Cost for entire project including: Extending the southbound high occupancy toll (HOT) lane from its existing end point at 37th Street NW to Third Avenue SW. The project will include a new merge lane on southbound SR 167 near Third Avenue SW to the Eighth St E interchange. Ramp meters at the southbound on-ramps at 15th Street Ellingson Road and Eighth Street E, Bridge work at SR 18, Intersection improvements at the southbound off-ramps at Ellingson Road and Eighth St. E.	Х	S
SR 520 Bridge replacement costs and currently include: Constructing a new, safer floating bridge and landings, Building a new pontoon construction facility in Grays Harbor, Building pontoons at that facility, Beginning construction on the Eastside Transit and HOV Project, Continuing to design the west side of the corridor, from I-5 to the floating bridge. $4.65 bill is the program limit	Х		Х
No more than $400 million in tolls contributing to construction funding (To fund construction of the tunnel, the State of Washington would need to borrow against future toll revenues in order to bring funding into the construction period. This would be done by issuing bonds for which net toll revenues would be pledged toward the repayment of principal and interest.)	X	X (varies by time of day)

Cost for tolling system only, (does not include gantries, lane striping, etc., done under different contract)	Х		Х
Cost for implementing tolling	Χ		Х
The Columbia River Crossing (CRC) project includes constructing a replacement I-5 bridge with light rail, widening the pedestrian and bicycle path and improving closely-spaced interchanges in the five-mile corridor. This includes the savings resulting from several design refinements. Estimates are based on year of expenditure dollars, or the projected year the money would be spent. The cost range does not include operating and maintenance costs.	Х
Study of how variable tolling may reduce the demand, and consequently the number of new lanes needed within the corridor. Estimate of additional revenues needed to implement the project.	Х		Х
Conceptual planning study currently underway to convert existing HOV lanes from Tacoma to Everett to HOT or Express Toll Lane use, including some dual-lane segments and active traffic management. Costs are still being developed.	х		Х
