Portland, OR 97201

Telephone Number: 800-292-3355 Ext 250

E-Mail Address: info@mercy Corps.org

Web Address: www.mercy Corps.org

Type of Relief Offered: Each kit includes art supplies, flashlights, stuffed animals and other items that experts say make kids feel safe and encourage them to express their feelings in a time of trauma. Also, included in each kit is a booklet specially created by Mercy Corps and child trauma experts that provides parents and educators with practical advice on helping kids cope with grief, anger, and fear – and find solutions that promote tolerance and understanding.

Eligible Recipients: Mercy Corps' for Kids initiative is targeting only children directly affected in New York and Washington, DC. Mercy Corps initially will distribute kits to children in New York City, and hopes to expand the program soon to Washington, DC. In particular, September 11 Comfort Kits will be given to children in refugee, immigrant and low-income communities who might otherwise be overlooked by relief efforts and whose parents might be too frightened to seek assistance. The Kits will be customized so they are appropriate for different age groups.

Method For Verifying Eligibility: Mercy Corps is working with local groups that provide childcare and mental health at the disaster sites.

Process For Eligible Recipients To Obtain Funds/Support: Mercy Corps works with local agencies and groups to distribute the Comfort Kits – they are not distributed directly to individuals.
