms dealer license applications and annual license renewals. More importantly, increased fees would discourage the filing of license applications by persons who have no intent to engage in the firearms business, but whose only interest in seeking a license is to obtain firearms at wholesale prices or in interstate commerce. The Department estimates that approximately one-third of Federal firearms licensees made no firearms sales within the past year, and that about 40 percent made ten or fewer sales during that same period. Nevertheless, determining the level at which the increased fees should be set, a level that would accomplish the foregoing without discouraging legitimate business, is a matter under study by the Department.

Finally, the Department does not support the earmarking of tax receipts for unrelated expenditure purposes, as proposed in sections 4 and 5 of the bill. Such earmarking exacerbates the problem of budgetary control, and the Department has consistently maintained that tax receipts should be available in the general fund of the Treasury for appropriation by the Congress for current programs and objectives. Furthermore, we believe that the proposed grants to health care providers from the Health Care Trust Fund to be established by section 4 of the bill should instead be considered in the context of health care reform.

The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection from the standpoint of the Administration's program to the submission of this report to your Committee.

Sincerely,

Jean E. Hanson
General Counsel

MEMORANDUM FOR DISTRIBUTION

FROM: Carol H. Rasco CHR
SUBJECT: Meeting Notice - Crime Bill

The President has asked that I coordinate a series of regular meetings over the next few weeks of key Administration officials to focus our efforts on crime and gun violence issues.

With the crime and Brady bills pending in Congress, and a surge of nationwide interest in the epidemic of violence, the President wants the Administration to step up its response in these areas. It's critical that we speak with one voice and maximize our resources we can then marshal to focus on crime.

Please be sure that you or your representative attend the first crime coordinating meeting TUESDAY, OCTOBER 12 at 4:00 PM in the ROOSEVELT ROOM. If you should have any questions, please do not hesitate to call me (x2216) or Bruce Reed (x6515).

RE: Suggestions for Crime Team

We've spoken with some Justice people, and they seem to welcome the general idea of a crime team that meets regularly. (We didn't ask the one person at Justice who might think otherwise.)

Also, you might need to talk to Lee Brown about getting Jose to be available full-time over the next few weeks to focus on crime, now that he's finished the interim drug strategy.

Here's a suggested list for the Crime Team, which we have informally dubbed the Untouchables (although the name Keystone Cops has also occurred to us from time to time):

THE CLINTON ADMINISTRATION CRIME PLAN MORE COPS, FEWER GUNS

THE RIGHT TO FEEL SAFE

- Along with economic and health security, Americans have a right to personal security -- to feel safe where they live, work, play, and go to school will be safe. But too many of our people are denied that right. Government's first duty is to keep its citizens safe.
- There is an epidemic of violence in this country that must be confronted. We cannot let reckless teenagers roam the streets with assault weapons better armed than our police officers. We cannot stand by as random gunfire claims victim after victim, including innocent children.
- We can start by doing the two things that we know can reduce and prevent crime: putting more police on the street and getting guns off the streets. It's time to pass the crime bill, the Brady Bill, and a tough ban on assault weapons. The American people have been waiting long enough for these common sense measures.

PUT MORE POLICE ON THE STREET

- During the 1980s, the number of violent crimes and murders skyrocketed -- as did the level of youth and gun violence. But the trend in policing has been to do more with less. In fact, thirty years ago, there were three police officers for every violent crime; today, there are more than three violent crimes for every police officer. It's time to reverse this trend and help our cities put more police on the street.
- In August, the President outlined his plan to put 100,000 more police and public safety personnel on the street. Title I of the crime bill authorizes $3.4 billion over the next 6 years to put 50,000 more police on the street "in community-oriented policing." Several other programs will help keep the President's 100,000 cops campaign pledge -- the Police Corps, National Service, Safe Schools, Empowerment Zones, Troops-to-Cops, and HUD's Community Partnerships Against Crime.
- Putting more "cops on the beat" makes sense. Cities like Los Angeles, Detroit, New York, San Diego and Boston would like to increase their police presence and expand community policing. The President's policing plan will help them do just that.

REDUCE GUN VIOLENCE

- America's streets are flooded with guns. We have an estimated 200 million guns on the street, and more federally licensed gun dealers than gas stations.
- On August 11th, the President took the first step by signing two gun-related directives: one to close the loophole allowing the importation of assault pistols into the country; and one to "beef up" the compliance procedure for distributing federal firearms licenses by requiring background checks, fingerprinting, etc.
- But we need to do more. The Brady Bill, which provides for a five-day waiting period to allow local law enforcement to conduct a background check of prospective handgun buyers, must be passed as soon as possible. We've already banned the importation of assault weapons that have no sporting purpose. We should do the same for those same guns that are domestically produced.

ENSURE SWIFT AND CERTAIN PUNISHMENT

- We need a criminal justice system where those who commit crimes are caught, those who are guilty are convicted, and those who are convicted are punished. That's not the case today.
- Too often, our lack of prison space or resources forces us to choose between prison or no punishment at all. This should not be the case. We must use boot camps and other innovative means of punishment to promote certainty of punishment when an offender first encounters the criminal justice system, not after it's too late.
- In Arkansas, Governor Clinton pioneered the use of community boot camps, which provide young people the discipline, education, and training they need for a better chance to avoid a life of crime. We need to do the same at the federal level.
- The criminal justice system must be used to demand that addicted offenders get treatment. We already pay considerable overhead costs for incarcerating drug-addicted offenders and should demand that they be treated. Parole or probation should also be used to test, and if necessary, treat drug addicts in the criminal justice system.
- For the most heinous crimes, the death penalty is appropriate. But we must reform the current process of endless death penalty appeals. The Administration supports a compromise reached by Senator Biden, Attorney General Reno, and America's prosecutors that limits inmates to filing a single, federal habeas corpus appeal within a six-month time limited -- while also assuring that indigent capital defendants are represented by qualified counsel who meet specific, rigorous experience and qualification standards.

CRIME BILL QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

MORE COPS ON THE STREET...

Q: How will the President keep to his campaign promise to put more police on the streets?

A: The President's plan offers cities and states a variety of options to meet their different public safety needs. Some cities want more uniformed officers on the beat, while others want more civilian personnel. Some cities want police to work in their violence-ridden schools, while some want police working to prevent crime in public housing. Some cities and states want new highly trained, college-educated cadets, while others want outgoing military personnel. The President's plan accomodates all of these needs.

The biggest part of the President's plan to put 100,000 more police on the streets is the Community Policing Initiative included as Title I of the Biden-Brooks crime bills. Under this initiative, which authorizes $3.4 billion over the next 6 years, as many as 50,000 police officers could be hired for deployment in community-oriented policing.

The remaining 50,000 of the 100,000 pledge will be fulfilled through a series of other programs to deploy sworn and non-sworn officers. These include: the recently enacted National Service legislation; the Empowerment Zones and Enterprise Communities program, which passed as part of the President's budget; the emergency Safe Schools initiative proposed by the Department of Education; HUD's Community Partnership Against Crime (COMPAC), and the Police Hiring Supplement, which passed as part of FY93 supplemental appropriations bill, (the $150 million downpayment on community policing).

Q: Won't hiring more police increase the burden on our courts, jails, prisons, etc.?

The President's 100,000 police plan is a departure from past policies. First, it emphasizes community policing. That means our police officers -- while not shying away from their sworn duty to apprehend offenders -- will be working with communities to prevent crime in the first place.

Community policing is more than simply putting police officers back "on the beat", or supporting police projects that restore community relations (i.e., bike patrols). Community policing is a philosophy -- not a program -- and it is meant to transform the way police services are delivered.

will be able to instantly determine, by phone, whether or not someone can buy a handgun.

Q: How do you know that a waiting period will work? Criminals don't purchase their weapons at retail gun stores -- do they?

A: While waiting periods and background checks won't stop every criminal from getting a gun, they most certainly will stop some. Both California and Illinois have established a waiting period system similar to Brady that is keeping handguns out of the hands of criminals. According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, California's waiting period and background check stopped felons from buying guns on almost 2,500 occasions -- an average of about one every three hours. The Illinois Firearm Owner's Identification Program prevents about 3,000 prohibited purchases every year.

Q: But if States can enact -- and have enacted -- a waiting period and background check, why do we need the Brady Bill?

A: While States like Illinois, California and New Jersey have reliable waiting periods and background checks, their efforts are undermined by the lack of reasonable gun controls in many other states. Criminals regularly purchase guns in States with weaker laws only to transport them to those States with tough gun laws. We need national legislation -- the Brady Bill -- to stop this interstate running of guns.

Q: The President and Attorney General have been calling for an assault weapons ban -- why is it not in the crime bill?

A: The Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1993 is a modified version of last year's crime bill conference agreement, which did not contain an assault weapons ban. But the Administration will support amendments to the crime bill to ban assault weapons and -- if that fails -- separate legislation to ban assault weapons.

Q: Which version of an assault weapons ban does the President support?

A: The President will support the toughest assault weapons ban Congress can pass. The major difference between the various assault weapons proposals is that some would cover "copies" of banned assault weapons, while others would require subsequent congressional action to ban "copies". Either approach is better than current law and would garner the President's support.

The conventional, emergency response policing model demands that police officers be slaves to their radios and discourages police from finding long-term or innovative solutions to local crime problems. Instead, officers respond to the same calls over and over -- almost always after it's too late to have any impact.

Community policing is meant to empower police officers by giving them some autonomy and assigning them to specific neighborhoods, where they can build partnerships with community residents and -- instead of simply responding to radio calls -- work to identify, analyze and solve crime problems.

Focusing on solving and preventing crime problems should not put an undue burden on the rest of the criminal justice system.

Q: Will 50,000 cops make any difference?

Putting 50,000 new police on the streets through this crime bill will increase the nation's police force by nearly 10%. It will have an especially dramatic impact in small and medium-sized cities. The average police department in America today consists of less than 20 officers. In these departments, a handful of new officers engaged in community outreach and long-term problem solving can have an enormous impact on community residents' quality of life.

...FEWER GUNS

Q: What is the Brady Bill?

A: The Brady Bill, which was named after former Reagan Press Secretary James Brady who was shot during the assassination attempt in 1981, establishes a five-day waiting period for handgun purchases. This waiting period will enable local law enforcement officers to conduct background checks of potential purchasers to ensure that convicted felons, the mentally deranged, and others disqualified under the Gun Control Act of 1968 do not purchase guns. If at the end of the waiting period, the local law enforcement agency has not found any reason to withhold a handgun from someone, then the sale will proceed as normal.

The Brady Bill also provides for this five-day waiting period to "sunset" when it can be replaced by a national "instant check" system. To help make such an instant background check possible, the Brady Bill authorizes $100 million to help States upgrade their criminal justice records. When the check system has achieved an 80% currency of case dispositions in the last five years, the five-day waiting period will be phased out, and gun dealers

THE CLINTON ADMINISTRATION PLAN TO EXPAND COMMUNITY POLICING AND REDUCE GUN VIOLENCE

It is time for America to make a serious commitment to community policing, to having people back on the beat, working the same neighborhoods, making relationships with people in ways that prevent crime . . . . How will the federal government provide 100,000 more police officers? First of all, by getting the crime bill passed.

Bill Clinton
Detroit, Michigan
October 17, 1992

The first duty of government is to keep its citizens safe. The Clinton Administration is offering a number of initiatives to prevent crime and reduce gun violence:

- Expand community policing in cities and towns across America by putting up to 100,000 more officers on the streets.
- Keep handguns out of the hands of criminals by passing the Brady Bill, which will require a five-day waiting period before purchasing a handgun, and taking other measures on assault weapons that will begin to end the arms race in our streets.
- Provide community boot camps, which give young people discipline, training, and a better chance to avoid a life of crime, and provide criminal addicts with drug treatment.
- Pass a crime bill that increases penalties for gun offenses, reforms habeas corpus procedures to raise counsel standards and limit appeals, and imposes federal death penalties for killing a federal law enforcement officer and other heinous crimes.

PUTTING 100,000 MORE OFFICERS ON THE STREET

A first step we can take to reduce crime in America is to put more police on the streets, walking the beat and working with neighbors as partners against crime. The Clinton Administration's anti-crime initiative will expand community policing throughout the nation. This innovative way of thinking about policing has already helped reduce crime in several communities across the country. From New York to St. Louis to Los Angeles, police departments are using this approach to put more police on the streets.

The Clinton Administration has launched a government-wide effort to put 100,000 more officers and public safety personnel on the street:

Supplemental Appropriations: Congress passed and the President signed into law on July 2 an FY93 supplemental appropriations bill that included $150 million in community policing grants to hire and rehire police officers. This competitive grants program will become available to states and localities in early September, and will put more than 2,100 new police on the streets over the next three years.

Policing and Public Safety: The cornerstone of the President's community policing plan to put police on the street is the Policing and Public Safety program that will be part of this year's crime bill. An expansion of the Cop-on-the-Beat legislation introduced by Rep. Charles Schumer (D-NY), the Justice Department program will challenge communities to implement community policing by providing grants, training, and technical assistance for police officers. The program is authorized at $3.4 billion over the next five years, which will help communities put up to 50,000 new officers on the street. The Administration will make full funding for this program a priority.

Police Corps: This four-year, $100 million program will give college scholarships and police training to as many as 4-5,000 students who are willing to make a four-year commitment to serve their communities as police officers. As Governor of Arkansas, President Clinton instituted the nation's first state Police Corps program.

Safe Schools Initiative: Schools should be a safe haven for children, free of weapons, drugs, and crime. Education Secretary Richard Riley has introduced emergency Safe Schools legislation, based on a proposal by Rep. Schumer and others, that will enable local education authorities to hire security personnel and pay for police officers who include schools as part of their community policing "beat". The Administration's budget request includes $475 million for Safe Schools over the next five years, which would fund up to 4,000 sworn and non-sworn officers.

Community Partnerships Against Crime: Some of the nation's worst pockets of crime are concentrated in neighborhoods with public housing. To help make public housing safer, Housing and Urban Development Secretary Cisneros is transforming his department's Drug Elimination Grant Program into a more effective program called Community

Partnerships Against Crime (COMPAC). The Administration's budget request includes more than $700 million over the next five years to put as many as 5,000 sworn and non-sworn officers to work in law enforcement, security, and community policing in public housing.

National Service: Up to one-quarter of the slots in the national service plan Congress is expected to put on the President's desk in September will be available for young people who choose to pay their country and their communities back through public safety and law enforcement. The program could put up to 25,000 young people to work as non-sworn personnel for local police departments, crime prevention groups and other public safety efforts. The President hopes to put the first National Service participants to work by the summer of 1994.

Empowerment Zones and Enterprise Communities: The economic plan which the President signed into law August 10 will create jobs in depressed urban and rural areas around the country by targeting growth incentives and investments into nine Empowerment Zones and 100 Enterprise Communities. The Administration's budget request includes up to $500 million for up to 6-7,000 officers to do community policing in these areas, because businesses can't create jobs where the streets are not safe. While the Empowerment Zone proposal passed as part of budget reconciliation, the Appropriations Committees have not approved the Administration's budget request.

Troops-to-Cops: As we downscale the military in the aftermath of the Cold War, we need to put our best trained, most talented men and women to work keeping America safe here at home. To help police departments tap into the pool of talented military personnel, Secretary of Labor Robert Reich will make as much as $10 million from the Defense Diversification Program available to retrain up to 1,500 veterans who are leaving the military for jobs with state and local police departments.

Paying for Public Safety: Funding for these policing programs is included in the Administration's budget baseline for FY 1994-98. If additional funds are required for these and other Administration initiatives, the Administration will continue to pursue additional budget cuts, including ones the Administration sought but has not yet achieved in Congress this year. It is expected that Congressional leadership and the National Performance Review will identify additional savings. Community policing programs assume some state/local match.

REDUCING GUN VIOLENCE

The Clinton Administration is committed to passing the Brady Bill, and reducing the wave of gun violence that is plaguing America.

Brady Bill: This legislation -- named for former Reagan press secretary James Brady, and championed by his wife Sarah -- will impose a five-day waiting period for handgun purchases, and require background checks so that we can help keep handguns out of the hands of criminals. The Brady Bill passed both houses of Congress last session with bipartisan support.

Assault Weapons: Recent attacks on children at a swimming pool in Washington, D.C., and on a law firm in San Francisco have underscored the need for Congress to consider legislation addressing the sale and availability of semiautomatic assault weapons -- the guns of choice for drug- and gang-related crime.

Presidential Action: Today, the President will sign Presidential Memoranda to suspend the importation of assault pistols, which are not covered under the existing assault weapons import ban, and to toughen enforcement of compliance procedures in issuing federal firearms licenses to gun dealers.

COMMUNITY BOOT CAMPS FOR YOUNG OFFENDERS AND DRUG TREATMENT FOR CRIMINAL ADDICTS

In Arkansas, Governor Clinton pioneered the use of community boot camps, which provide young people the discipline, education, and training they need for a better chance to avoid a life of crime. The Administration will work with Congress to convert closed military bases and other appropriate facilities into a system of boot camps. Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy Lee Brown and Attorney General Janet Reno will work to ensure that we use the criminal justice system to provide criminal addicts with drug treatment.

FEDERAL DEATH PENALTY

The Administration will ask Congress to pass crime legislation that provides the death penalty for nearly 50 offenses -- including killing a federal law enforcement officer and killing state officers in the course of cooperative investigations with federal agencies.

HABEAS CORPUS REFORM

Senator Biden has introduced breakthrough habeas reform legislation, with strong support from district attorneys, state attorneys general, and the Administration. The legislation will, for the first time, limit inmates to filing a single, federal habeas corpus appeal within a six-month time limit. At the same time, the legislation will also assure that all indigent capital defendants will be represented by counsel who meet specific, rigorous experience and qualification standards.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
IN ANTI-CRIME INITIATIVE ANNOUNCEMENT

The Rose Garden

9:43 A.M. EDT

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you very much. Mr. Vice President and Attorney General, distinguished members of the Congress and law enforcement community and concerned American citizens. I'm glad to have all of you here in the Rose Garden today for this important announcement. I want to say a special word of appreciation to Senator Biden and to Chairman Brooks who have worked for a long time to try to get a good crime bill through the United States Congress. I hope today is the beginning of that.

I'm proud to be here with representatives of the nation's police and prosecutors and states attorneys general with whom we have worked closely to fashion this bill. And it gives me particular pleasure to be here with some of the brave men and women who risk their lives every day to protect the people of this country and to preserve the law.

The first duty of any government is to try to keep its citizens safe, but clearly too many Americans are not safe today. We no longer have the freedom from fear for all our citizens that is essential to security and to prosperity. The past four years have seen 90,000 murders in this country. Last month in this city, our nation's capital, in one week 24 murders were committed. When our children must pass through metal detectors to go to school, or worry that they'll be the victim of random drive-by shootings when they're playing in the swimming pool in the summertime, when parents are imprisoned in their own apartments behind locked doors, when we can't walk the streets of our cities without fear, we have lost an essential element of our civilization.

Many of you have heard me tell many times over the last year and a half or so of the immigrant worker in the New York hotel who said if I became President he just wanted me to make his son free. And when I asked him what he meant, he meant that his son couldn't walk to school two blocks without his walking with him, he son couldn't play in the park across the street from their apartment house without his father being there. He said his son was not free.

It's time we put aside the divisions of party and philosophy and put our best efforts to work on a crime plan that will help all the American people and go beyond the cynicism of mere speeches to clear action.

Today I'm proud to be here with the chairs of the House and the Senate Judiciary Committees to announce this plan. The plan is not -- it's tough, it is fair. It will put police on the street and criminals in jail. It expands the federal death penalty to let criminals know that if they are guilty, they will be punished. It lets law abiding citizens know that we are working to give them the safety they deserve. It is the beginning -- just the beginning, but a major beginning of a long-term strategy to make America a more law abiding, peaceful place, and to make Americans more secure, and to give our young people, wherever they live, a better chance to grow up, to learn, to function, to work, and to have a decent life.

This bill first addresses the most pressing need in the fight against crime. There simply are not enough police officers on the beat. The plan is designed to make the major downpayment on the pledge that I made in the campaign to put 100,000 police officers on the street. Thirty years ago there were three police officers for every violent crime. Today the ratio is reversed -- three crimes for every police officer.

Like so many of the best ideas, community policing was spawned in the laboratories of experimentation on the streets of our cities and towns. Then Commissioner Lee Brown of New York, now my drug director, sent some 3,000 additional police officers onto the streets of New York City, launching community policing in every precinct. Then, shortly thereafter for the first time in 36 years, crime rates went down in every major category. It's worked from Boston to St. Louis, to Los Angeles.

The crime bill that will be introduced next month will include $3.4 billion to fund up to 50,000 new police officers to walk the beat. It will also create a police corps to give young people money for college, train them in community policing, and ask them to return to their communities to serve as police officers in return for their education. This will add to the numerous community policing initiatives we have already undertaken.

For example, earlier this year I signed a jobs bill that will make $150 million available right away to hire or rehire police officers. And I'm happy to report that the Labor Department will allocate $10 million to retrain newly discharged troops from the United States Armed Forces to become police officers. After defending our freedom abroad, they'll be given a chance to do so at home.

Second, we must end the insanity of being able to buy or sell a handgun more easily than obtaining a driver's license. The Brady bill, which requires a waiting period before the purchase of a handgun, is simply common sense. I have said so before Congress and before the American people. It is long past time to pass it. If the Congress will pass it, I will sign it. I believe now that Congress will pass it. There is no conceivable excuse to delay this action one more day. (Applause.)

The effort to keep handguns out of the hands of criminals cannot and should not wait for the passage of this legislation. Today I will sign two presidential directives that fight gun violence. I am ordering that the rules governing gun dealers be reviewed to make sure that only legitimate gun dealers are in the business of selling guns. And I am ordering the Treasury Department to take the necessary action to suspend the importation of foreign-made assault pistols, which have become the weapons of choice for many gangs and drug dealers. Too many weapons of war are making their way onto our streets and turning our streets into war zones.

Let me also say that this effort against crime will not be complete if we do not eliminate assault weapons from our street. No other nation would tolerate roving gangs stalking the streets better armed than the police officers of a country. Why do we do it? We shouldn't and we ought to stop it. (Applause.)

Finally, if we are to take back the streets of America from the gangs and the drug dealers, we must do what has not been done before. We must actually enact a crime bill. This legislation will be introduced by Chairman Biden and Brooks, and it will build upon a lot of good ideas from around the country, including one I worked hard on when I was governor, community boot camps for young offenders. Boot camps which give young people the discipline, the training, the treatment they need for a second chance to build a good life.

When it comes to hardened, violent criminals, society has the right to impose the most severe penalties but I believe we should give young people a chance to make it. As I said during the campaign and as I said during my tenure as a governor, I support capital punishment. This legislation will reform procedures by limiting death-row inmates to a single habeas corpus appeal within a six-month time limit but also guaranteeing them a higher standard of legal representation than many have had in the past. Both elements are important if this is to be genuine reform. And it will provide the death penalty for some federal offenses including killing a federal law enforcement officer. (Applause.)

As I said, this is just the beginning of our efforts to restore the rule of law on our streets. To do this we must work with thousands of law enforcement officials around the country who risk their lives every day. We must work with the mayors, with the governors, we must work with the people who deal with children before they become criminals. We must have a broadbased assault on the terrible things that are rending the fabric of life for millions of Americans.

We in Washington must work together, too. For too long crime has been used as a way to divide Americans with rhetoric. It is time, and I thank the Republican members of Congress who are here today, it is time to use crime as a way to unite Americans through action.

I call on the Democrats and the Republicans together to work with us and with the law enforcement community to craft the best possible crime legislation. Last week we began to break the gridlock with a new budget and an economic plan. Now we can do so again in ways that unite us as Americans. And I pledge to you my best and strongest efforts to pass this bill at the earliest possible time. There are good things in it. It will make our people safer. It will shore up our police officers, it will move America in the right direction.

May I now introduce the person who has done a great deal to do all those things just in the last few months, our distinguished Attorney General Janet Reno. (Applause.)

Q -- with the Pope tomorrow, what you anticipate from it?

THE PRESIDENT: -- I'm really very, very excited, I'm looking forward to the visit and I'm honored that he's come to the United States.

Q Mr. President, there are all sorts of attempts to water down the Brady bill. Are you one of those purists that Chairman Brooks talked about or would you consider amendments to water it down?

THE PRESIDENT: That bill shouldn't be amended. It's a modest bill, and I think it ought to be passed like it is. We would like to see the Senate go on and do it.

I feel very strongly about it. I think -- I also associate myself with the other remarks of the Attorney General. I think it's the beginning. It's not the end of the process by any means.

Q What would you like to see on handguns?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, I think extending the ban on imported handguns is important, which I will do today. Then Congress is debating this whole issue of assault weapons generally, broad definition -- and we'll see what we can come out with. But you know there's a bill in the House, there's a bill in the Senate and I'd like the crime bill to pass and then I'd like for that to be debated.

Q Would you do the Brady bill separate?

Q Yes, would you do the Brady bill separately or as part of the crime --

THE PRESIDENT: It's fine with me, whatever -- done. I would prefer to get it as quickly as possible but I think the important thing is that it be passed in a strong and clear and unambiguous form.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

SUBJECT: GUN DEALER LICENSING

A major problem facing the nation today is the ease with which criminals, the mentally deranged, and even children can acquire firearms. The gruesome consequences of this ready availability of guns is found in the senseless violence occurring throughout the country with numbing regularity. While there is not one solution to the plague of gun-related violence, there is more than sufficient evidence indicating that a major part of the problem involves the present system of gun dealer licensing, which encourages a flourishing criminal market in guns.

The Gun Control Act of 1968 established a licensing system for persons engaged in businesses of manufacturing, importing and dealing in firearms. These licensees are allowed to ship firearms in interstate commerce among themselves, and are required to abide by State laws and local ordinances in their sale of firearms to non-licensees. They are also prohibited from selling firearms to felons, certain other classes of persons, and generally to out of state persons. This Act also established a comprehensive recordkeeping system and authorized the Secretary to conduct inspections to ensure compliance with the Act. The statutory qualifications for a licensee are that the applicant is at least 21 years of age, is not a felon or other person prohibited from possessing firearms, has not willfully violated the Gun Control Act, and has premises from which he intends to conduct business. The license fee for a basic dealer's license is only $10 a year.

The minimal qualification standards of the statute, coupled with policies of neglect and opposition to legitimate regulatory efforts by past Administrations, leave us with a situation where in some ways we have made it easier to get a license to sell guns than it is to get and keep a driver's license. Today there are in excess of 287,000 Federal firearms licensees, and a great number of these persons probably should not be licensed. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) estimates that only about 30 percent of these are bona fide storefront gun dealers. ATF estimates that probably 40 percent of the licensees conduct no business at all, and are simply persons who use the license to obtain the benefits of trading interstate and buying guns at wholesale. The remaining 30 percent of licensees engage in a limited level of business, typically out of private residences. While the Federal statute creates no minimum level of business activity to qualify for a license, many of the licensees in this category operate in violation of State and local licensing, taxing, and other business-related laws. Since the overall purpose of the Gun Control Act was to assist State and local gun control efforts, at the very least we need to coordinate the Federal licensing process with the appropriate State and local agencies.

This Administration is committed to doing more to prevent this criminal market in illegal guns from continuing to flourish. Since all new firearms used in crime have at some point passed through the legitimate distribution system, Federal firearms licenses represent the first line of defense in our efforts to keep guns out of the hands of criminals.

Accordingly, you have informed me that you will direct the Department of Treasury and ATF to take whatever steps are necessary, to the extent permitted by law, to ensure compliance with present licensing requirements, such as:

- (a) improving the thoroughness and effectiveness of background checks in screening dealer license applicants;
- (b) revising the application process to require the applicant to supply all information relevant to establishing qualification for a license, and to require more reliable forms of identification of the applicant, such as fingerprinting, to assist in identifying an applicant's criminal or other disqualifying history;
- (c) making the "premises" requirement of the statute more meaningful by increasing field checks and the use of other procedures to verify compliance;
- (d) increasing the scrutiny of licensees' multiple handgun sales reports and providing automated access to multiple sales report information by serial number for firearms trace purposes;
- (e) requiring dealers to obtain more reliable identification from purchasers;
- (f) reviewing sanctioning policies to determine the feasibility and desirability of adding the option of license suspension for certain violations;
- (g) expanding the use of cooperative agreements with State and local law enforcement agencies to address licensing and trafficking problems;
- (h) expanding ATF's capabilities to utilize effectively the firearms transaction records of out-of-business licensees for tracing purposes through the use of automation and other technology.

Acting pursuant to your statutory authority, you shall make such determinations and issue orders, regulations and rulings, as appropriate, to achieve the objectives stated in this memorandum.

I further direct that you initiate these actions as soon as possible and report your progress implementing these and other measures consistent with the foregoing to me within 90 days and annually thereafter.

All Executive agencies shall, to the extent permitted by law, cooperate with and assist you in carrying out the objectives of this memorandum. You shall consult with the Attorney General, the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, and other Executive agencies as necessary to coordinate and implement the objective of this memorandum. To the maximum extent possible, the Attorney General, through the Office of Justice Programs, Bureau of Justice Assistance, will expand support to State and local agencies working with ATF on joint projects relating to licensing and trafficking in firearms. Nothing in this memorandum shall be construed to require actions contrary to applicable provisions of the law. You are hereby authorized and directed to publish this memorandum in the Federal Register.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

SUBJECT: IMPORTATION OF ASSAULT PISTOLS

A category of pistols commonly referred to as assault pistols has increasingly become the weapon of choice for drug dealers, street gang members, and other violent criminals. These pistols, generally characterized by their bulky military-style appearance and large magazine capacity, include domestically manufactured TEC-9's and MAC-10's as well as imported models like the Uzi pistol and the H&K SP-89. Their popularity appears to stem from their intimidating appearance and their considerable firepower.

These weapons have been used to harm and terrorize many Americans, particularly our children, in recent years. As a result, it is no longer possible to stand by and witness the deadly proliferation of these weapons without acting to protect our communities.

Although addressing the domestic production of these weapons requires a change in the statute, which I support, existing law already bans the importation of firearms unless they are determined to be particularly suitable for or readily adaptable for sporting purposes. I am informed that shortly after enactment of the Gun Control Act of 1968, the Treasury Department adopted a factoring system to determine whether handguns were importable pursuant to this standard. The system entails the examination of the firearm against a set of criteria, with points being awarded for various features. A minimum score is required before importation is approved. The criteria and weighted point system were designed to address the crime gun of the day, the cheap, easily concealable "Saturday Night Special." Under this 25-year old system, small caliber, easily concealable handguns score few points and are banned from importation. However, assault-type pistols -- the new crime gun of the day -- because of their large size, weight and caliber, easily score the necessary points to qualify for importation even though none of these pistols appears to have any legitimate sporting purpose. Accordingly, it is time to reassess how the present regulatory approach can be made more effective in achieving the legislative directive to preclude importation of firearms that are not particularly suitable for or readily adaptable for sporting purposes.

I hereby direct you to take the necessary steps to reexamine the current importation factoring system to determine whether the system should be modified to ensure that all non-sporting handguns are properly denied importation. You have advised me that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) will issue a notice of proposed rulemaking in the near future that will propose changes to the factoring system to address the assault pistol problem. You have further advised me that effective immediately action on pending applications to import these weapons will be suspended, and that final action on any application will be delayed until this review process is completed.

Nothing herein shall be construed to require actions contrary to applicable provisions of law. You are hereby authorized and directed to publish this memorandum in the Federal Register.

Clinton's Anti-Crime Package:

DATE: 8-12-93

More Police, Curb on Pistol Imports

By Ruth Marcus and Michael Isikoff
Washington Post Staff Writers

President Clinton yesterday moved to ban the importation of foreign-made assault pistols and make it more difficult to obtain federal gun licenses as part of a broad anti-crime package that White House officials say will now move toward the top of the administration's agenda.

"The first duty of any government is to try to keep its citizens safe, but clearly too many Americans are not safe today," Clinton said in a Rose Garden ceremony with uniformed police officers standing behind him. "It is time we put aside the divisions of party and philosophy and put our best efforts to work on a crime plan that will help all the American people and go beyond cynicism of mere speeches to clear action."

The overall plan announced by Clinton yesterday and expected to be officially introduced when Congress returns from its summer recess next month contains a grab bag of proposals designed to have bipartisan appeal: It includes funds to put more police officers on the streets, a five-day waiting period for handgun purchases, nearly 50 new federal death penalty statutes and strict limits on appeals filed by death row inmates—a step that could accelerate the number of executions carried out by the states.

Many of the legislative proposals were contained in a crime bill that stalled in Congress last year.

While the prospects for the bill seemed uncertain, Clinton took two steps yesterday by executive order that gun control groups say could have quick impact. One would tighten licensing requirements for federal firearms dealers. The second would halt the importation of semiautomatic assault pistols, such as Israeli-made Uzis, and other high-powered weapons that have become popular among criminals.

Currently, virtually anybody can obtain a federal firearms license and thereby obtain unlimited quantities of high-powered weapons simply by filling out an application and paying a $10 annual fee. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms officials say that about 280,000 individuals now hold such licenses, only about 30 percent of whom actually conduct any commercial business.

"It's a major loophole by which individuals get around waiting-period requirements" and other state and local gun control laws, said Jack Killorin, ATF spokesman. "We've had drug dealers [obtain licenses], we've had people set up shops in hotel rooms and public housing projects . . . criminals of all stripes."

Clinton's order would permit the agency for the first time to fingerprint applicants, conduct more extensive background checks, and take other steps to ensure that unqualified applicants do not receive licenses, officials said yesterday. "We plan to move relatively quickly within the space of several months," said Killorin.

The ban on the importation of semiautomatic assault pistols expands a ban on foreign-made assault rifles that was imposed by President George Bush in 1989. It would halt about 3,500 weapons that flow into the United States a year. Some of them, such as the Israeli-made Uzi and the Heckler & Koch pistol, are patterned after military-style submachine guns and have become the "weapon of choice" in recent years for many street gangs, federal officials say.

Officials acknowledge, however, that the ban on pistols, like the ban on assault rifles, will have a relatively minor impact unless it is accompanied by legislation that would prohibit the manufacture of similar domestically made weapons that actually account for the bulk of the market. Clinton vowed to push for such a measure as part of his package, but the National Rifle Association yesterday immediately attacked the import ban and the proposed legislation.

"This bears out the real intent: to disarm American citizens incrementally for reasons having nothing to do with violent crime," said James Jay Baker, chief lobbyist for the NRA.

Although some Republicans attended the White House announcement yesterday, party leaders signaled their unwillingness to cede the politically attractive issue to the Democrats with a proposal of their own to build more prisons, impose more mandatory prison sentences and omit any gun control.

Clinton described his $3.4 billion program to help communities put as many as 50,000 new police officers on the street over the next five years as "the major down payment" on his campaign pledge to add funding for 100,000 new officers.

Congressional action on crime fizzled last year in a dispute over limiting appeals in death penalty cases, as Republicans charged that the legislation did not go far enough to end what they described as endless rounds of appeals. This year, the Clinton administration made little effort to recast the measure, granting authority to Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph R.

Biden Jr. (D-Del.) to negotiate a compromise on the federal appeals issue with state prosecutors and attorneys general.

Under the new measure, death row inmates would generally be limited to one round of having their cases heard in the federal courts through habeas corpus petitions and would have to file such claims within six months of having their claims rejected in the state court system. Under last year's bill, the deadline was one year.

Under the proposal, there would be new standards designed to make certain that lawyers representing death row inmates in such proceedings have the necessary experience to handle capital cases and receive adequate compensation. Administration and congressional aides said there would be new federal funding for such lawyers but could not provide cost estimates.

Speaking at the White House yesterday, Plymouth County (Mass.) District Attorney William O'Malley, representing the National District Attorneys Association, called the provisions "the very best" possible.

On another controversial issue—gun control—the administration decided not to choose sides between Biden, who wants gun legislation considered separately from an overall crime bill, and his counterpart in the House, Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.), who wants crime and guns done together.

Clinton yesterday called for passage of the "Brady bill" imposing a five-day waiting period on handgun purchases as well as the ban on domestic and imported assault weapons. Clinton termed the Brady bill, named for former presidential press secretary Jim Brady, who was injured in the 1981 assassination attempt on President Ronald Reagan, "simply common sense" and said "it is long past time to pass it."

But asked whether it should be part of the overall crime package or not, Clinton said simply that "the important thing is that it be passed in a strong and clear and unambiguous form."

The administration is not introducing a crime bill of its own but is relying on Biden and Brooks. Administration officials spent much of last week trying to iron out differences between the House and Senate versions but were unable to work out whether guns should be part of the larger bill or not.

In deference to Attorney General Janet Reno's criticism of mandatory minimum sentences, Biden has dropped from his bill last year's plan to add about a dozen new mandatory minimum sentences, mostly for drug-related offenses. But Republicans in their plan vowed to push for more mandatory sentences and include $3 billion in funding for new prison construction to house more offenders.

Clinton Calls for More Police, Fewer Execution Appeals

■ Law: Anti-crime plan also would target illegitimate gun dealers. Much of package was negotiated in advance, but GOP senators may object to arms purchase delay.

By DAVID LAUTER, TIMES STAFF WRITER

WASHINGTON—President Clinton proposed a package of anti-crime measures Wednesday aimed at increasing the number of police officers on the streets, cracking down on illegitimate gun dealers and significantly changing the way death penalty cases are handled in U.S. courts.

"The first duty of any government is to try to keep its citizens safe," Clinton said as he announced his plans in the White House Rose Garden, where he was flanked by the now-typical phalanx of uniformed police officers that presidents round up when they announce anti-crime initiatives.

The proposals, negotiated in advance with congressional leaders, state attorneys general and prosecutors, are aimed at breaking a logjam that prevented the passage of anti-crime legislation by Congress last year. But the package could still be blocked over the so-called Brady bill, which calls for a waiting period for gun purchases. That bill—named for former Ronald Reagan Press Secretary James S. Brady, who was injured in a presidential assassination attempt—has been approved by both houses of Congress in the past but faces a threatened filibuster from Senate Republicans, who have vowed to fight it this time.

A crime bill passed both houses of Congress last year only to die in the closing days of the session amid partisan rancor.

As a sign of bipartisanship, White House officials invited two Republican senators—William S. Cohen of Maine and Larry Pressler of South Dakota—to attend Clinton's announcement. Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole (R-Kan.), who has criticized many Clinton proposals, issued a relatively supportive statement about the crime initiative, asserting that Clinton had decided to "follow the Republican lead" in making his proposals.

In part to speed the process along, Clinton will not craft his own legislation but will support bills already introduced in Congress by House and Senate Democratic leaders.

The bills are largely similar to last year's legislation but contain three new elements.

• First, the new proposals would limit the federal appeals that a Death Row inmate can file.

That issue was a key provision that caused last year's bill to stall. At the time, state attorneys general objected that the legislation, as written, actually would lengthen the appeals process. Administration and congressional officials have reached a compromise that could significantly speed passage of the bill.

Under the compromise, defendants would be required to file federal habeas corpus petitions—the final step in the review process—within 60 days of their last appeal. Petitions could be filed later only if a defendant could show that he has new evidence that was unavailable before. The goal is to reduce the delays in executions caused by habeas corpus petitions.

Although many state officials across the country are going along with the compromise, California Atty. Gen. Dan Lungren said he continues to oppose the proposed changes, arguing that they would not aid prosecutors sufficiently.

Defense lawyers, however, have argued that any restriction on appeals would lead to the execution of innocent people who were mistakenly convicted, a point conceded ed in part by U.S. Deputy Atty. Gen. Philip B. Heymann.

Because of the guarantee that a person could still appeal if new evidence is found, "I think that the risk of wrongly executing someone will not be greatly increased," Heymann said. "I can't say it wouldn't be increased at all."

In return for restricting appeals, the government would require states to guarantee that Death Row defendants are represented by attorneys at every stage of the process. California has such a requirement but many states do not.

The lawyers would have to meet minimum competency standards and would have to be paid a "reasonable" fee.

Now, in many states with large numbers of capital cases, defendants often are represented by poorly trained and underpaid—or volunteer—lawyers. As a result, large numbers of cases are thrown out on appeal, often because of trial procedures later found to be flawed.

• In a second new element, $3.4 billion would be spent in grants to states and localities over the next five years to increase the number of police on the streets. White House officials said that, if Congress approves the funds, the money would help pay for 50,000 new officers.

During his campaign, Clinton talked about placing 100,000 more officers on the streets. White House officials said that, in addition to the crime bill, several other initiatives would move the nation toward that goal. Clinton's national service bill, for example, would allow young people to work for police departments in jobs that would free more officers to patrol the streets.

• A final new element involves gun dealers. Now, almost anyone who pays a $30 registration fee can obtain a three-year gun dealer's license without undergoing even a cursory background check to determine if the applicant has a criminal record. In the majority of cases, the "dealers" do not even sell guns, government statistics show. Merely obtaining a license, however, allows a person to buy guns for himself without having to comply with many state gun laws.

Over the last decade, the number of licensed dealers has soared to about 287,000.

Clinton directed the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to change those regulations to crack down on illegitimate dealers. Much of that tightening, officials said, can be done without new legislation.

Clinton also directed the bureau to change current regulations to bar the import of assault pistols. Officials conceded that nearly all assault pistols are made domestically so that an import ban would have little impact. But they argued that the new rules would close a "loophole" that could be exploited in the future.

Clinton has asked separately for legislation that would ban domestic production of assault weapons, but the proposal faces strong opposition from the National Rifle Assn.

Crime Plan's Key Components

Highlights of President Clinton's anti-crime plan:

- More police: A five-year, $3.4-billion program to help communities put up to 50,000 more police officers on the streets.
- Gun safeguards: The pending Brady bill, which calls for a five-day wait on handgun purchases and for background checks on would-be buyers. The waiting period would phase out as each state upgrades its criminal records and computerization to provide instant checks.
- Death penalty expansion: Expansion of the federal death penalty to cover nearly 50 offenses, including killing a federal law enforcement officer. In many cases, it simply would restore the penalty to crimes that carried it before the Supreme Court overturned capital punishment in 1972.
- Limit on appeals: A limit on federal habeas corpus appeals, primarily by Death Row inmates, to reduce delays in carrying out sentences. Inmates would get only one federal habeas appeal, and that would, for the first time, have to be filed within six months after completion of other appeals. Poor defendants in death-penalty cases would get lawyers who met tough standards to ensure that they got fair chances during trial and appeals. There would be exceptions to the time limit for evidence of innocence.
- College aid: A four-year, $100-million Police Corps initiative, giving college scholarships and police training to up to 5,000 students who are willing to make a four-year commitment to police work.
- Bases as youth camps: Conversion of closed military bases and other facilities to boot camps for young offenders.
- Others: Outside the crime bill plans, other proposals totaling $1.8 billion would provide for 45,000 more sworn and non-sworn police and public safety workers. They include an Education Department-funded Safe Schools program, Housing and Urban Development Department-funded public housing safety program and the national service plan in which 25,000 young people would serve as non-sworn public safety workers to repay college grants.

TDD (202) 514-1888

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT TO HELP COMMUNITIES
HIRE OFFICERS TO POLICE NEIGHBORHOODS

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Attorney General Janet Reno today announced details of a new Clinton Administration program to help communities fight crime more effectively. Through the new Police Hiring Supplement Program, the Department will award grants to law enforcement agencies to hire officers as part of their overall strategy to address crime through community policing.

"This program will help law enforcement agencies take a new approach to fighting crime by building partnerships with community groups and residents," the Attorney General said. "Together they will develop a strategy for preventing crime, promoting problem-solving and enhancing public safety in their neighborhoods."

Under the discretionary grant program, law enforcement agencies from around the nation will vie for $150 million available to help implement long-term policing strategies that address local needs.

(MORE)

The Police Hiring Supplement monies will be available for a three-year period to help communities most in need pay the salaries and benefits of sworn law enforcement officers who are being hired or rehired.

"These grants will help law enforcement agencies hire up to 2,100 more police officers," Reno said. "This is the first step toward fulfilling the President's commitment to put additional police on the street. We are working to pass a crime bill to help communities hire 50,000 new officers and further expand community policing."

The $150 million for this program is part of the supplemental budget appropriation requested by the President. The Department will administer the plan under the Bureau of Justice Assistance's (BJA) Edward Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Program.

Fifty percent of the funds ($75 million) will be awarded to law enforcement agencies serving populations of 150,000 or more. The other 50 percent will be awarded to jurisdictions serving populations of under 150,000.

Application kits are being sent to law enforcement agencies across the country, to city and county officials, as well as to state criminal justice planning agencies.

The Department will consider each application based on a community's public safety and economic needs. Applicants must provide a strategy describing how additional sworn officers would lead to increased community policing. They also must outline their plan for continuing their initiatives and retaining positions created after the three-year grant period ends. In addition, they must give assurances that grants will not be used to supplant local or state dollars.

Applications will be considered in three rounds, with deadlines of October 14, November 1 and December 1. The first awards will be announced in November and December.

The Department has established a Response Center specifically to provide law enforcement agencies with information and assistance in preparing grant applications. The phone number is 202-307-1480.

POLICE HIRING SUPPLEMENT PROGRAM

FACT SHEET

PROGRAM GOALS

- To increase the number of sworn law enforcement officers serving areas where they are needed most.
- To improve the long-term ability of law enforcement agencies to engage in community policing by deploying additional sworn law enforcement officers.
- To improve public safety through innovative crime prevention, including community policing.
- To hire additional law enforcement officers to increase sworn officer deployment and expand community policing designed to prevent crime, promote problem solving, and enhance public safety.
- To rehire law enforcement officers who have been laid off (as a result of state and local budget reductions) to increase sworn officer deployment and expand community policing.

FUNDING

- The $150 million available for this program is part of the supplemental budget appropriation requested by President Clinton. $75 million is available for jurisdictions at or above 150,000 population; $75 million for those below 150,000.
- Grant funds are available only for the salaries and fringe benefits of hired or rehired sworn law enforcement officers over a three-year period. Funding for overtime costs is prohibited.
- The program will provide funding to hire up to 2,100 officers.

AWARD AMOUNTS

- $1 million maximum for jurisdictions below 150,000 population.
- $2 million maximum for jurisdictions between 150,000 and 749,999.
- $3 million maximum for jurisdictions between 750,000 and 2 million.
- $4 million maximum for jurisdictions above 2 million population.

FEDERAL SHARE

- Federal share per officer may not exceed the greater of: (1) 75 percent of the total salary and benefits over the life of the grant, up to a maximum of $75,000; or (2) 50 percent of the total salary and benefits over the life of the grant. Federal share per officer may be increased upon submission of evidence of extraordinary economic hardship.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

- Law enforcement agencies, or a consortia of law enforcement agencies, that serve local communities can apply. State law enforcement agencies may apply if they have law enforcement jurisdiction and provide local law enforcement services to communities within their state.

SELECTION CRITERIA

- Public Safety Need. Applicants must demonstrate their jurisdiction's need for additional sworn law enforcement officers, as well as the reasons local funding is not available to meet these needs. Public safety factors include Uniform Crime Report data, calls for service, personnel information, expenditures for police services, and the overall crime picture. Economic factors include the unemployment rate, natural disasters, and base and plant closings.
- Community Policing Strategy. Applicants must develop a three-year strategy that specifies how additional sworn law enforcement officers would lead to increased community policing focused on crime and related problems in the jurisdiction. Community involvement and effective interagency coordination should be emphasized.
- Implementation Plan. Applicants must include an implementation plan that specifies how program funds will be used to deploy additional sworn police for community policing activities.
- Continuation and Retention Plan. Applicants must describe how they intend to continue the project and retain the positions created with project funds following the conclusion of the grant period.
- Additional Resource Commitments. Applicants must describe sources and amounts of outside funds or resources that will be provided by other agencies or organizations in support of the project. A plan for drawing upon outside resources, or an explanation of why no other resources are available, must also be included.
- Budget Proposal. Applicants must include a budget and a budget narrative that identifies salary and fringe benefit costs.
- Equitable Distribution. Consideration may be given to equitable distribution of grants based on geographic or other factors.

APPLICATION/AWARD DATES

- Applications will be considered in three rounds, with deadlines of October 14, November 1, and December 1. Award announcements are expected in November and December.

CONTACT

- The Department has established a Response Center to provide law enforcement agencies with assistance in preparing grant applications for this program. The telephone number is 202-307-1480.

BIDEN INTRODUCES COMPREHENSIVE CRIME BILL IN SENATE

Washington, D.C. -- Senator Joseph R. Biden, Jr., (D-DE), Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, today introduced the Violent Crime and Law Enforcement Act of 1993.

Noting that the bill enjoys the strong bipartisan support of leading police organizations and prosecutors, as well as the President and the Attorney General of the United States, Biden urged his colleagues to break the crime deadlock and "pass a bill the American people so desperately need and so greatly deserve."

Biden also said, "There are four things we know about crime: They form the cornerstones of the bill I introduce today.

"First, more police on our streets means less crime. Plain and simple, a police officer standing on the street corner reduces the opportunities for violence. The Federal government must help get more police on our streets, and the bill I introduce today will meet the President's '100,000 cops' pledge, when added to the 50,000 new police officers provided for in other legislation.

"Second, punishment for all criminals must be swift and certain, and effective ... This crime bill expands proven programs that deter offenders from the criminal path --

- o "providing and mandating drug treatment -- a proven method for cutting recidivism rates;
- o "offering alternatives to expensive new prison construction like boot camp prisons for first-time and non-violent offenders;
- o "focusing on young offenders -- who commit an increasing percentage of our serious and violent crimes -- to put them in prison or to put them in treatment.

"Third, when I arrived in the Senate in 1973, the most violent offenders in America were 18 years three months old; now, the most violent offenders in America are 15 years and four months. The reason the criminal is getting younger is that we have not, in the past, addressed the juvenile justice system. By contrast, this bill focuses on youth. It gives schools the opportunity to hire teachers for after-school anti-drug and anti-crime counseling, and provides for police patrol officers, and for safety measures, such as video surveillance devices. It also contains strong measures against gang violence and against using children to distribute drugs."

"Fourth, we have got to do much more to keep guns out of the hands of convicted criminals .... That is why a critical component of the Democrats' plan is to pass the Brady bill and an assault weapons ban.

Biden said, "Sarah Brady has asked that the Senate consider the bill separately, on its own, rather than as part of a larger anti-crime bill. I will comply with this request and will continue to work with Sarah Brady and the sponsors of the bill to gain passage of this legislation."

"In addition, I will work to support the efforts of Senators DeConcini and Metzenbaum to pass a comprehensive assault weapons ban that will prohibit the sale of specifically identified military-style assault guns."

Key elements of the Biden bill include:

- o A five-year community policing "cop on the beat" initiative to put 50,000 police officers on the street, which, together with provisions in other legislation, meet the President's pledge of 100,000 new police officers;
- o Assistance where it is needed, at the state and local levels, to provide drug treatment programs for prisons to assure that prisoners, when released, are drug free, and to create boot camps for young, nonviolent offenders;
- o The death penalty for nearly 50 federal offenses, including murder of a law enforcement officer, drive-by shootings, and terrorist killings;
- o New criminal offenses and enhanced penalties for violent crimes, such as car-jacking, gun crimes, and drug trafficking; and
- o $100 million to local schools to provide police patrol officers, for teachers for after school anti-drug and anti-crime counseling, to provide safety measures, such as video surveillance devices, and education and training for the prevention of crime, violence, and drug and alcohol abuse.

Copies of Senator Biden's floor statement and a summary of the bill are included.

SENATOR JOSEPH R. BIDEN, JR.
STATEMENT ON INTRODUCTION OF THE
"VIOLENT CRIME CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1993"
SEPTEMBER 23, 1993

I RISE TODAY TO INTRODUCE THE "VIOLENT CRIME CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1993" -- A COMPREHENSIVE, TOUGH, AND EFFECTIVE CRIME FIGHTING MEASURE THAT DESERVES THE SUPPORT OF THE ENTIRE SENATE AND THE CONGRESS. IT IS A BILL THAT HAS THE SUPPORT OF THE PRESIDENT, THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, LAW ENFORCEMENT AND PROSECUTORS.

I HOPE THE INTRODUCTION OF THIS BILL WILL MARK THE END OF THE EASY RHETORIC ABOUT WHO SOUNDS "TOUGHER" ON CRIME -- AND BEGIN THE HARD PROCESS OF ENACTING SOLUTIONS THAT EFFECTIVELY FIGHT OUR NATION'S CRITICAL CRIME PROBLEM.

FOR TOO LONG, A MAJORITY OF THIS BODY HAS PREFERRED POLITICS TO PRAGMATICS. LAST CONGRESS, WE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO PASS NEEDED CRIME LEGISLATION THAT CONTAINED PROGRAM AFTER PROGRAM SUPPORTED BY DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS ALIKE.

INSTEAD, WE REMAINED MIRED IN DISAGREEMENT OVER A FEW PROVISIONS THAT SPARKED POLITICAL HEAT OUT OF ALL PROPORTION TO THEIR RELATIVE IMPORTANCE TO EFFECTIVELY FIGHTING CRIME.

IN DOING SO, WE LOST THE CHANCE TO ENACT INTO LAW A BILL THAT INCLUDED SUBSTANTIAL AID TO STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT, THE DEATH PENALTY, HABEAS CORPUS REFORM, THE BRADY BILL, AND OTHER ANTI-CRIME MEASURES -- A BILL THAT ENJOYED THE SUPPORT OF NEARLY EVERY MAJOR LAW ENFORCEMENT GROUP IN THE NATION.

TODAY I INTRODUCE A BILL THAT HAS THE STRONG SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE I MENTIONED ABOVE. NOTWITHSTANDING THIS SUPPORT, I HAVE NO ILLUSIONS THAT THE PATH TO ENACTING A CRIME BILL WILL BE EASY. THE HABITS OF THE PAST HALF-DOZEN YEARS WILL BE HARD TO BREAK.

I HOPE THAT EACH AND EVERY ONE OF MY COLLEAGUES WILL RESPOND BY PUTTING THE POLITICAL GAMESMANSHIP BEHIND US -- AND JOIN THE PRESIDENT, THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, AND ME TO PASS A BILL THE AMERICAN PEOPLE SO DESPERATELY NEED AND SO GREATLY DESERVE.

AT BOTTOM, PASSING THIS BILL IS ABOUT KEEPING FAITH WITH THE AMERICAN PEOPLE:

-- IT IS ABOUT GIVING PRIORITY TO STEPS WE KNOW CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN FIGHTING CRIME -- AND MAKING COMPROMISES ON THOSE ISSUES THAT REMAIN CONTROVERSIAL; AND

-- IT IS ABOUT PUTTING BEHIND US ARGUMENTS OVER THE RELATIVE MERITS OF THE "CONSERVATIVE" APPROACH TO CRIME VERSUS THE "LIBERAL" ANSWER, AND FOCUSING ON WHAT REALLY WORKS TO DETER CRIME AND IMPROVE THE SAFETY OF OUR COMMUNITIES --

EVEN IF THAT MEANS DRAWING FROM BOTH THE LIBERAL AND THE CONSERVATIVE ANSWERS.

THERE ARE THREE THINGS WE KNOW ABOUT CRIME: THEY FORM THE CORNERSTONES OF THE BILL I INTRODUCE TODAY.

FIRST, MORE POLICE ON OUR STREETS MEANS LESS CRIME.

PLAIN AND SIMPLE, A POLICE OFFICER STANDING ON THE STREET CORNER REDUCES THE OPPORTUNITIES FOR VIOLENCE.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT MUST HELP GET MORE POLICE ON OUR STREETS, AND THE BILL I INTRODUCE TODAY WILL PUT 50,000 NEW POLICE OFFICERS ON THE BEAT -- THE LARGEST SINGLE PIECE OF THE PRESIDENT'S "100,000 COPS" PLEDGE.

SECOND, PUNISHMENT FOR ALL CRIMINALS MUST BE SWIFT AND CERTAIN, AND EFFECTIVE.

IT IS NOT ENOUGH TO LOCK CRIMINALS UP AND THROW AWAY THE KEY -- WE WILL BANKRUPT OURSELVES TRYING AT THE RATE WE'VE BEEN GOING.

THIS CRIME BILL EXPANDS PROVEN PROGRAMS THAT DETER OFFENDERS FROM THE CRIMINAL PATH --

- * PROVIDING AND MANDATING DRUG TREATMENT -- A PROVEN METHOD FOR CUTTING RECIDIVISM RATES;
- * OFFERING ALTERNATIVES LIKE BOOT CAMP PRISONS AND "DRUG COURTS" AS IN DADE COUNTY FOR FIRST-TIME AND NON-VIOLENT OFFENDERS;
- * FOCUSING ON INTERVENING QUICKLY AND INTENSIVELY WITH YOUNG OFFENDERS -- WHO COMMIT AN INCREASING PERCENTAGE OF OUR SERIOUS AND VIOLENT CRIMES -- TO TURN THEM TOWARDS PRODUCTIVE, LAWFUL LIVES.

THIRD, WE HAVE GOT TO DO MUCH MORE TO KEEP GUNS OUT OF THE HANDS OF CONVICTED CRIMINALS.

TODAY, THIS NATION ALLOWS CONVICTED CRIMINALS TO WALK INTO GUN STORES WITH A FEW DOLLARS IN THEIR POCKETS AND WALK OUT TEN MINUTES LATER WITH A DEADLY WEAPON IN THEIR HANDS.

THAT IS WHY A CRITICAL COMPONENT OF THE DEMOCRAT'S PLAN IS TO PASS THE BRADY BILL AND AN ASSAULT WEAPONS BAN.

AT THE REQUEST OF SARAH BRADY AND SENATOR METZENBAUM, THE BILL I INTRODUCE TODAY DOES NOT CONTAIN THE BRADY BILL.

SENATOR METZENBAUM INTRODUCED THE BRADY BILL, S. 414, ON FEBRUARY 24, 1993. SARAH BRADY HAS ASKED THAT THE SENATE CONSIDER THE BILL FREE-STANDING, RATHER THAN AS PART OF A LARGER ANTI-CRIME BILL.

I WILL COMPLY WITH THIS REQUEST AND WILL CONTINUE TO WORK WITH SARAH BRADY AND THE SPONSORS OF THE BILL TO GAIN PASSAGE OF

MERITS SUPPORT.

IN PARTICULAR, WITH THE SUPPORT OF THE NATION'S PROSECUTORS AS CONVINCING PROOF OF THE MERITS OF THIS REFORM PROVISION, I HOPE THAT MY REPUBLICAN COLLEAGUES WILL NOW JOIN WITH ME TO SUPPORT THIS CRIME BILL.

IT IS OUR CHANCE TO MAKE A REAL IMPACT IN THE NATION'S ABILITY TO FIGHT THE VIOLENCE AND THE CRIME THAT VICTIMIZES MILLIONS OF INNOCENT AMERICANS EVERY YEAR.

LET US END THE GRIDLOCK AND DEAL WITH THE CRIME ISSUE. LET'S NOT WASTE OUR TIME FIGHTING EACH OTHER, WHEN WE SHOULD BE SPENDING IT -- ON BEHALF OF THE AMERICAN PUBLIC -- PASSING A BILL THAT WILL TRULY HELP US WIN THE WAR AGAINST CRIME AND DRUGS.

BIDEN CRIME BILL – MAJOR PROVISIONS

COMMUNITY POLICING

Authorizes five-year, $3.4 billion community policing "cop on the beat" program to put 50,000 police officers on the street – a key component of the President's "100,000 police" initiative. Authorizes $200 million for college scholarships to students who commit to 4 years service as police officers. Provides additional educational scholarships for in-service officers.

STATE & LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

Authorizes $1.8 billion for state and local law enforcement for FY 1995 – to support police, rural anti-crime efforts, juvenile justice, corrections, and drug treatment in the criminal justice system.

PRISONS AND BOOT CAMPS

Authorizes $300 million for military-style boot camps for nonviolent offenders and regional drug-treatment prisons for violent drug criminals. Mandates that state and local law enforcement agencies be notified of the release of drug and violent criminals to federal supervision. Enhances penalties for drug trafficking in federal prisons.

"DRUG COURT" PROGRAMS FOR OFFENDERS

Authorizes three-year, $1.2 billion program for "Drug Courts" – that require drug testing, drug treatment and alternative punishments for young offenders.

DEATH PENALTY

Provides the largest-ever expansion of the federal death penalty to cover 47 offenses, including murder of a law enforcement officer, drive-by-shootings, and carjackers who murder.

HABEAS CORPUS REFORM

Limits inmates to a single federal habeas corpus appeal, subject to a first-ever 6 month time limit. Provides indigent capital defendants with qualified counsel.

TERRORISM

Provides the death penalty for terrorists and increases penalties for terrorist bombings. Provides the Attorney General with special authority to develop terrorist informants. Creates new penalties for providing material support to terrorists, and provides implementing legislation for aviation and maritime terrorism treaties.

SAFE SCHOOLS

Authorizes $100 million for grants to schools to fund anti-crime and safety measures and to develop education and training programs for the prevention of crime, violence and drug and alcohol abuse.

GANGS

Strengthens federal penalties for employing children to distribute drugs. Imposes additional penalties for crimes committed by gang members or on behalf of criminal street gangs. Authorizes $100 million for youth gang enforcement and prevention grants. Authorizes programs to prosecute violent juveniles as adults.

INCREASED PENALTIES

Provides over 60 penalty increases and new offenses, covering violent crimes, drug trafficking and gun crimes. Enhances penalties for, among other crimes, the use of semiautomatics, gun possession by convicted criminals and drug dealing in "drug-free" zones.

VICTIMS OF CRIME

Permits victims to speak at the sentencing of their assailants. Mandates that criminals pay restitution to their victims. Prohibits diversion of victims' funds to other federal programs.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE AND CHILD ABUSE

Develops a national criminal background check system for child care providers – the "Oprah bill" – and imposes the death penalty for rapists and the fatal sexual exploitation of a child. Requires convicted child sex offenders to register their addresses with state law enforcement agencies.

Statement of Congressman Jack Brooks on the Introduction of the Crime Bill
Thursday, September 23, 1993

MR. SPEAKER, TODAY I AM INTRODUCING THE VIOLENT CRIME
CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1993.

RIGHT BEFORE THE AUGUST RECESS, I STOOD IN THE ROSE GARDEN WITH PRESIDENT CLINTON TO ANNOUNCE THE OUTLINES OF COMPREHENSIVE LEGISLATION TO FIGHT THE SCOURGE OF CRIME.
THAT BILL IS NOW A REALITY OF MORE THAN 400 PAGES OF TOUGH, RESULT-ORIENTED LEGISLATION. WITHOUT A DOUBT, IT IS THE STRONGEST AND MOST COMPREHENSIVE CRIME BILL IN DECADES.

IT DOES NOT TAKE A HARVARD SOCIOLOGIST TO UNDERSTAND THE DEVASTATING EFFECTS OF CRIME IN OUR SOCIETY, IN OUR STREETS, IN OUR LIVES. AS COMMUNITIES HAVE LOST THEIR COHESION, AS FAMILY VALUES HAVE BEEN REPLACED BY THE SUBCULTURE OF GANGS, VIOLENCE HAS SPREAD UNCONTROLLABLY. WHERE ONCE THERE WERE CERTAIN DEFINABLE GROUPS OF ORGANIZED CRIME IN LARGE CITIES, WE NOW LIVE IN A STATE OF CONSTANT AND DIFFUSED CRIMINAL ACTIVITY, PERPETUATED BY INDIVIDUALS OR SMALL GROUPS, IN EVERY COMMUNITY, URBAN OR RURAL.

THE LEGISLATION INTRODUCED TODAY WILL FINALLY BREAK THIS DEADLY CYCLE -- FOR IT IS DEADLY NOT TO HAVE MORE COPS ON THE BEAT;
IT IS DEADLY NOT TO DETER HEINOUS CRIMES WITH APPROPRIATELY SEVERE PUNISHMENTS; AND IT IS DEADLY TO RELEASE PRISONERS BACK ON TO THE STREETS WHO ARE STILL DRUG DEPENDENT.

DURING THE PAST SEVERAL YEARS, I HAVE TRIED TO PASS INTO LAW A COMPREHENSIVE CRIME FIGHTING BILL. UNFORTUNATELY, MY EFFORTS -- AND SENATOR BIDEN'S EFFORTS IN THE OTHER BODY -- HAVE BEEN THWARTED BY A HANDFUL OF POLITICIANS MORE INTERESTED IN POSTURING THAN TAKING ACTION. THIS YEAR, IT IS INCONCEIVABLE TO ME THAT ANYONE WOULD BE WILLING TO OPT FOR "GRIDLOCK" RATHER THAN "LOCK-UP" IN FIGHTING CRIME. OUR STREETS ARE FLOWING WITH BLOOD, AND THE AMERICAN PUBLIC IS TIRED OF POLITICIANS VYING WITH EACH OTHER ABOUT JUST WHO IS TOUGHER ON CRIME.

REALISTICALLY, 97 PERCENT OF ALL VIOLENT CRIME OCCURS AT THE STATE LEVEL. THE NEW FEDERAL CRIMES SPECIFIED IN THIS LEGISLATION THUS REPRESENT A SMALL PERCENT OF TOTAL VIOLENT ACTIVITY IN AMERICA. HOWEVER, THE BILL I INTRODUCE TODAY WILL NOT ONLY HELP FIGHT CRIME AT THE FEDERAL LEVEL, BUT WILL, MOST IMPORTANTLY, HELP OUR STATES AND CITIES FIGHT CRIME THROUGH A VARIETY OF PROGRAMS.

THE LEGISLATION WILL GIVE LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT THE TOOLS NECESSARY TO STOP CRIME, INCLUDING THOUSANDS OF NEW COPS ON THE BEAT. THE BILL WILL STEER YOUTHFUL FIRST-TIME OFFENDERS AWAY FROM A LIFE OF CRIME, AND MANDATE DRUG TREATMENT OF PRISONERS BEFORE THEY ARE RELEASED BACK ON THE STREETS. DEATH PENALTY APPEALS WILL BE STREAMLINED, ALLOWING JUSTICE TO PREVAIL IN A FAIR YET FIRM MANNER. THE BILL WILL ENSURE THAT TERRORISTS WILL FIND NO SAFE HAVEN HERE.

MR. SPEAKER, AS I BELIEVE IT WILL BE HELPFUL TO OUR COLLEAGUES IN REVIEWING THIS OMNIBUS PROPOSAL, I WOULD LIKE TO INSERT IN THE RECORD AT THIS POINT A LISTING OF THE TITLES AND SUBTITLES OF THE BILL AND A BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE BILL'S PROVISIONS, WHICH INCLUDES A LISTING OF THE NUMEROUS DEATH PENALTIES TO BE FOUND IN THE BILL.

I ALSO WANT TO POINT OUT THAT CERTAIN PROVISIONS CONTAINED IN THE CONFERENCE REPORT ON THE CRIME BILL FROM THE LAST CONGRESS -- WHICH SERVED AS A BASIS FOR THIS EFFORT -- ARE NOT INCLUDED IN THE PACKAGE INTRODUCED TODAY.

IN DEVELOPING THIS CRIME PACKAGE, I HAVE BEEN IN CONSULTATION WITH OTHER COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AND CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF LAST CONGRESS' CRIME PACKAGE ARE NOT INCLUDED IN TODAY'S PROPOSAL BECAUSE THEY FALL WITHIN THE PURVIEW OF OTHER COMMITTEES' RULE X JURISDICTION. FOR CONVENIENCE OF MY COLLEAGUES AND OTHERS, THOSE PROVISIONS AND COMMITTEES WITH JURISDICTION FOLLOW: TERRITORIAL SEA MATTERS (MERCHANT MARINE COMMITTEE); MIDNIGHT BASKETBALL (BANKING COMMITTEE); RURAL DRUG PREVENTION (ENERGY AND COMMERCE COMMITTEE); FAILURE TO OBEY ORDER TO LAND (MERCHANT MARINE COMMITTEE; PUBLIC WORKS); ENHANCED PENALTIES FOR CERTAIN OFFENSES (ARMED SERVICES, INTELLIGENCE, FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEES); CLOSE LOOPHOLE ON CERTAIN IMPORTS (WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE); NOTIFICATION OF LARGE SUMS OF CASH AND CONTRABAND IN AIRPORT SCREENINGS (PUBLIC WORKS); DRUG ABUSE RESISTANCE EDUCATION PROGRAMS (EDUCATION & LABOR); AND, UNDERCOVER OPERATIONS -- CHURNING (WAYS AND MEANS).

ALSO, CERTAIN PROVISIONS HAVE ALREADY BEEN ENACTED INTO LAW. THEY INCLUDE: CIVIL REMEDY FOR TERRORISM (PL 102-572); CERTAIN CRIME VICTIMS' FUNDING PROVISIONS (PL 102-572); CERTAIN STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT FUNDING PROVISIONS (42 USC 3793(5) AND PL 102-140, SEC. 108); MANDATORY LITERACY PROGRAM (PL 102-73); SPORTS PROTECTION (PL 102-559); TRAUMA CENTERS (PL 102-321); USE OF CERTAIN EDUCATIONAL RECORDS (PL 102-325); CONFORMING AUTHORITY FOR MAGISTRATES (PL 102-572); MARITIME LAW ENFORCEMENT (PL 102-583); ECONOMIC TERRORISM TASK (P.L. 102-558); SAVINGS AND LOAN TASK FORCE (P.L. 101-647).

MR. SPEAKER, IN CONCLUSION, WHEN CITIZENS LIVE IN FEAR OF PHYSICAL HARM, OF DRUGS CORRUPTING THEIR NEIGHBORHOODS, OF A CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM THAT DOES NOT RESPECT VICTIMS OR DISPENSE ITS JUSTICE WITH CERTAINTY, THE AMERICAN PEOPLE DESERVE DECISIVE ACTION, NOW. I URGE MY COLLEAGUES TO PUT ASIDE SLOGANS AND JOIN WITH ME IN MOVING SWIFTLY FORWARD WITH THIS URGENTLY NEEDED LEGISLATION.

BROOKS INTRODUCES TOUGH ANTI-CRIME PACKAGE

The toughest anti-crime legislation in decades was introduced today by Congressman Jack Brooks (D-Texas), Chairman of the House Committee on the Judiciary. Among the major initiatives in H.R. 3131, the "Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1993," are provisions to authorize the death penalty for a host of new Federal crimes, put thousands of new cops on the neighborhood beat, and eliminate frivolous appeals by death-row inmates. Joining Brooks as co-sponsors of the bill were Rep. Charles Schumer (D-New York) and Rep. William Hughes (D-New Jersey), both Subcommittee Chairman on the Judiciary Committee.

"Just before the August Congressional recess, I stood in the Rose Garden with President Clinton to announce the outlines of a comprehensive response to the scourge of crime," said Brooks. "That proposal is now a reality of more than 400 pages of tough, result-oriented legislation. Without a doubt, it is the strongest and most innovative crime bill in decades."

"All too often, the public – and Members of Congress as well – think of a 'good crime bill' as simply a series of tough penalties for those convicted of wreaking havoc in our streets, schools, and neighborhoods," continued Brooks. "While this emphasis on punishment at the 'back end' of the criminal justice system is absolutely needed, a truly comprehensive approach must also focus on preventing crime from happening in the first place. This bill strikes the proper balance by combining dozens of new Federal death penalty crimes and a streamlined habeas corpus process with provisions designed to rid our schools of drugs and gangs, prevent child abusers from working with our children, steer youthful first-time offenders away from a life of crime, and mandate drug treatment of prisoners before they are released back on our streets. This balanced package of strict sanctions and creative preventative measures will help break the deadly cycle of violence now gripping our Nation."

During the 102d Congress, a House-Senate conference committee reached agreement on a crime bill similar to that introduced by Brooks today. The conference report was approved by the House in late 1991, but then fell victim to a nearly year-long Republican filibuster in the Senate.

Brooks concluded: "Over the past several years, many of us in Congress have worked hard to pass the legislation necessary to staunch the flow of blood in America's streets. Unfortunately, our efforts have been thwarted by a handful of politicians more interested in posturing than in taking action. This year, however, I am hopeful these obstructionists are ready to opt for 'lock-up' rather than 'gridlock' when it comes to fighting crime. The cost of doing nothing is simply too high."

A summary of key provisions in H.R. 3131 is attached.

VIOLENT CRIME CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1993
Introduced September 23, 1993

The Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1993 introduced by Chairman Brooks is a needed response to the many facets of criminal activity in our society. The bill balances a strong Federal commitment to crime control with a recognition of the basic fact that State and local governments have historically played, and must continue to play, a fundamental role in the functioning of our criminal justice system. The following are among the key provisions of the bill:

- * Federal Death Penalty -- The bill expands, to over 50, the number of Federal crimes punishable by death. Included under this title are death penalties such as: murder of a Federal law enforcement agent; death resulting from hijacking, terrorists, drive-by shootings; death resulting from hostage taking; killing the President; murder in the course of a rape crime; murder for hire; death resulting from child abuse; and many more.
- * Handgun Control (Brady Bill) -- The bill would require an interim system to be put in place in the States requiring a 5-day waiting period before a potential buyer could purchase a handgun. During the 5-day period, a local law enforcement official would attempt to determine whether the applicant was ineligible to buy a handgun because of Federal or State law. The interim system eventually will be replaced by an "instant check" national computer system once the Attorney General certifies one.
- * Community Policing: Cops on the Beat -- The bill makes Federal assistance and leadership available to State and local law enforcement authorities in their efforts to put more cops back on the beat, thereby increasing police presence on the streets.
- * Safe Schools -- The bill provides grants to those local school districts most severely affected by the rising tide of crime and violence, in an effort to make schools safe environments for learning and to eliminate drug- and gang-related activity in schools.
- * Child Abuse -- The bill provides a national system of background checks for people who work with children. It also imposes the death penalty for child abuse murders. The bill makes international parental kidnapping a Federal felony, and provides grants for training of State and local officials in dealing with this increasing problem.
- * Habeas Corpus -- The bill streamlines, reforms, and limits current habeas corpus procedures in death penalty cases. Among the changes are the establishment of a strict statutory time period within which death row petitioners must file Federal petitions, and the virtual prohibition of all second and successive habeas corpus applications in capital cases.
- * Coerced Confessions -- The bill reinstates the law in effect prior to a Supreme Court decision in 1991, which held that the admission of a coerced confession in a criminal trial can be merely harmless error. By returning the law to the black letter rule that has been followed for decades, the bill ensures that the government does not resort to State-supported coercion as a legitimate tool to develop evidence against defendants.

FEDERAL DEATH PENALTIES IN THE BROOKS CRIME PROPOSAL

The Federal death penalty is provided for the following offenses:

- Aircraft piracy where death results
- Bank robbery where death results
- Carjacking where death results
- Child sexual exploitation where death results
- Conspiracy to violate civil rights where death results
- Damage of Federal property by explosives where death results
- Damage of Federal property by fire where death results
- Damage of property affecting commerce by fire where death results
- Damage of property affecting commerce by explosives where death results

VIOLENT CRIME CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 1993
Introduced September 23, 1993

The Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1993 introduced by Chairman Brooks is a needed response to the many facets of criminal activity in our society. The bill balances a strong Federal commitment to crime control with a recognition of the basic fact that State and local governments have historically played, and must continue to play, a fundamental role in the functioning of our criminal justice system. The following are among the key provisions of the bill:

- * Federal Death Penalty -- The bill expands, to over 50, the number of Federal crimes punishable by death. Included under this title are death penalties such as: murder of a Federal law enforcement agent; death resulting from hijacking, terrorists, drive-by shootings; death resulting from hostage taking; killing the President; murder in the course of a rape crime; murder for hire; death resulting from child abuse; and many more.
- * Handgun Control (Brady Bill) -- The bill would require an interim system to be put in place in the States requiring a 5-day waiting period before a potential buyer could purchase a handgun. During the 5-day period, a local law enforcement official would attempt to determine whether the applicant was ineligible to buy a handgun because of Federal or State law. The interim system eventually will be replaced by an "instant check" national computer system once the Attorney General certifies one.
- * Community Policing: Cops on the Beat -- The bill makes Federal assistance and leadership available to State and local law enforcement authorities in their efforts to put more cops back on the beat, thereby increasing police presence on the streets.
- * Safe Schools -- The bill provides grants to those local school districts most severely affected by the rising tide of crime and violence, in an effort to make schools safe environments for learning and to eliminate drug- and gang-related activity in schools.
- * Child Abuse -- The bill provides a national system of background checks for people who work with children. It also imposes the death penalty for child abuse murders. The bill makes international parental kidnapping a Federal felony, and provides grants for training of State and local officials in dealing with this increasing problem.
- * Habeas Corpus -- The bill streamlines, reforms, and limits current habeas corpus procedures in death penalty cases. Among the changes are the establishment of a strict statutory time period within which death row petitioners must file Federal petitions, and the virtual prohibition of all second and successive habeas corpus applications in capital cases.
- * Coerced Confessions -- The bill reinstates the law in effect prior to a Supreme Court decision in 1991, which held that the admission of a coerced confession in a criminal trial can be merely harmless error. By returning the law to the black letter rule that has been followed for decades, the bill ensures that the government does not resort to State-supported coercion as a legitimate tool to develop evidence against defendants.

Clinton Calls Gun and Crime Controls Necessary for Health Reform

ST. PETERSBURG BEACH, Fla. (AP) President Clinton portrayed handgun controls and anti-crime measures as necessary in revamping the nation's health system on Friday because hospitals are overburdened with "people cut up and shot."

"Homicide is the second leading cause of death among Americans aged 15 to 25, and more of our teen-age boys die from gunshots now than any other cause," Clinton said at a waterfront rehabilitation center for teen-agers.

He also expressed sadness over the recent killing of foreign tourists who were visiting Florida. "It grieved so many of us," he said.

But he said crime against individuals is not just a problem involving Florida and tourists but has reached epidemic proportions in the country.

Clinton was trying to tie his health care plan to some of his other major proposals as he and other administration officials conducted a national sales blitz for the plan to provide universal health coverage by the end of 1996.

Clinton has acknowledged that it might be necessary to phase in some benefits more slowly if he cannot get the savings he anticipates.

On his return to Washington, he said he would favor an annual review to determine if some benefits should be added more gradually or "to present them as options that can be paid for separately at the decision of the consumer until the savings enable us to phase them in completely."

Clinton struggled with a minor health problem of his own as he squinted through swollen eyes, a condition aides blamed on allergies, bright light at the beach setting and perhaps lack of sleep.

The night before, Clinton had discussed his health care program at a broadcast town-hall meeting in nearby Tampa. He continued to field questions about the plan from the audience well past the ABC network cameras shut off about 12:30 p.m. EDT.

"Last night, we had that wonderful town hall meeting," Clinton told his Friday morning audience. "People asked dozens and dozens of questions. I don't know how long we stayed there till way too late. A lot of people in America, if they watched that whole show last night, are sleepy at work today, I'll tell you that. But what you saw there is people yearning for security."

Clinton compared health security to crime security.

"The principles I announced in health care reform are very much related to the principles of this anti-crime effort our administration is undertaking," he said at the Pinellas Marine Institute, an academic and vocational program for troubled teens.

Youths sent to the institute learn careers in boat building and repair.

"One of the reasons American health care is so expensive is that our hospitals and our emergency rooms are full of people who are cut up and shot," Clinton said.

Clinton promoted his anti-crime legislation that includes gun controls and $3.4 billion to put 50,000 more police officers on the streets.

It contains the gun-control bill named for James Brady, the former White House press secretary who was wounded in the 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan. It requires a five-day waiting period and a background check on handgun purchasers.

When he proposed the crime plans in August, Clinton also signed executive orders that suspended imports of foreign-made assault-style handguns.

"You have to change the fact that America is the only country in the civilized world where a teen-ager can walk the streets at random and be better armed than most police forces," Clinton said to applause.

He also said there were bills in Congress not part of his package that would ban assault weapons "entirely from being in the possession of our young people, and I hope and pray one of them can reach my desk this year" to be signed into law.

He said framers of the constitutional "right to bear arms" amendment did not contemplate guns in the hands of teen-agers, "and we better stop it if we want to recover our country."

To capitalize on reaction to Clinton's health care speech, the Democratic National Committee is spending more than $100,000 next week on television ads promoting the plan. The 30-second spots show a picture of the health security card and a voice says the card "guarantees that no American will ever lose their health care again."

The ad goes on to say "the special interests want to block reform. We need your help," and offers a toll-free number for those who want to donate money or volunteer to help promote Clinton's plan.

The ad will air nationally on Cable News Network for a week beginning Monday. The DNC also purchased newspaper ads for the plan this weekend in Kansas City, Denver and Tulsa, Okla.

On the rash of foreign tourists recently attacked in Florida, Clinton said that, shocking as the headlines might be, "it is far from a problem of Florida alone, and certainly not a problem for our foreign visitors alone.

"When Michael Jordan's father was killed recently, a nation grieved, but no one knew the names of the other 22 people who died in that county this year. This is a national problem."

Clinton Links Health Reform to Anti-Crime Legislation

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) President Clinton is delivering a one-two punch as he travels the country to promote his domestic agenda, urging swift action on both health-care reform and anti-crime legislation.

The two are inextricably linked, Clinton argues, because the nation's "culture of violence" is taking a tremendous toll on the health of its citizens.

"Let us have the courage to admit that some of these problems we will never fix until we change our ways as a nation, and let's start with violence, begin with guns," Clinton declared in a speech Friday at the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School Hospital.

He called for congressional passage of anti-crime legislation that includes a requirement for a five-day waiting period for handgun purchases, innovative programs to rehabilitate juvenile offenders and money to put more police officers on the streets. He also urged passage of national legislation to ban assault weapons.

"It would be a great Christmas present for the American people to stand up for safety," he said.

Clinton spoke after touring the hospital's trauma center, where he visited with three recent victims of the urban violence.

Talking with Clinton from his wheelchair, 22-year-old Robert Jones of Plainfield, N.J., told the president he was shot in the groin in a June 1992 robbery.

He has no insurance, is permanently disabled and has run up hospital bills of more than $120,000.

Jones told Clinton about how "you have to go and grovel for it" to get Medicaid coverage.

Shaking his head, Clinton said: "That's terrible. That's terrible."

"If we pass this bill we're working on, you won't have to worry," the president said.

While Clinton was in New Jersey pushing his health-care plan, Hillary Rodham Clinton was pushing the same package in Rhode Island. The two car-pooled to Andrews Air Force Base, where they kissed goodbye and boarded separate planes.

The health plan drafted under Mrs. Clinton's direction would require all employers to pay at least 80 percent of their workers' average health-care premiums, with employees paying the rest. All Americans would be guaranteed coverage by the end of 1997.

Clinton's trip to New Jersey mixed policy and politics. The president was accompanied by Democratic New Jersey Gov. James Florio, who is battling Republican Christine Todd Whitman for re-election.

Clinton went out of his way to extoll Florio's crime-fighting efforts, and at a rally as he departed, the president called out, "Jim Florio did it and give me a chance and we'll do it. I hope you re-elect the governor."

Clinton said the American people must help shoulder the responsibility for reducing the violence that afflicts them.

"We have simply got to be willing to change our behavior or admit that we are going to tolerate living in a country where homicide is the second leading cause of death among Americans between the ages of 15 and 25 and the leading cause of death among teen-age boys today," he said.

Clinton also welcomed what he said was a move by some television networks to try to limit violence and "the degradation of people" in prime-time programming.

signs saying ``U.S. Out of Somalia'' and ``No Vietnam in Africa'' as Clinton's motorcade arrived at the hospital.

The trip, although designated as non political, was also an attempt to boost the re-election candidacy of Democratic Gov. Jim Florio.

Florio, who is in a lively battle with Republican Christine Todd Whitman, accompanied Clinton on the tour and echoed the president's call for stronger gun-control laws.

``We will never bring health care costs under control as long as emergency rooms are filled with shooting victims,'' Florio said.

He praised Clinton for ``not being afraid to stand up to the gun lobby.''

Clinton reiterated a theme he has been stressing for the past two weeks in selling his health-care initiative around the country: linking the package to other major administration initiatives like gun control under the umbrella of ``a higher level of security.''

``The need for health care ... and the need for personal security these things are closely related,'' he said.

PRECEDE New Brunswick, N.J

WASHINGTON (AP) An epidemic of violent crime is "siphoning away our humanity," President Clinton said today, and called on Congress to quickly pass a crime bill to put 50,000 more police officers on the streets.

In his weekly radio address, the president spoke of his visit last week to a New Jersey trauma center at which victims of gunshot wounds are treated.

"I saw what guns do to people; it was heartbreaking and it was an outrage," he said. "Guns shatter lives and destroy families."

Violence has touched tens of thousands of families, he said. "It is siphoning away our humanity."

Clinton noted that he asked Congress to pass a tough crime bill two months ago, predicted the House and Senate would act on it this year.

"I can tell you this, the moment I get it, I'll sign it," he said.

Clinton repeatedly sounded the anti-violence theme in his travels last week, urging swift action on both health care reform and anti-crime legislation.

The two are inextricably linked, Clinton argues, because the nation's "culture of violence" is taking a tremendous toll on the health of its citizens.

Clinton Stresses Need for Domestic Security in Speech to Party Faithful

By Thomas B. Edsall and Dan Balz
Washington Post Staff Writers

President Clinton told the party faithful yesterday that his agenda of health, unemployment and anti-crime legislation would provide a base of domestic security to prepare Americans for the rigors of global competition.

"Unless we can be secure in our work and families, unless we can be secure on our streets, unless we can be secure in our health care, I'm not sure the American people will ever be able to recover the personal optimism and courage to open up to the rest of the world," Clinton told members of the Democratic National Committee.

Arguing that U.S. workers face the inevitability of changing jobs, moving, and sustained retraining,

Clinton argued that fears of criminal violence, lost health insurance and of inability to be a good parent prevent people today from feeling "secure enough and strong enough to be able to face and make the changes we must make."

Stanley Greenberg, a political adviser to Clinton, said that in recent weeks "this theme [of security] has been running through his thinking and it has struck a chord internally."

Greenberg said yesterday morning's speech "goes very much to the heart of being a 'different kind of Democrat.' Republicans look at changes and welcome them, but leave people on their own in the marketplace to handle them. 'Old Democrats' will deal with security but fear change, and maybe even act to try to avoid it. I think he [Clinton] sees himself as a different kind of Democrat who welcomes change, but wants to give people the security to deal with it."

Clinton made no direct mention of the North American Free Trade Agreement, which faces extensive hostility within the DNC as well as among congressional Democrats, but it is clearly the kind of "change" he is seeking to encourage the nation to make. The goal of domestic security, he said, is to permit the country "to reach out and break down the barriers of trade, because we know a rich country can only create jobs through increasing the volume of trade."

Later in the day, opposition to NAFTA surfaced briefly during a meeting of the DNC's executive committee. Frank Garrison, a DNC member and the chairman of the Michigan AFL-CIO, told White House Deputy Chief of Staff Roy Neel that Congress should "do the administration a favor and kill it."

In addition to health care and anti-crime, gun control legislation, Clinton said the entire structure of unemployment insurance needs to be reorganized, because cyclical patterns of temporary job losses are being replaced by structural changes forcing individuals to face permanent job loss. "Instead of an unemployment system, we now need a re-employment system, because people need different jobs, because they are not going to get their old job back by and large," he said.

Following his speech, Clinton traveled to New Jersey, where he kept up the drumbeat for anti-crime and health legislation. Gun-related violence costs the country about $4 billion a year in medical care, he said, and 80 percent of the victims have no health insurance.

With New Jersey Gov. Jim Florio (D), Clinton toured a trauma center at the Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick, where they talked with patients who were victims of violent crime.

Clinton said reducing gun-related violence in the United States is essential to controlling medical costs. He urged Congress to follow New Jersey's lead and pass legislation banning assault weapons nationwide.

"The Congress should pass one of those bills and send it to me this year," Clinton said. "We either need to say this is a level of chaos and human degradation . . . that we are willing to tolerate, or we need to get up, stand up and be counted and do something."

Clinton talked with one victim who described having to "grovel" for Medicaid coverage. "That's terrible," Clinton said. "If we pass this bill we're working on, you won't have to worry."

The New Jersey visit was billed as nonpolitical. But Florio reaped the benefit of Clinton's praise and strong words of support from Essex County Sheriff Armando Fontoura, who praised the governor for standing up to the gun lobby to push his assault-weapon ban through the legislature and then hold off its repeal.

WASHINGTON (AP) President Clinton's Saturday radio address:

WASHINGTON (AP) President Clinton's Saturday radio address:

Good morning. For many Americans, today is the beginning of a long weekend, a time to bring out the wool sweaters and coats our security against the change of seasons. In this remarkable period of our history, our nation is facing changes longer lasting than fall and winter. But these changes require a certain security too.

Throughout the campaign for this office, and since I became your president, I've been asking that we have the courage to change, to compete in the world economy, and to bring prosperity back home. But we can't embrace change fully unless our own people feel a high level of personal and family security a security about our place in the world. I'm happy to report that we're making real progress on that too.

Our first job was to address economic security with a budget that seriously cuts the federal deficit. That has led to record lows in long-term interest rates. And that has led to good news in increasing bank lending and housing starts and in business investments.

Since I became president, our economy has created more than a million private-sector jobs more jobs in eight months than all those created in the previous four years. But it's just the beginning. Many of our people are still struggling, and we won't quit fighting for them. As long as the economy isn't working for working people, we'll be working to fix it.

We took on the issue of medical security because true security for our family and for the economy is clearly incomplete without it. Our administration's plan for health care reform will reduce waste and cost and, most importantly, will give our citizens health care that's always there, that can't be taken away.

And the blanket of security for Americans has another side to it; personal security. Our people have the right to feel safe where they live, work, play and go to school. But too many of our people are denied that right. I've talked with parents who are afraid to send their children to schools where other kids carry guns. I've talked with children who were so afraid of becoming caught up with gangs, they didn't even want to leave their homes. I've talked with police officers who felt anger and frustration at trying, sometimes against overwhelming odds, to stem an epidemic of violence, especially from children, better armed than police, who shoot other children. And, most importantly, I've talked with the victims.

Yesterday I visited a trauma center in New Jersey and saw what people with guns can do to other people. I met a woman who couldn't speak any more because her husband shot her in the throat. I met a man who took a bullet in his chest during a robbery attempt. I met a child whose mother was killed by an assault rifle. It was heartbreaking and it was an outrage.

These kind of attacks happen too often, they shatter lives, they destroy families. And more and more they kill children. Violent crime crowds our emergency rooms and drains our medical resources. And it is siphoning away our humanity. Gunshot wounds are now the major cause of death among teenage boys.

My visits with these victims yesterday made me more determined than ever to win passage of our crime bill. This bill will help to restore a system where those who commit crimes are caught, those who are found guilty are convicted, those who are convicted are punished sometimes by imposition of the death penalty for especially serious crimes. I support that. Two months ago I asked Congress to pass a tough crime bill. This month your lawmakers will consider it. And they should pass it this year.

But what really makes this crime bill effective and different is this; more police, fewer guns. Our bill would help to prevent crime by putting 50,000 more police officers on the street in America and by expanding community policing. Here in Washington recently, a beautiful four-year-old girl was caught in the line of fire and she died from a bullet wound. Her name was Launice Smith. All she was doing was watching other children at play. How did that become the wrong place at the wrong time?

The fact is, with so many handguns and assault weapons flooding our streets, a lot of places can be the wrong place at the wrong time. That's why we have to pass the Brady Bill. It requires a five day wait before a gun can be purchased time-enough for a real background check to stop guns from getting into the hands of convicted criminals. And we can't go on being the only country on earth that let's teenagers roam the streets with assault weapons, better armed than even the police.

Our crime bill also gives a young person who took a wrong turn a chance to reclaim his life by learning discipline in a boot camp. Every major law enforcement group in our country supports these measures more police, boot camps and alternative punishment for young people, the Brady Bill, and a ban on assault weapons. The men and women on the front lines know, our country needs this kind of action. On school grounds, on streets, in parking lots, and homes in our biggest cities and smallest towns, the silliest of arguments arguments that might have ended in a fist fight in bygone days now they're too easily ended with the sound of a gun. And often the sound of a gun leads to death.

A gunshot wound is three times more likely to lead to death today, in part because there are so many assault weapons. And the average victim of gunshot wound now has over two bullets in him or her. It's getting hard to find a family that hasn't been touched by this epidemic of violence. Often it means another empty chair in a classroom, an empty place at a dinner table, an empty space in the hearts of those who lost a loved one.

Tell your representatives on Capitol Hill you want the crime bill and you want it now because it's important, it's long overdue. I guarantee you this; the minute I get it, I'll sign it. For we can never enjoy full economic security in our professional lives without real personal security in our homes, on our streets and in our neighborhoods.

I pledge to you today that we'll keep working to restore both. Thanks for listening.

MEMORANDUM TO MACK MCLARTY
AND ROY NEEL

FROM: Andre Oliver AO
RE: Integrating Crime and Drug Strategies

---

As the President begins to articulate an anti-crime message as one of the core themes for the fall, I believe it is important that Lee Brown and an anti-drug message become part of the communications mix.

As you know, Dr. Brown's staff has recently completed a draft interim drug strategy -- that document is currently circulating among senior communications and policy/political staff (we are required to submit a yearly strategy to the Congress; this interim strategy is a placeholder for the full strategy in Feb.). There are several themes in this strategy that overlap on crime issues:

- Reducing drug related violence -- a significant part of the crime problem -- by expanding community policing, putting more police on the street, and taking guns out of the hands of criminals;
- targeting hard core drug users for treatment both outside and within the criminal justice system; and,
- promoting certainty of punishment by assuring that all drug offenders receive some type of sanction when they first encounter the criminal justice system.

Promotion of the Crime Bill

In addition, Dr. Brown is one of our most valuable assets for promoting the crime bill -- distinguished law enforcement official, major proponent of community policing, one of the highest black officials in the Administration. These credentials will prove invaluable when taking our crime message to key law enforcement and minority audiences on an off Capitol Hill.

However, to bring Dr. Brown into the mix on the Crime Bill, it will be important for him to receive Presidential attention for his drug strategy. He has requested an event with the President to introduce the strategy; the President might be better served with an event that introduces the strategy within the context of a larger anti-crime strategy -- perhaps with a local event in the Nation's Capitol. I know Roy has sought Gergen's and Stephanopoulos' input on this.

Dr. Brown has conveyed to me with some urgency his interest in moving forward.
