

Comprehensive B Reader List

Both A and B Readers are included

March 23, 2011

The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) certifies physicians through their B-Reader Examination for proficiency in the classification of chest radiographs for the pneumoconioses. Examinations are offered at the Appalachian Laboratory for Occupational Safety and Health (ALOSH), Morgantown, WV. A passing score results in approval as a NIOSH B-reader. Each B-reader receives a certificate and is required to recertify at four-year intervals. An A-reader is a person meeting a lower-level qualification than a B-reader. An A-reader is a physician who has demonstrated a specified level of proficiency in classifying the pneumoconioses by one of three methods:

- Proper classification of six sample chest radiographs, submitted to the ALOSH and evaluated by a panel of B-readers;
- Completion of one of the American College of Radiology's Symposium on the Classification of Radiology for the Pneumoconioses; or,
- A B-reader who fails to recertify before the expiration of their four-year certification.

Although A-readers are included on this list, radiographic classifications by A-readers are not included in 20 CFR 718.102 (c) and (e), and A-readers are not included in the definitions of 20 CFR 725.202 (a)(1).

More information on the NIOSH B-reader Program can be found at <http://www.cdc.gov/niosh/topics/chestradiography/breader.html>.

The Department of Labor is not responsible for any errors in this list. The source of the list is NIOSH.

Note: the document is very long, consisting of over 500 pages if printed.
