Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. Federal Building

Art & Architecture

The GSA Art in Architecture Program commissions the nation's leading artists to create large-scale works of art for new federal buildings. In the center of the O'Neill atrium are two pieces.

Crystal Hanging (left)

Jane Kaufman's "Crystal Hanging" was created in 1985 and has been in the O'Neill Federal Building since October of 1986. It is 26 feet tall and 16 feet across and is made with 9,000 glass crystals.

Cascading Wall Fountain (right)

As a sculptor, draftsman, photographer, and environmental artist, Mary Miss' vision favors site-specificity and human perception over traditional concerns of the public monument. For the O'Neill Federal Building, Miss created a stage-like focal point and gathering area for the atrium. The "Cascading Wall Fountain" was created in 1985 and has been in the O'Neill Building since October 1986. The sculpture is made of painted cardboard, plywood, and dried twigs.

When working on public projects, Miss uses collaboration as an artistic approach to redefine the relationship between the built conditions and natural environment. Her work is grounded in the context of a place, from which she constructs situations where the visitor becomes aware of the site's history, its ecology, or aspects of the environment that have gone unnoticed.
