"Designs for Democracy" Online Exhibit: 200 Years of Drawings from the National Archives

Front Elevation, U.S. Branch Mint, Carson City, Nevada. By Alfred B. Mullet, Supervising Architect of the Department of the Treasury, 1866.

Over the course of its history, the U. S. Government created designs for millions of objects in fulfillment of a wide range of Federal policies and programs. Each design represents the Government's need for a rendering of an object. Most were the inspiration of professional artists, engineers, inventors, draftsmen, and graphic artists.

"Designs for Democracy" is an exhibition of nearly 125 design drawings selected from the vast holdings of the National Archives and Records Administration. Some of the designs, like the one shown above, relate to projects in this region, including two lighthouse drawings from the California coast, Point Conception and N.W. Seal Rock. The designs, all permanently valuable Federal records, were selected to illustrate 200 years of Government drawings. To view the exhibit, click on Designs for Democracy.

Announcing Records Management Training for Fiscal Year 2013

NARA records management training will be held in Las Vegas, NV, Phoenix, AZ and San Diego and San Francisco, CA, in FY2013, as well as in many other locations throughout the United States.

Knowledge Area Courses (Certificate Track) provide learners with a broad range of knowledge and skills to perform Federal records management functions. Successful completion of all five classes and a post-course exam will result in a Certificate in Federal Records Management.

These classes include: Knowledge Area (KA) 2: Creating and Maintaining Agency Business Information; KA 3: Records Scheduling; KA 4: Records Schedule Implementation; KA 5: Asset and Risk Management; and KA 6: Records Management Program Development. All these classes will be offered in sequence in the locations named above. For dates and locations, see announcement on page 2.

We will also be offering the basic KA 1: Records Management Overview, in all four locations; and Basic Records Operations and Emergency Planning and Response for Vital Records and Essential Information in San Francisco in January. See announcement for these classes on page 2 for dates and locations.

1940 Census records are open for research

After a rocky start in April, when an avalanche of popular demand overwhelmed our Web servers, use of the 1940 Census has stabilized. The 3.9 million scanned documents constitute the largest collection of digital information ever released by the National Archives. The free official Web site http://1940census.archives.gov/ includes a database with an index searchable at the enumeration district level.

To make the search for information easier, the National Archives has joined a consortium of groups to create a name-based index. Leading this effort, FamilySearch is recruiting as many as 300,000 volunteers to enter names into a central database.

Ouestions asked in the 1940 census. which reflect the dislocation of the Great Depression of the 1930s, will yield important information not only for family historians and genealogists, but also for demographers and social and economic historians.

San Bruno has new sidewalks!

In August 2012, a new sidewalk and crosswalk were completed at the NARA San Bruno facility. Our building was constructed in 1973, on a former navy base with no sidewalks. Recent construction of an adjacent housing complex led to increased traffic and more hazardous conditions for pedestrians. Many staff, volunteers, and researchers reported close calls when crossing the street from the parking lot or walking to and from nearby transit. In 2008, after a speeding car flipped over in front of the building, staff member and local resident, Deborah Osterberg began a campaign to improve safety on Commodore Drive. She attended numerous city meetings, finally succeeding in making the project a city priority. The project was completed with a combination of city and GSA funding. The project also upgraded handicapped access, added street lighting and improved the entrance route to our loading dock. Way to go Deborah! You are awesome!

PETITION FOR NATURALIZATION

ENTERED BY DEALER

Digitization of Southern California Naturalization Records Underway in Riverside

Ancestry.com is currently at the National Archives at Riverside digitizing Los Angeles naturalization records. The company is expected to complete the project in August or September of 2013. They will be digitizing over 1 million pages from the U.S. District Court for the District of California, Central Division (Los Angeles) series Petitions for Naturalization, 1887-1991. ARC Identifier 594890.

Both Ancestry.com and Fold3.com have available a portion of these records which were digitized from NARA microfilm publication, M1524. The remaining records have never been filmed, nor digitized in a large-scale project. The work began on records from 1940, beginning with petition number 71251 and will conclude with petitions from 1991.

The records relate to the naturalizations of individuals who filed petitions at the Federal Courthouse in Los Angeles.
