NCUA Issues Prohibition Orders

ALEXANDRIA, VA. (June 12, 2012) – The National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) issued orders prohibiting the following individuals from participating in the affairs of any federally insured financial institution:

- Anna Marie Salazar, a former employee of Alamo Federal Credit Union, San Antonio, Texas, was convicted of embezzlement by a credit union employee. Salazar was sentenced to 41 months in prison, five years supervised release, and ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $725,047.33.
- Jeannette L. Young, a former employee of Bluestem Community Credit Union, El Dorado, Kan., consented to the issuance of a prohibition order and agreed to comply with all of its terms to settle and resolve the NCUA Board's claims against her.
- Marsha Richard, a former employee of Atlantic Regional Federal Credit Union, Brunswick, Maine, was convicted of theft by a credit union employee. Richard was sentenced to 33 months in prison, five years supervised release, and ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $468,217.06.

NCUA enforcement orders are online at <http://go.usa.gov/yiJ> and you may inspect them at NCUA's Office of General Counsel between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. You may order copies by mail from NCUA, 1775 Duke St., Alexandria, VA 22314-3428.

Violation of a prohibition order is a felony offense punishable by imprisonment and a fine of up to $1 million.

NCUA is the independent federal agency created by the U.S. Congress to regulate, charter, and supervise federal credit unions. With the backing of the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government, NCUA operates and manages the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund, insuring the deposits of more than 92 million account holders in all federal credit unions and the overwhelming majority of state-chartered credit unions.
