To Whom It May Concern:

RE: TTB Notice Number Four

I am writing due to my concerns over the new, unnecessary regulations for flavored malt beverages that have been proposed by the TTB. If rules changes are placed into effect, it will diminish my business profits and hinder my ability to develop a business plan. This will happen because the price of flavored malt beverages will be priced so high that my loyal customers will no longer be able to afford to buy them. That means less traffic in my store and a large loss of sales. I can't survive on even less profit.

Current taxes and regulatory burdens are heavy enough. If we are to see our economy heal, this cycle of excessive taxation and regulation has to end. You can start that process by opposing the rules changes for flavored malt beverages.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Naseem Siddique
