TRIBAL ENVIRONMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS GUIDE

This guide provides a compilation of organizations that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Indian Program works with in various capacities. These organizations are categorized into two types: National/Regional EPA-Supported Organizations and National/Regional Indian Organizations. It is a working document intended to be changed as new information becomes available.

The National/Regional EPA Organizations are those groups that have been established by EPA to serve as work groups or advisory groups.

There are over 150 tribal organizations throughout the country that address environmental and natural resource issues. The section on National/Regional Indian Organizations is an illustrative selection of some of these organizations.

Much of the information provided in this document is from a Resource Guide used for EPA's Working Effectively with Tribal Governments Training. Additional information was gathered from the websites of the listed organizations.

A. NATIONAL/REGIONAL EPA-SUPPORTED ORGANIZATIONS

American Indian Advisory Council (AIAC)

The American Indian Advisory Council (AIAC) is a Special Emphasis Program Council organized under the Office of Civil Rights. The central purpose of AIAC is to serve as an advisory group to the Administrator of EPA to recommend actions that address concerns of American Indians in the EPA workforce, and of the Indian tribes. Membership is open to all employees of EPA.

Forum on State and Tribal Toxics Action (FOSTTA)

The Forum on State and Tribal Toxics Action (FOSTTA) was established in spring of 1991 as a partnership between OPPT and state and tribal leaders to increase understanding and improve collaboration on toxics and pollution prevention issues among the states, tribes, and EPA. FOSTTA is comprised of members from state and tribal communities who have an interest in pollution prevention programs and toxics issues and meets three times a year. The FOSTTA Tribal Affairs Project was created in 1997. In 2002, the Environmental Council of States (ECOS), in partnership with the National Tribal Environmental Council, was awarded a five-year cooperative agreement to manage FOSTTA. The FOSTTA web site is at: <http://www.ecos.org/section/projects/?id=653>.

Indian Program Policy Council (IPPC)

The Indian Program Policy Council adopted a charter on October 30, 2003 and replaced the Senior Indian Program Managers Group. The IPPC was created to advise and support the Agency on major policy and implementation issues affecting EPA programs and activities in order to enhance protection of the environment and human health in Indian country, and other Tribal areas including in Alaska (ICOTA). The IPPC also serves as a vehicle to exchange information between EPA Headquarters and regions and was established to help the Agency meet the Administrator's high expectations for progress on strengthening the Agency's Indian Program.

IPPC is co-chaired by Office of Water (OW) and Region TOC representatives and is comprised of two groups, the Council itself and a Steering Committee. The Council consists of cross-Agency senior management who are representatives on the Tribal Operations Committee or their SES designee. The Steering Committee, which was created by the Council, consists of a representative from each program office. The IPPC may also establish subgroups to focus on specific projects or issues.

The Council meets four times a year while the Steering Committee meets monthly or more frequently if needed.

National Environmental Justice Advisory Council (NEJAC)

The National Environmental Justice Advisory Council (NEJAC) was charted as a Federal Advisory Committee in 1993. The Council has 26 representatives, including the Designated Federal Officer. The Council is made up of representatives from seven key environmental justice constituencies including community-based groups, business and industry, academic and educational institutions, tribal governments, state and local governments, and nongovernmental organizations.

The Council had seven standing subcommittees; one of which was the Indigenous Peoples Subcommittee. These subcommittees are no longer active; however, NEJAC continues to work with indigenous grassroots groups and environmental organizations, tribal business and industry, academia, and state government to address environmental justice and developing recommendations for bringing about environmental justice in Indian country. The Council plans for Workgroups on an as-needed basis.

Charles Lee, Designated Federal Official, NEJAC, (202) 564-2597

Daniel Gogal, Tribal Coordinator, Office of Environmental Justice, (202) 564-2576

National Indian Law Workgroup (NILWG)

The National Indian Law Work Group (NILWG) is the counterpart to the National Indian Work Group. It addresses legal issues that arise in the course of developing and implementing the Agency's Indian Program. The NILWG is composed of lawyers from EPA's regional counsel and program offices, the Office of General Counsel, the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance, and from the Department of Justice and the Department of the Interior who work on federal Indian law issues. The group also includes policy staff from AIEO and other EPA offices. NILWG meets once a month via teleconference to discuss pressing or nationally significant Indian law issues related to environmental protection and to exchange information on common issues and problems. Also, NILWG usually meets face-to-face once each year.

Barbara Wester, Office of Regional Counsel, EPA Region 5, (312) 353-8514

National Indian Workgroup (NIWG)

The role of the National Indian Work Group (NIWG) was initially defined in the 1984 Indian Policy Implementation Guidance. The NIWG is chaired by the Director of the American Indian Environmental Office and is composed of representatives from regional and program offices, generally the Indian Coordinator. NIWG was established to facilitate and coordinate efforts to identify and resolve policy and programmatic barriers to working directly with Indian tribes; implement comprehensive tribal environmental programs; identify priority tribal projects; and perform other services in support of the Agency managers in implementing the Indian policy. NIWG holds regular biweekly conference calls and usually meets at least once each year.

Chairperson: Carol Jorgensen, Director
American Indian Environmental Office (AIEO)
(202) 564-0303

National Pollution Prevention and Toxics Advisory Committee (NPPTAC)

The National Pollution Prevention and Toxics Advisory Committee (NPPTAC or Committee) is the national advisory body to provide advice, information and recommendations on the overall policy and operation of programs managed by EPA Office of Pollution Prevention and Toxics (OPPT), in performing its duties and responsibilities under the Toxics Substances Control Act (TSCA) and the Pollution Prevention Act (PPA). The Committee provides a forum for public discussion and the development of independent advice to the EPA Administrator by taking advantage of the experience, strengths and responsibilities of a broad range of Agency constituents and stakeholders. In addition, Federal Agency representatives or national experts serve as technical advisors to the NPPTAC.

Membership: The NPPTAC is composed of fifteen (15) members, with balanced representation from industry, non-governmental organizations, States and Tribes, academia and other institutions, with knowledge and experience with risk management, risk communication, and pollution prevention programs. The NPPTAC holds meetings, analyzes issues and makes necessary recommendations. The Committee is expected to meet at least three times per year. Technical advisors, while not members of the Committee, provide information and advice about their federal agencies' policies and positions as needed by the NPPTAC during discussions.

The NPPTAC web site is at: <http://www.epa.gov/oppt/npptac>.

National Tribal Air Association (NTAA)

The National Tribal Air Association (NTAA) is a tribal air quality organization dedicated to insuring that Tribes themselves set priorities and determine mechanisms for interacting with other governments on air issues. The mission of the NTAA is to collectively advance air quality management policies and programs, consistent with the needs, interests, and unique legal status of American Indian Tribes, Alaska Natives, and Native Hawaiians. NTAA is housed at the National Tribal Environmental Council (NTEC) in Albuquerque, NM. For more information, visit the Web site at: <http://www.ntaatribalair.org>.

National Tribal Water Council

In late 2006, the Office of Water (OW) provided funding to establish and administer a national Tribal Water Council (TWC). The TWC is a tribal technical resource and program and policy dialogue and development group. It focuses on protecting the aquatic resources of Indian country by supporting tribal implementation of the requirements of the Clean Water Act and the Safe Drinking Water Act as well as by encouraging tribes to enter into partnerships with other stakeholders and to engage in voluntary water resource protection. The organization provides a recognized means for tribes to provide EPA with input on national water protection policies and initiatives, and assures that the tribal voice will continue to have a strong influence on long term strategies adopted by the Office of Water.

Regional Tribal Operations Committee (RTOC)

The formation of Regional Tribal Operations Committee (RTOC) at each EPA region with federally recognized tribes is to facilitate communications regarding tribal environmental matters within the regions. RTOC and its members help the regional offices institutionalize the Agency's Indian Policy and serve as an important liaison on regional and national environmental issues that impact Indian country, between Native American tribes, EPA's Regional Offices, EPA's national program offices, and the Tribal Operations Committee. The RTOC helps maintain open and consistent communication among tribes, and between tribes and EPA management.

In addition, RTOC members participate on regional and national workgroups providing unique tribal perspectives on environmental needs and provide advice during the planning stages of new initiatives.

Membership: Membership of RTOC varies by Region. Region 2 does not have an RTOC. The Indian nations in Region 2 have an annual meeting with EPA senior leaders.

Tribal Operations Committee (TOC)

In order to improve communications and build stronger partnerships with the tribes, the Agency established the Tribal Operations Committee (TOC) in February 1994. The TOC comprises of 19 tribal leaders (the Tribal Caucus) and EPA's Senior Leadership Team, including the Administrator, the Deputy Administrator, and the Assistant and Regional Administrators. The TOC is co-chaired by the EPA Administrator and the Chairperson of the TOC Tribal Caucus. The TOC meets on a regular basis to discuss implementation of the environmental protection programs for which EPA and the tribes share responsibility as co-regulators. All tribes are encouraged to communicate with the members of the TOC Tribal Caucus. Although the TOC is an important and effective vehicle for enhancing communications between EPA and the tribes, it is not a substitute for Agency consultation with individual tribes in accordance with the Administration policy of working with Indian tribes on a government-to-government basis.

Tribal Pesticide Program Council (TPPC)

The Office of Pesticide Programs (OPP) Tribal Program organized the Tribal Pesticide Program Council (TPPC) in late 1999. TPPC is a tribal technical resource and program and policy dialogue and development group, focused on pesticide issues and concerns. It meets twice a year and provides a vehicle through which tribes can voice opinions on national pesticide policies and raise tribal pesticide issues to federal attention. The TPPC is a strong partner with the EPA to ensure that tribes will continue to provide a major impetus for the long-term strategic direction taken by the Office of Prevention, Pesticide, and Toxic Substances (OPPTS) Tribal Program as it strives to build tribal capacity and produce an Agency pesticide strategy that is responsive to tribal needs and concerns. In addition, the TPPC serves as a technical resource pool for tribes in Indian country.

Membership: The TPPC is composed of authorized representatives from federally recognized tribes and Indian nations and intertribal organizations. Authorization must be in writing by a letter from either the Tribal Chairperson or a letter or resolution from the Tribal Council or similar governing body. At this time there are 42 authorized representatives, including some authorized alternates. Thirty-two tribes or Indian nations have authorized representatives.

The Administrative Contact is the Coordinator of the TPPC.
Lillian A. Wilmore of Native Ecology Initiative, (617) 232-5742

Tribal Science Council (TSC)

The Tribal Science Council provides a forum for interaction between Tribal and Agency representatives of mutual benefit and responsibility to work collaboratively on environmental scientific issues.

Membership: Membership in the TSC consists of a single tribal representative from each of the nine EPA Regions with federally recognized tribes, an additional tribal representative designated in Region 10 to represent Alaska Native communities, and a single Agency representative from each Headquarters program office and region. Agency representatives are designated by Assistant Administrators from the EPA program office and regions. Tribal representatives are nominated by their Regional Tribal Operations Committees through the National Tribal Operations Committee.

Executive Secretary: Monica Rodia, EPA Office of Research & Development, (202) 564-8322

Officers: David Nelson, Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe, Co-Chair, (605) 964-6558

The Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission: The Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission provides technical assistance to its 11 member tribes in the conservation and management of fish, wildlife, and other natural resources throughout the Great Lakes region, thereby ensuring access to traditional pursuits of the Chippewa people. For more information, visit the Web site at <http://www.glfwc.org> or call (715) 682-6619.

Membership: GLIFWC member tribes are:

Michigan - Bay Mills Indian Community, Keweenaw Bay Indian Community and Lac Vieux Desert band.

Wisconsin - Bad River, Lac Courte Oreilles, Lac du Flambeau, Mole Lake/Sokaogon, Red Cliff and St. Croix bands.

Minnesota - Fond du Lac and Mille Lacs bands.

Executive Administrator: James Zorn

Officers: Elected leaders of member tribes

Address: P.O. BOX 9, 100 Maple Street, Odanah, WI 54861

Haudenosaunee Environmental Task Force: The Haudenosaunee Environmental Task Force (HETF) is an inter-tribal consortia that addresses environmental matters for the Iroquois Confederacy. HETF is composed of delegates (Haudenosaunee leaders, environmental technicians, and scientists) chosen by each of the Haudenosaunee Nations. These individuals are from the 4 federally recognized nations of Cayuga, Tuscarora, Onondaga, and Tonawanda-Seneca as well as from the 2 non-federally recognized nations of Mohawk and Oneida and are committed to identifying environmental problems in their communities and working to find solutions to them. For more information, visit the Web site at <http://www.hetfonline.org> or call (518) 358-3381

Membership: Cayuga, Tuscarora, Onondaga, and Tonawanda-Seneca, Mohawk and Oneida Nations.

Director: Joyce King, Mohawk Nation, P.O. Box 366, Roosevelttown, New York 13683

Indigenous Environmental Network: The Indigenous Environmental Network is governed by a national council of indigenous grassroots organizations and individuals. The services provided by the IEN National Office include a national clearinghouse on environmental issues; a resource and referral network for technical information and fact sheets; national/regional/local education on grassroots organizing, training, and strategic development; annual conference planning; and information dissemination on indigenous grassroots environmental groups and tribal government environmental programs. For more information, visit the Web site at <http://www.ienearth.org> or call (218) 751-4967.

Director: Tom Goldtooth

Officers (Board of Directors):

- Manual Pino, founder and member of the Laguna-Acoma for a Safe Environment, a tribal community-based organization working on uranium contamination on Pueblo tribal communities in New Mexico.
- Gloria Decorah Toyebi, Sokaogan Defense Committee, a member of a tribal community-based group working to stop hard rock mining in Wisconsin.
- Bineshi Albert, a previous founding member and youth representative of IEN and currently a co-coordinator of Sage Council, in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Sage Council is working on the protection of the sacred Petroglyph.

Address: PO Box 485, Bemidji, MN 56619

Indigenous Waters Network: Indigenous Water Network (IWN) is a grassroots efforts led by tribal people and supported on an organizational basis by the River Network. IWN has been organized to address tribal issues related to water with a focus on protecting water resources, cultural uses and traditional values of water as well as help tribal governments establish scientifically based tribal water codes. River Network is a national river conservation organization whose mission is to help people understand, protect and restore rivers and their watersheds. River Network supports and empowers the efforts of community-based watershed protection groups and tribes working for watershed protection at the local, state and regional scales. For more information, call (505) 412-2245.

The Midwest Treaty Network: The Midwest Treaty Network was founded in 1989 as an alliance of Indian and non-Indian groups supporting Native American sovereignty in the western Great Lakes region. The MTN works with numerous tribes and tribal organizations throughout the region on issues of cultural respect including sacred site protection, opposition to spiritual exploitation and cultural trivialization (e.g., Indian mascots issues), support for environmental protection and land claims, and building cultural and economic ties between Native and non-Native communities. While founded in the context of the Chippewa (Ojibwe) treaty struggle, it is concerned generally with defending and strengthening Native cultures and nationhood, protecting Mother Earth, and fighting racism and other forms of domination throughout our region. The Network has taken a stand against economic and political pressure on indigenous nations to give up their rights. For more information, visit the website: <http://www.treatyland.com/> or call (715) 295-0018, or (920) 496-5360.
