

Council of the INSPECTORS GENERAL
on INTEGRITY and EFFICIENCY

THOMAS CAULFIELD, CFE, CIG, CIGI
CIGIE Training Institute
Executive Director

Mr. Thomas Caulfield serves as the Executive Director for the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency (CIGIE) Training Institute. The Training Institute's overall mission is to provide education and training for managers, auditors, evaluators, inspectors, law enforcement officials, attorneys and other professionals in the Federal Office of Inspectors General (OIG) community. Mr. Caulfield has over 33 years of Government service to include the United States Marine Corps, the United States Air Force, the National Reconnaissance Office, and the Central Intelligence Agency. He is a graduate from Wayland Baptist University and St. Leo College, where he received degrees in both criminology and criminal justice. He holds various certifications some of which include Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE), Certified Inspector General (CIG), and Certified Inspector General for Investigation (CIGI).

Mr. Caulfield has worked in the Federal Inspector General community for most of his Government career with his last assignment as the Assistant Inspector General of Investigation, National Reconnaissance Office. He is an Executive Board member of the Association of Inspectors General, a national organization with membership from all levels of city, State, and Federal Office of Inspectors General.

Mr. Caulfield has instructed for the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners, the National Contract Management Association, the Association of Government Accountants, at both the national and local chapter levels, and many other professional auditing and investigation associations. He was an instructor with Central Texas College where he lectured on Anti-Terrorism and a former guest instructor for the Inspector General Audit Training Institute. He currently lectures on advance procurement fraud detection steps at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, the Inspector General Criminal Investigator Academy, and the Association of Inspectors General training courses. He has held various training committee positions and was the principle designer of several professional development courses being currently offered to auditors and investigators at all levels of the Government.