1. Purpose. To establish Navy policy and assign responsibilities for the administration and support of the Navy Fleet and Family Support Center (FFSC) program as directed in references (a) through (d). This instruction is a complete revision and should be reviewed in its entirety.
2. Cancellation. OPNAVINST 1754.1A.
3. Background. Commanders are responsible for providing the opportunity for a reasonable Quality Of Life (QOL) for Navy personnel and their families. It is both ethical and pragmatic for Navy leaders to care for their families - ethical because it is the right thing to do and pragmatic because caring for Sailors and their families directly impacts upon personal and job performance, retention, and readiness. Navy personnel must be able to concentrate their energy on the successful accomplishment of the Navy mission. A key element in providing care is the establishment of family support programs administered through FFSCs that provide programs and services designed to meet the special challenges of Navy life. FFSCs were started as Family Service Centers in 1980 at all shore installations (Continental United States (CONUS) and Outside Continental United States (OCONUS)) with at least 500 active duty Navy personnel assigned to provide programs and services to all personnel and families assigned to those installations. Today, FFSCs are required to provide services to all military personnel and family members assigned or domiciled in the center's geographic area.
4. Definitions. Terms used in this instruction are defined in reference (d) and in enclosure (1).
5. Policy. FFSCs are a mission essential organizational component within Navy shore installation management activities for the delivery of Fleet and Family Support Programs (FFSPs). FFSCs will:
 - a. Provide comprehensive information, programs, and referral services for servicemembers and families.
 - b. Provide servicemembers and families with opportunities to achieve a more satisfying QOL.

c. Ensure awareness of the importance of individual and family readiness and Navy's ability to execute its mission and contribution to combat readiness.

d. Maintain close coordination and alignment among existing Navy, other Service, and civilian family support services.

e. Provide programs and services to all eligible personnel and their families per reference (d).

(1) Prioritization for services may be allocated per the list of eligible patrons in reference (d) when necessary.

(a) Suspension of some or all normal programs and services may be necessary to provide surge capability or respond to crisis events.

(b) Delivery of services shall adhere to all applicable public law and/or DOD restrictions or program requirements where eligibility requirements are otherwise specified; such as in the Family Advocacy Program (FAP), New Parent Support Program (NPSP), Sexual Assault Victim Intervention (SAVI), and the Transition Assistance Management Program (TAMP).

(c) Program priorities may also be established by program guidance and/or local needs and requirements and by service delivery modality.

(2) Special circumstances

(a) Counseling services shall be provided to extended family members of a servicemember severely injured or killed under traumatic or exceptional circumstances per DoD directed policy.

(b) A non-ID card holding partner of a servicemember may be included in joint counseling sessions with the servicemember when the focus of the counseling is on the relationship, but the non-ID holding partner is not eligible for individual counseling sessions.

6. Program Guidelines

a. Mission Readiness. Personal and family readiness are vital to combat readiness. Our success in defending our nation depends upon the men and women of the United States Navy - active, reserve, and civilian and their families. FFSCs must ensure that programs and services contribute to this culture of preparedness.

b. Core Programs and Services. FFSPs will be grouped into three major functional areas: Deployment and Readiness Programs, Crisis Response Programs, and Career Support and Retention Programs. Funding allocation and costing will be reported using CNIC guidance. Core programs and services are listed in enclosure (2). Enclosures (3) and (4) describe standards for programs and service delivery.

c. Best Practices. FFSCs will recognize, share and implement best practices throughout the system to ensure the most effective and efficient delivery of services.

d. Other Command Programs. FFSCs will also support command programs such as Sponsor, Indoctrination and Orientation Programs, Ombudsman Program, Family Readiness Groups (FRGs), Family Care Plans, Exceptional Family Members, Retired Activities Offices, and the Task Force Navy Family Functional Plan per references (e) through (k).

e. Family Readiness Alliance. FFSCs will participate in the local installation family readiness alliances which coordinate key support services such as Ombudsmen, FFSCs, Chaplains, School Liaison Officers, Child and Youth Programs, and FRGs to provide coordinated services in support of servicemembers and their families.

f. Facilities. Program service delivery will include both facility-based and outreach-delivery models. To the greatest extent possible, FFSC facilities shall be located in close proximity to other customer service and support facilities. New FFSC facilities will be designed and built per the Joint Service Family Center requirements, reference (l). Refurbishment of existing facilities shall use this reference for guidance on remodeling, space requirements, and layout. All facilities must meet Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requirements for public use buildings and should be configured to accommodate a variety of applicable handicapping conditions (such as restricted mobility, sight, and hearing) for both individual counseling/consultation and classroom activities. Facilities are to be equipped with necessary computer, network, audio-visual, and other equipment to provide training, customer service, and individual staff workstations.

(1) Sound safety practices must be followed if clients are seen during extended hours, to include adequate staffing and accessible security systems in facilities. Staffs in any of the domestic violence or sexual abuse advocacy or parenting programs conducting home visits must also adhere to sound safety practices.

(2) Phone systems shall refer callers to other resources for emergency assistance after hours (e.g., command duty office, 24/7 sexual assault or domestic violence victim advocacy, contracted answering service, other DoD-sponsored services, 911 and/or emergency medical services). Command after-hours resources will provide training and back up numbers for handling emergencies.

g. Non-duplication of Services. It is the intent of FFSPs that centers will not duplicate existing comparable resources that are otherwise available to and accessible by personnel and family members. FFSCs will conduct local community capacity surveys, at least triennially or when major changes occur, to evaluate the availability and accessibility of other military and civilian community programs. Evaluation should include eligibility requirements, accessibility, location/hours/cost to Sailor or family, capacity to serve military customers, and staff credentials and knowledge of military culture. All referral services, whether Navy or civilian, shall meet or exceed industry standards of care.

h. Cooperative Relationships. FFSC staff will establish and maintain a close cooperative relationship with existing community (military and civilian) resources. Staff will participate on community committees and boards and will conduct in-service training for community staff to educate them on military culture, challenges, and family dynamics and needs. Staff will establish liaison and cooperative relationships with community services for provision of services in crisis or disasters. To that end, staff will be responsible for ensuring the appropriateness of potential partners or volunteers. Because it is in Navy's self-interest to have educated community partners, FFSCs are encouraged to use clinical and job-training internships whenever feasible.

i. Coordination with Other Uniformed Service Agencies. The Navy FFSC program, at headquarters, regional, and field levels, will strive to coordinate programming efforts with family support programs of the other uniformed services.

(1) A Memorandum of Agreement or inter-service agreement may be used to describe services to be provided when tenant organizations reside on another uniformed service's installation. Members and families of other uniformed services are provided assistance per reference (c).

(2) FFSC staff will partner with other DoD-sponsored family support services to provide services beyond the capacity of the local FFSC for 24/7 and on-line consultation, educational services, and additional community counseling services.

j. Staffing. An appropriately educated and experienced staff is the most critical resource for the delivery of services. Staff must meet educational, experience, credential, or privileging requirements as established in specific program instructions. Clinical staff shall be credentialed and privileged per reference (m). Background checks are required for any staff working with, or assigned to work with children, per reference (n) and CNIC implementing guidance.

k. Program Functions. Three types of functions will be conducted across all programs and services: information and referral, education and training, and counseling or consultation. These functions (delivered at the center or through outreach at workplace or community sites) can be provided to individuals or groups.

(1) Information and Referral. FFSCs will provide information and referral services (such as informational brochures, telephone numbers, and contact information) to eligible patrons concerning programs, services, volunteer opportunities, and resources available in both military and civilian communities. Staff will access or refer clients to information on other service installations, health care resources, counseling resources, employment assistance, educational resources, consumer services, credit counseling, and service agencies such as American Red Cross (ARC), Navy and Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS), child care, and special needs services. Referrals to civilian providers of health care services shall be made through TRICARE advisory offices or other DoD-contracted services to ensure clients do not encounter unnecessary or excessive out-of-pocket costs.

(2) Education and Training. A major function of FFSCs is the delivery of program specific education and training for the programs required by reference (d), as listed in enclosure (2), and as specified in regulatory guidance for those specific programs. FFSCs will offer informational, educational, and preventive programs on a continuing basis, making maximum use of community services.

(3) Consultation/Counseling. Both clinical and non-clinical counseling (consultation) services will be offered by FFSCs. One-on-one or small group consultation shall be available in any program if staff resources permit. Clinical counseling for individual, marital, family and child or domestic abuse issues are core FFSPs. Scope of practice for clinical counseling is defined in enclosure (1).

1. Servicemember and Family Readiness for Deployment. A primary mission support function of the FFSC is education and support for families before, during and after deployment. All programs, services, and delivery of services will be continuously evaluated in terms of meeting mission readiness requirements.

(1) FFSCs will provide continuous pre-deployment, mid-deployment, reunion and reintegration preparation, and post-deployment programs and services for both servicemembers and families to ensure individual and family readiness. FFSCs will provide supportive services to command Ombudsmen, FRGs, and will partner with other military and community organizations to provide deployment support services to servicemembers and families for servicemembers deploying with local units, as Navy Individual Augmentees (IAs), or as geographic bachelors.

(2) In preparation for mobilization of Reserve personnel, FFSCs will provide briefings on support services for area Reserve units and families. In the event of mobilization, FFSCs will provide appropriate support for personnel mobilizing from or reporting to their area of support. Such support may include information and referral services, outreach to families out of area, family relocation assistance, other program support, and assistance in connecting the family with the ombudsman, FRG, or other family support programs provided by the gaining command or unit.

m. Non-combatant Repatriation. In the event of noncombatant repatriation of family members and civilians, FFSCs will provide assistance to departing family members at the departure site, to arriving families at point of arrival, and at the "safe haven" destination during the duration of the event as directed by the repatriation program manager. FFSCs will assist family members with their return or Permanent Change of Station (PCS) to the next duty station per the Department of the Army, Joint Plan for DoD Non-Combatant Repatriation of Nov 2005, which is available on-line at <http://www.armygl.army.mil/MilitaryPersonnel/neo/jointPlan.html>.

n. Emergency Preparedness/Response. FFSCs shall have responsibility for family support in preparing for mitigating the consequences of, responding to, and recovering from emergencies and mass casualties. These roles are to be delineated in CNIC regional, installation, and local FFSC Emergency Preparedness/Emergency Response Plans. In incidents where there are casualties (injury or death), FFSC staff will work with the Casualty Assistance Calls Officer (CACO), and other staff such as chaplains, in providing coordinated support to affected casualty families. In emergency preparedness and response efforts, staff will coordinate services and work with appropriate installation staff to include Regional Emergency Managers and installation Emergency Management Officers. If the emergency requires it, FFSCs will support regional or installation Community Support Centers (CSCs) and/or establish separate Family Assistance Centers (FACs) as needed. FFSCs may request/provide staff augmentation from other FFSCs as needed. See reference (k) for further guidance on participation in emergency response procedures. Information on establishing FACs is provided at www.ffsp.navy.mil.

o. Liability. Government employees are protected from adverse actions arising from performance of their duties, however they may be vulnerable to personal liability for negligent or wrongful actions or omissions made while acting within the scope of Federal employment. Managerial, clinical and other professional staff members should be made aware of this so they may consider the advisability of having their own liability insurance.

p. Confidentiality and Protected Personal Information (PPI). Ensuring confidentiality and the protection of personal information obtained during the course of providing services are of utmost importance. Staff shall receive training on confidentiality, protection of personal information, information technology security, Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) (references (o) and (p)) and Privacy Act (PA) provisions and procedures. Any documents containing PPI (e.g., letters, memos, e-mails, messages, faxed documents), shall be marked FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY - PRIVACY SENSITIVE. Use an approved statement provided by regional or installation information security advisor or the sample statement provided in reference (o). Disclosure of PPI and/or privacy act protected personal information is grounds for dismissal and can result in criminal and/or civil penalties.

q. Privacy Act Records. Personal information can only be collected if there is a valid Privacy Act System Notice that covers the collected material. Privacy Act Notices for FFSC and FAP generated records can be found on-line at <http://privacy.navy.mil>. Confidentiality of records in the FFSC is governed by the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. § 552a) as implemented within Navy by reference (o). The Privacy Act limits access to personal information in Privacy Act systems of records. Enclosures (5) through (7) provide additional guidance. OPNAV 5211/9, Disclosure Accounting Form is required to be used to record all non-routine use disclosures. Reference (o) and applicable program policies should be consulted for specific guidance on the maintenance of records, per references (q) and (r).

r. Restricted Reporting. FFSC clinical staff, FAP victim advocates Sexual Assault Response Coordinators (SARCs) and SAVI victim advocates shall offer restricted or unrestricted reporting options for adult victims of domestic abuse and sexual assault per regulations specific to those programs.

s. Volunteers. Use of volunteers to complement and supplement FFSC programs is highly encouraged. Program interns are designated as FFSC volunteers. FFSC may also screen and refer volunteers to other activities for skill training as part of Family Employment Readiness Program activities or provide information and referral for those seeking to volunteer in other military or community services. CONFIDENTIALITY OF RECORDS
IN FLEET AND FAMILY SUPPORT CENTERS

1. The Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C 552a, mandates management safeguards for obtaining personal information and maintaining records. Reference (o) implements Navy's Privacy Act. Fleet and Family Support Center (FFSC) user and personnel records will be maintained in strict compliance with references (o) through (r).

2. Reference (a) has been extensively revised. FFSC staff having responsibility for PPI should be familiar with the instruction in its entirety. The information below provides a brief explanation of major applications to FFSC operations. Complete Privacy Act information can be found in reference (o) and at <http://privacy.navy.mil>.

3. Any member/employee of DON may be found guilty of a misdemeanor and fined up to $5,000 for willfully disclosing information protected by the Privacy Act to any unauthorized person or agency. Note that FFSC volunteers are not members or employees of DoD for purposes of the Privacy Act, and consequently volunteers may not see a user's records unless given written permission by the client.

4. Personal information can only be collected if there is a valid Privacy Act System Notice that covers the collected material. See reference (o) for list of applicable notices.

5. Prior to collection of any information from an FFSC user, the user must be provided (or read) a Privacy Act Statement. All FFSCs will use the Privacy Act Statement, OPNAV 1754/2, enclosure (6). This statement will be part of all FFSC forms which collect information from a user. For domestic violence or sexual assault clients electing restricted reporting options, see program regulations for additional guidance.

6. FFSC user files will be retained under the name or case number of the user being served. Military sponsors' names or other identifying information will not be used to identify files of family members who are FFSC users. Social security numbers may be used to identify and retrieve user files. Military sponsors will not be granted access to family members' FFSC user files.

Enclosure (5)

7. Users may obtain access to their FFSC record in most situations per reference (o). Disclosure of information from a user's record to third party (e.g., local resources) at the prior written request (or with the prior written consent) of the user is also permitted. In cases of marriage or other joint counseling, all of the users whose records are combined in a single file must give prior written permission before records from that file are disclosed to a third party.

8. The Privacy Act allows an FFSC to disclose information from a user's record, without the consent of the user, in certain carefully defined cases. Common situations in which a user's records may be disclosed are listed below according to the exception in the Privacy Act disclosure:

a. Privacy Act Exception 1: disclosure to officers and employees of DOD who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties. For example, this exemption allows a user's records, except in the case of a domestic violence or sexual assault victim who elects restricted reporting, to be disclosed to:

(1) The FFSP staff, however, not to FFSC volunteers, except by written acknowledgement by the client;

(2) Commanding Officers (COs) and other appropriate DoD authorities, in compliance with SECNAVINST 5510.35A and certain high-level security clearances;

(3) COs and appropriate DoD authorities, in compliance with OPNAVINST 5350.4C;

(4) COs in cases of established spouse abuse, child abuse and neglect, sexual assault, and rape pursuant to the FAP and SAVI programs that are not otherwise considered covered communication under restricted reporting requirements for incidents of domestic abuse or sexual assault;

(5) DoD law enforcement activities, e.g., Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NAVCRIMINVSVC), Naval Legal Service Offices (NLSO), in connection with their official duties, and

(6) COs and other appropriate DoD authorities (e.g., DoD medical or security personnel) when the clinical FFSC staff member in direct contact with the client judges that there is a danger to the client's life (or the lives of others) and/or significant property is endangered by the client or others disclosed to the staff member by the client.

b. Privacy Act Exception 2: user judges that the disclosure to persons who have submitted written FOIA requests, to the extent that the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. 552, requires this disclosure. However, since release of FFSC records will in most cases result in "a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy," very little, if any, information is likely to be required to be released by the FOIA. If a FOIA request for FFSC records is received, the FFSC staff should promptly contact the Regional or installation FOIA officer or judge advocate for assistance. Reference (p) applies.

c. Privacy Act Exception 3: disclosure for a "routine use" of the FFSC records (the Navy Family Support Program system of records, system N01754-1) Routine uses are published in the Federal Register and are included in the Privacy Act Statement given to FFSC users. Four of the more important routine uses are:

(1) Disclosure to State and local government authorities per State or local laws requiring the reporting of suspected child abuse or neglect;

(2) Disclosure to the appropriate Federal, State, local, or foreign agency charged with law enforcement, where FFSC records indicate that a violation of law may have occurred;

(3) Disclosure to certain foreign authorities in connection with international agreements, including status of forces agreements (SOFAs); and

(4) Disclosure to the Department of Justice for litigation purposes.

d. Other routine uses may apply in particular situations, and other Privacy Act exceptions may be used to disclose information where appropriate. In cases where there is any question as to the propriety of disclosure, the advice of a judge advocate should be sought.

5 Nov 07

9. If information from a user's FFSC record is disclosed in any way other than through Exception 1 or 2, a disclosure accounting must be kept per Conditions of Disclosure of reference (o). All disclosure accountings must be recorded on OPNAV 5211/9, Disclosure Accounting Form.

10. Requests for record access will be handled as follows:

a. A request by users for access to their own record, or an oral or written third-party request for access to a user's record made with the prior written consent of the user, will be handled per reference (o).

b. Record access between FFSP staff will be handled per regional or local FFSC standard operating procedures and the Privacy Act.

c. A request for record access which is of a type mentioned in subparagraph 8a(2)-(6) and 8c above (i.e., DOD user from outside the FFSC and routine users) will normally be in writing and signed by the person seeking the records. In the case of a request by a governmental agency, the signature should be that of a person holding a position of significant authority in the organization, at least equivalent to that of the head of the local branch of the organization. The decision to approve or disapprove the request should be made in consultation with the local Judge Advocate General (JAG) or NLSO for final approval prior to release of records by the FFSC Director/Site Manager or clinical services supervisor per regional/local guidance.

d. A FOIA request for an FFSC record will be handled per reference (p).

e. Any other request for record access must be submitted in writing fully stating the "need to know" or other statutory basis for access, and must be processed through the chain of command, to include the local JAG or NLSO, and then to CNIC for disclosure determination.

11. Since FFSC records on individuals who volunteer to assist at an FFSC will be kept in a Privacy Act "system of records," those records will be maintained in strict compliance with reference (o). Privacy Act System Notice N01754-2 applies. The

OPNAVINST 1754.1B

Privacy Act statement provided in enclosure (7) will be provided to a volunteer or potential volunteer whenever information is to be collected from the volunteer or potential volunteer for use in their records in this system of records. When disclosure accountings are required they will be made on OPNAV 5211/9.
