

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

If a teen decides to go to college, this is a big decision. Parent and teen can work together through the process of choosing a college. Gathering information off the web and visiting colleges can be helpful. The application process can be complicated; teens will need some guidance. Explore available financial aid options. Once accepted, parent and teen can learn about initial classes that should be taken. Contact advisors for help. Also, think about things such as checking the parking regulations and considering options for extracurricular activities.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

If a teen decides to go to college, this is a big decision. Parent and teen can work together through the process of choosing a college. Gathering information off the web and visiting colleges can be helpful. The application process can be complicated; teens will need some guidance. Explore available financial aid options. Once accepted, parent and teen can learn about initial classes that should be taken. Contact advisors for help. Also, think about things such as checking the parking regulations and considering options for extracurricular activities.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

If a teen decides to go to college, this is a big decision. Parent and teen can work together through the process of choosing a college. Gathering information off the web and visiting colleges can be helpful. The application process can be complicated; teens will need some guidance. Explore available financial aid options. Once accepted, parent and teen can learn about initial classes that should be taken. Contact advisors for help. Also, think about things such as checking the parking regulations and considering options for extracurricular activities.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

If a teen decides to go to college, this is a big decision. Parent and teen can work together through the process of choosing a college. Gathering information off the web and visiting colleges can be helpful. The application process can be complicated; teens will need some guidance. Explore available financial aid options. Once accepted, parent and teen can learn about initial classes that should be taken. Contact advisors for help. Also, think about things such as checking the parking regulations and considering options for extracurricular activities.