

The Pentagon Employee Assistance Program (PERS) presents:

Supervisory Communication: Foundations for Personal Conversations

- Gain understanding about why investment of supervisory time in communication with staff is not only a good idea, but a necessity in our diverse and rapidly changing workplaces.
- Learn how to set the stage for effective conflict communication by increasing awareness of communication strengths and communication self-sabotage.
- Get hands-on practice with conflict communication scenarios that can be applied to positively engage the troubled employee and address workplace performance issues.
