Comments= I am opposed to this proposed rulemaking for several reasons:

1-Government has no business telling manufacturers how to formulate their products.

2-Changes made to comply with such regulations are likely to affect the quality of the product, probably for the worse.

3-Changes made to comply with such regulations are not free; production costs and therefore prices will increase.

In other words, there are already too many nonsense regulations that infringe on people's freedom and cost money, let's not add this to them.
