If this fax is incomplete or unreadable, please call the Christian Embassy.

This is a copy of a letter sent on May 25, 1993 to Ms. Rasco requesting a courtesy call. I am wondering if Ms. Rasco's schedule would now permit a brief visit to her office.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Rasco,

For the past twelve years I have been on the staff of Christian Embassy here in Washington, D.C. Christian Embassy is a multi-denominational, non-issue oriented, non-political organization that serves as a spiritual resource to the official Washington community. Attempting to juggle responsibilities in both the personal and professional areas of life can be taxing. Many leaders have found that keeping the spiritual dimension of life in perspective makes a significant difference.

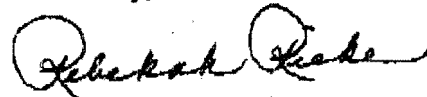

Among other things, Christian Embassy sponsors inspirational events and small Bible discussion groups of peers. Those attending are Generals and Admirals at the Pentagon, Senators and Congressmen and Presidential Appointees and their spouses. My focus has been on women Presidential Appointees and wives of Presidential Appointees.

I am just beginning to meet women in the Clinton administration and Representative Tim Hutchinson suggested that I contact you. It would be a privilege to visit with you for about 20 minutes at your convenience. I would like to tell you more about our work and would also value your suggestions as to how I might best serve the women Presidential Appointees.

In a few days I will call your office to see about the possibility of scheduling an appointment.

My best wishes to you in your new position.

Sincerely,

Rebekah L. Rieke
