Report to the President and Congress Pursuant to Section 209 of the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008

The United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is submitting this report to the President, Congress, and the public, as required under section 27(j) (15 U.S.C. 2076(j)) of the Consumer Product Safety Act (CPSA), as amended by the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008 (CPSIA). The content of this report is specified in the CPSA and the CPSIA. The report describes many of the activities performed to protect the public from hazardous consumer products. Readers may also be interested in the CPSC's 2011 Performance and Accountability Report, required by the Government Performance and Results Act. All reports are available on the CPSC's website at: www.cpsc.gov.

The CPSC (or the Commission), established by Congress in 1972, is the federal regulatory body tasked with protecting children and families from unreasonable risks of injuries associated with consumer products. In 2010, the Commission launched a comprehensive strategic planning initiative to update its existing strategic plan and help align agency priorities to meet the challenges of the twenty-first century. For example, globalization and technological advances have increased the range of products on the market, as well as the challenges involved in overseeing and regulating thousands of product types that can be assembled across multiple countries. The resulting 2011–2016 Strategic Plan was developed through a consultative process involving input from consumer groups, industry stakeholders, and agency staff. It lays out an approach to achieve the CPSC's broad mission of protecting the public against unreasonable risks of injury from consumer products through education, safety standards activities, regulation, and enforcement. The overarching vision for the strategy is that the CPSC is the recognized global leader in consumer product safety. Readers may view the strategic plan on the CPSC's website at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/cpsc/pub/pubs/reports/2011strategic.pdf>.

The CPSC stands for safety and has been effective in reducing consumer product-related injury and death rates by using a wide range of strategies to identify and address product safety hazards. These strategies are:

- Hazard Identification and Monitoring: collecting information and monitoring injury and death statistics related to the use of products under the CPSC's jurisdiction;
- Safety Standards: participating in the development and strengthening of voluntary safety standards and developing mandatory standards;
- Compliance and Enforcement: enforcing compliance with standards through compliance activities, such as recalls or other corrective actions, and litigating when necessary;
- Public Outreach: educating consumers, families, foreign governments, and industry about product safety recalls, safety alerts, emerging hazards, and safety standards; and
- Intergovernmental Coordination: coordinating on product safety issues with other governmental stakeholders.

The report is organized around the five strategies noted above.

HAZARD IDENTIFICATION AND MONITORING

The Commission, in fulfilling its mission to protect the public against unreasonable risks of injuries associated with consumer products, collects, reviews, and analyzes data on deaths, injuries, and societal costs associated with such products. This section describes the “Incidence of Injury and Effects to the Population” associated with products under the jurisdiction of the Commission. Four tables present summary data by totals and by age groups for:

- product-related deaths;
- product-related injuries;
- percent of emergency room visits resulting in hospitalization; and
- estimated costs of injuries.

Product-Related Deaths (Table 1). The CPSC collects mortality data through contracts with each state. The CPSC reviews about 8,000 death certificates each year, covering unintentional product-related deaths from all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The CPSC purchases death certificates that have a high probability of consumer product involvement. However, because we do not purchase all death certificates, and because those we purchase do not always identify the products involved, the total number of actual product-related deaths may be higher than the number we report. While the deaths in this table represent product involvement, that involvement does not necessarily indicate causality.

Product-Related Injuries (Tables 2 and 3). Each year, the CPSC collects information about product-related injuries through its National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS). This unique system provides statistically valid national estimates of product-related injuries from a probability sample of hospital emergency rooms (ERs) and is the foundation for many CPSC activities. These injury reports not only provide the means for estimating the magnitude of consumer product-related injuries in the United States, but they also provide a source for gathering further information concerning the nature and probable cause of accidents. Several foreign governments have modeled their national injury data-collection systems after the CPSC’s system. Annually, NEISS supplies more than 380,000 product-related cases from a sample of about 100 hospitals. The hospitals transmit incident information electronically, and in some cases, the data are available within 24 hours after an incident. Table 2 presents data on estimates of injuries associated with consumer products that resulted in hospital ER treatment. Table 3 presents estimates of the percent of such injuries for which the treated individuals were subsequently hospitalized. While the injuries in these tables represent product involvement, that involvement does not necessarily indicate causality.

Cost of Product-Related Injuries (Table 4). To estimate costs of hospital ER-treated, consumer product injuries, the CPSC employs its Revised Injury Cost Model. The costs noted in this report do not include the costs of consumer product-related injuries that were treated elsewhere, such as in physicians’ offices, health maintenance organizations, and freestanding urgent care clinics. Estimates also do not include the economic losses of fatalities associated with the use of consumer products. These losses may be substantial. Furthermore, cost estimates are not available for many acute and chronic illnesses associated with exposure to chemical hazards. The number and costs of these illnesses are expected to be large.

Products are aggregated into 15 product groupings for the deaths, injuries, and cost data presented (see pp. 7–8). These products are described in the NEISS Coding Manual, Directorate for Epidemiology, U.S. CPSC. The NEISS Coding Manual can be found online at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/neiss/completemanual.pdf>.

Additional data are collected and analyzed to develop more detailed estimates concerning products for which Commission remedial action has been considered. Based on interviews with victims or witnesses, the Commission identifies causes of incidents, including the interactions among the persons involved, the products, and the environment. Using all of the available data, Commission staff periodically prepares hazard analysis reports for selected products. Table 1 - Deaths Associated With the Use of Certain Consumer ProductsOctober 1, 2007–September 30, 2008

This table presents the latest available estimates of deaths associated with, but not necessarily caused by, the use of consumer products. These estimates are derived from data taken from death certificates that the Commission purchases from the states. The time required for collection and processing varies by state, but the majority of death certificates are received within two years of the date of death.

Table 2 - Estimates of Hospital Emergency Room-Treated Injuries Associated with the Use of Certain Consumer Products

October 1, 2009–September 30, 2010¹

This table presents the estimates of hospital emergency room-treated injuries associated with, but not necessarily caused by, the use of consumer products. It is based on data collected from a statistically representative sample of hospitals as part of the Commission's National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS). The NEISS hospital sample has been updated periodically to take into account changes that have occurred in the NEISS sampling frame of emergency departments over time (e.g., including hospital emergency departments opened after the initial sampling frame was constructed). In addition, over time, there have been modifications to the definition of in-scope injuries.

SAFETY STANDARDS

The Commission reduces consumer product hazards through the development of mandatory safety standards and staff involvement in the development and strengthening of voluntary safety standards. This section presents:

- mandatory safety standards in effect;
- voluntary safety standards in which staff participated; and
- research activities in which staff participated.

1) Mandatory Safety Standards: Mandatory standards are usually developed through rulemaking. If a voluntary standard exists, by law, the Commission may not issue a mandatory standard unless it finds that the voluntary standard will not eliminate or adequately reduce the risk of injury or death or determines that it is unlikely that there will be substantial compliance with the voluntary standard. During the rulemaking process, staff seeks input from all interested parties, including consumers, industry, and other government agencies. The CPSC usually develops performance standards, rather than design standards, to give manufacturers the most flexibility. Examples of products for which mandatory standards are under development include: portable generators, upholstered furniture, recreational off-road vehicles, bed rails, bedside sleepers, infant swings, and play yards.

On August 14, 2008, the President signed into law the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008 (CPSIA). The CPSIA directs the Commission to implement numerous rulemakings and other official Commission actions intended to enhance the safety of consumer products. More than 40 separate rules or rulemaking activities were mandated by the CPSIA. Examples of rulemakings, related rulemaking activities, and official actions mandated or initiated by the CPSIA include: lead content determinations and exclusions; interpretative rules for children's products, children's toys, and a child care article; labeling of consumer products as complying with certification requirements; and consumer registration forms, new safety standards, and accreditation requirements for durable infant or toddler products.

2) Voluntary Safety Standards: The CPSC's statutory authority requires it to rely on voluntary standards to build safety into consumer products if the Commission determines that compliance with a voluntary standard is likely to result in the elimination or adequate reduction of the risk of injury identified and finds that there is substantial compliance with the voluntary standard. CPSC staff works with organizations that facilitate the development of voluntary standards. Staff participates in the development of voluntary standards at a number of steps in the process. Staff first submits recommendations to voluntary standards organizations for new standards or modifications of existing standards. After receiving CPSC staff recommendations, organizations may conduct technical assessments (as appropriate); publish a proposal for public comment; receive and evaluate comments; or publish a standard. This process may take months to several years. Staff participates in the process by providing expert advice, technical assistance, and information based on data analyses of how deaths, injuries, or incidents occurred. The CPSC's voluntary standards policy does not permit staff to vote on proposed changes or new standards. However, staff's comments are considered throughout the process.

The CPSIA added authority for the Commission, in certain cases, to specify by rule that a product or product class that does not comply with a voluntary standard is a substantial product hazard under the CPSA. This facilitates obtaining corrective actions when products that do not comply with such voluntary standards are found in commerce. In 2011, the Commission passed two such rules for hair dryers and children's upper outerwear with drawstrings.

- 3) Research Activities: CPSC staff conducts and sponsors many research and study projects in furtherance of its activities to improve product safety and reduce or eliminate potential hazards associated with consumer products. The findings from such projects may be used by staff to develop and refine positions on voluntary and mandatory product safety standards. Examples include research on carbon monoxide alarms, portable generators, and imported drywall.

Standards Adopted as Mandatory in 2011

The following voluntary standards became mandatory in 2011:

- Safety Standard for Full-Size Baby Cribs and Non-Full-Size Baby Cribs: Section 104(b) of the CPSIA mandated that the CPSC assess the effectiveness of the relevant voluntary standard and promulgate a mandatory consumer product safety standard that is substantially the same as, or more stringent than, the voluntary standard. Accordingly, for full-size cribs, the CPSC issued a consumer product safety standard that incorporates ASTM F 1169–10 with two modifications that strengthen the standard. For non-full-size cribs, the CPSC issued a consumer product safety standard that incorporates ASTM F 406-10a with four modifications that strengthen the standard. The Final Rule was published in the Federal Register on December 28, 2010, and it became effective on June 28, 2011. The crib standards are different from standards for the other durable infant or toddler products that section 104 of the CPSIA directs the Commission to issue. Section 104(c) of the CPSIA specifies that the crib standards will cover used, as well as new, cribs. The crib standards apply to anyone who manufactures, distributes, or contracts to sell a crib: to child care facilities, family child care homes, and others holding themselves out to be knowledgeable about cribs; to anyone who leases, sublets, or otherwise places a crib in the stream of commerce; and to owners and operators of places of public accommodation affecting commerce.
- Safety Standard for Toddler Beds: Section 104(b) of the CPSIA mandated that the CPSC assess the effectiveness of the relevant voluntary standard and promulgate a mandatory consumer product safety standard that is substantially the same as, or more stringent than, the voluntary standard. Accordingly, the CPSC issued a voluntary consumer product safety standard that incorporates ASTM F 1821–09 with several modifications that strengthen the standard. The Final Rule was published in the Federal Register on April 20, 2011, and it became effective on October 20, 2011.
- Virginia Graeme Baker Pool and Spa Safety Act (VGB) Regulations; Incorporation by Reference of Successor Standard for drain covers: The VGB Act provides that if a successor standard to ASME/ANSI A112.19.8 is proposed, the Commission, if it determines that the proposed revision is in the public interest, shall incorporate the revision into the standard, after providing 30 days' notice to the public. The Commission found the successor drain cover standard, ANSI/APSP–16 2011, to be in the public interest, and it incorporated the standard by reference into its regulations implementing the VGB Act. The Final Rule was published in the Federal Register on August 5, 2011, and it became effective on September 6, 2011.

2) Voluntary Safety Standards

The CPSC issues the Voluntary Standards Tracking and Access Report (VSTAR) on a semi-annual basis. The report includes the objective of each standard under development, the name of the employee leading the activity, and the status of the standard. A summary from the 2011 annual report is provided below for convenience. The Web address for the report is:

<http://www.cpsc.gov/library/foia/foia12/brief/fy11volstds.pdf>.

Thirty-seven new, revised, or reaffirmed voluntary safety standards, for which CPSC staff provided monitoring or technical support, were completed during the period from October 1, 2010 to September 30, 2011. These voluntary safety standards addressed: bassinets and cradles (two standards), bath seats, batteries, bed rails, toddler beds, bicycles (six standards), booster seats, chairs (youth folding), child-resistant packaging, cribs (full-size, two standards), cribs (non-full-size) and play yards (five standards), garage door/gate operators (two standards), generators (portable), helmets (recreational, two standards), infant carriers (soft), infant swings (two standards), infant tubs, infant walkers, playground equipment (children <2 years), playground equipment (public), strollers, swimming pools and spas, and tree stands.

In total, during the same period, CPSC staff provided technical support (summarized in the VSTAR) or monitored the development of 60 voluntary safety standards. The majority of voluntary standards development activities are managed by three standards development/coordinating organizations: ASTM International (previously called the American Society for Testing and Materials), the American National Standards Institute (ANSI), and Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL). The standards developed by these organizations provide safety provisions addressing potential hazards associated with consumer products found in homes, schools, and recreational areas.

3) Research Activities

Commission staff conducts studies and investigates deaths, injuries, diseases, and economic costs associated with consumer products. This research is used to identify hazardous products and design effective strategies to reduce product hazards. In 2011, CPSC staff conducted or participated in the following research:

All-Terrain Vehicles (ATVs) Child-resistant Ignition: Staff completed a draft report in September 2011, which summarizes the work of engineering students in developing a proof-of-concept design for a child-resistant ignition switch for ATVs. The student group created a child-resistant ignition which, in initial testing, appeared successful at limiting the ability of some children 10 years old and younger to start an ATV on their own.

ATV Occupant Protection Systems: Staff developed a preliminary test and evaluation plan for two currently marketed occupant protection systems. Staff also completed a statement of work for future use to address the usability and effectiveness of occupant protection systems.

Brain Injury Study: In July 2011, the contractor provided a project status update with research results, to date, including partial, preliminary results on incidence of injury, severity of injury, short-term medical costs, work losses, and quality-of-life losses for lead poisoning, swimming pool submersions of children, and carbon monoxide poisoning for all ages.

Carbon Monoxide-Related Annual Updates: Staff prepared the annual report on carbon monoxide fatalities associated with consumer products. It is available at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/LIBRARY/FOIA/FOIA12/os/co11.pdf>. Staff completed the annual report on CO incidents associated with generators and engine-driven tools. It is available at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/library/coed11.pdf>.

Chemical Toxicity Assessments: Several toxicity reviews for phthalates and phthalate substitutes were completed in support of the Chronic Hazard Advisory Panel (CHAP) activities. A contractor report that assessed the toxicity potential of three nanomaterials was also completed, in addition to staff reports that summarize these toxicity reviews. Documents related to the analysis of metals in the ASTM F963 toy standard were prepared by staff and sent for external peer review. Draft staff assessments were also completed to update the Commission's guidance limiting the use of animals to test substances that might be hazardous under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. Staff also completed a draft briefing package for Commission consideration of acceptance of Interagency Coordinating Committee on the Validation of Alternative Methods (ICCVAM) recommendations on four test methods regarding ocular toxicity testing, and revisions to the murine local lymph node assay in 2012.

Cigarette Ignition Risk: Staff prepared a statement of work that was used to award a contract, and a task order was issued to the contractor for testing reduced-ignition propensity and conventional cigarettes on mattresses. The contractor completed testing and submitted preliminary data to CPSC staff.

Carbon Monoxide Alarms: In 2011, staff reviewed recent surveys, reports, and statistics to understand better the current consumer product market for CO alarms. This review provided information about household usage of CO alarms and the domestic market for CO alarms, including estimates for the percentage of households with an installed CO alarm and the percentage of advertised CO alarms that are listed as adhering to voluntary CO alarm standards.

Drywall: In 2011, staff completed reports on technical studies related to problem drywall. Staff prepared and released 10 reports on the results of technical studies related to drywall, including:

(1) Phase I, and (2) Phase II emissions studies of drywall in controlled chambers; (3) an evaluation of two homes in Fort Bragg, NC; engineering studies of the effects of problem drywall-related corrosion on the safety and function of (4) electrical components, (5) smoke alarms, (6) fire sprinkler heads, and (7) gas distribution pipes; as well as (8) a microbiological study of drywall and gypsum; and (9) a follow-up assessment of six homes reported to have problem drywall; and (10) an evaluation of homes reported to be constructed with domestic drywall with reports of similar corrosion issues. All of these reports can be found at:

<http://www.cpsc.gov/info/drywall/investigation.html>.

Durable Nursery Products Exposure Survey: The Commission published a Federal Register (FR) notice on April 11, 2011, announcing the proposed survey questionnaire. The FR notice is available at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/businfo/frnotices/fr11/nurserycollect.pdf>.

Enhanced Smoke Alarms: The final report on the development of candidate sensors for 3G smoke alarms, Home Fire Alarms—A Technology Roadmap, will be posted on the CPSC's website in the second quarter of 2012.

Fire-Related Annual Updates: The reports, 2006–2008 Residential Fire Loss Estimates and 2010 Fireworks Annual Report, are available on the CPSC website at:

Economic Impact of CPSC Work: In 2011, staff completed development of a general equilibrium model using the General Algebraic Modeling System (GAMS). The GAMS model was adapted to reflect CPSC analytical needs. Data, including sectors of the economy and regions, were organized based on CPSC regulation of products and trade flows. The model became operational during 2011.

Electrocution Annual Data Update: Staff completed the annual report on the number of electrocutions associated with consumer products, and it is available on the CPSC's website at:

<http://www.cpsc.gov/library/foia/foia11/os/2007Electrocutions.pdf>.

Measurement of Lead in Paint: Staff evaluated a new x-ray fluorescence test method, ASTM F2853-10. Staff concluded that the use of this method for determining lead content in paint on children's products is as effective, precise, and reliable as the current CPSC method. Staff prepared a status report about this evaluation, and it is available at:

http://www.cpsc.gov/ABOUT/Cpsia/leadinpaintmeasure_update.pdf.

Nanotechnology:

Carbon Nanotubes in Sports Equipment and other Selected Products: In 2011, an interagency agreement (IAG) with the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) was signed. NIST staff purchased products for testing and developed methods to identify nanoparticles in the selected products. A status report outlining the research activities and the preliminary results of the study was completed.

Enhancement of the National Library of Medicine (NLM) Household Products Database: In 2011, a memorandum of understanding with the NLM was signed, a draft action plan developed, and a status report describing the plan completed. The template for data submission is still in development. The template will be completed in the second quarter of 2012.

Exposure and Risk Assessment of Nanomaterials in Consumer Products: In 2011, IAGs were signed with the National Science Foundation and NIST, and draft status reports describing the approach for the experimental and risk modeling phases of the study were completed.

Nanomaterials in Aerosol Products: In 2011, the CPSC signed an IAG with the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) to quantify the exposure potential and health impacts of silver nanoparticles in aerosol sprays. A draft status report was completed that summarizes the experimental procedures and preliminary results of the study.

Nanomaterials in Aerosol Products (Exposure and Inhalation Effects): In 2011, NIOSH staff continued to develop and refine methods to quantify release of nanoparticles from aerosol products. A draft status report outlining the approaches for characterizing exposure and health impacts from selected aerosol spray products was completed.

Nanomaterials in Products and Public Health: In 2011, the CPSC signed an interagency agreement with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to support a comprehensive multinational study in collaboration with agencies in the United Kingdom that investigate the potential human exposures to nanomaterials resulting from the use of consumer products, as well as from contact with selected nanomaterials from environmental sources. The study will quantify the potential health risks of these exposures. A draft report summarizing the progress of this study was completed.

Nanosilver in Consumer (Children's) Products: A draft status report on the experimental procedures and preliminary results of the study conducted by NIOSH to evaluate the potential exposure to nanosilver from consumer products was completed.

Nanotechnology Annual Data Update: In 2011, staff purchased reports identifying products in commerce that contain nanomaterials. This information was summarized in a draft annual update that also includes a summary of staff activities related to nanotechnology. In addition, staff updated the CPSC's database of detailed information on these products.

Nursery Equipment Annual Update: Staff completed the report, Nursery Product-Related Injuries and Deaths Among Children Under Age Five, and it can be found on the CPSC's website at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/library/foia/foia12/os/nursery10.pdf>.

Pediatric Poisonings: Staff completed a draft report on pediatric poisoning fatalities from 1972 through 2008 using National Center for Health Statistics data. The report is posted on the CPSC's website at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/library/foia/foia12/os/pppa2011.pdf>.

Phthalates and Phthalate Substitutes: In 2011, the CHAP met three times at the CPSC (December 2010, March 2011, and July 2011) and twice by teleconference (November 2010 and September 2011). Ten additional toxicity reviews were completed by a contractor and reviewed by CPSC staff for the CHAP. The contractor also began work on an exposure assessment under the direction of the CHAP. Staff also provided technical support for CHAP members as they began drafting their report. Staff increased its efforts because there is a CPSIA mandated deadline of April 2012 for the CHAP to present its report to the Commission. Due to the April 2012 deadline, the CHAP has required additional scientific and technical support from CPSC staff.

Pool Submersion Annual Data Update: Staff completed the report, Pool or Spa Submersion: Estimated Injuries and Reported Fatalities, 2011 Report, and it can be found on the CPSC's website at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/library/foia/foia11/os/poolsub2011.pdf>.

Portable Generators: NIST completed and delivered its interim report, which contained all the empirical results from testing generators (in off-the-shelf and prototype configurations) in the garage attached to NIST's test house. With this, staff expanded the draft interim report prepared in 2010, to include not only staff's full health analyses of the empirical results obtained from the test house and staff's final analyses of the prototype development and durability effort, but also all the staff and contractor reports that document fully staff's technology demonstration program of the prototype low CO-emission portable generator. The report provided: background on the portable generator project; an overall description of the technology demonstration effort; the CPSC's epidemiology data on CO fatalities associated with generators for 1999–2010; staff's summary of the development, durability testing, and end-of-life emission testing of the prototype low CO-emission portable generator; a summary of results from the tests conducted at NIST to compare performance between the prototype and stock generators in the common fatal consumer scenario with the generator operating in an attached garage; staff's health assessment of the ability of the prototype to reduce the CO poisoning hazard, based on analysis of the empirical results obtained from the garage testing at NIST; and staff's assessment on the expected behavioral response of consumers to low CO-emission generators. Staff will solicit public comments in 2012.

Recreational Off-Highway Vehicles (ROVs): Staff investigated several test methods to evaluate the effectiveness of occupant protection systems on ROVs. Due to the complexity of testing, staff continues to test additional ROVs to compile a robust data set. The test and evaluation program will be completed in 2012.

ROV/MUV/ATV Data Update: Staff collected and processed the data for the NEISS special study. ROV injury estimates for 2010 were calculated and a draft report was written for a ROV briefing package that will be submitted to the Commission. In addition, estimates calculated from the study will allow staff to allocate proportionally hospital-treated injuries across the ATV, ROV, and MUV off-road vehicle categories.

Surrogate Smoldering Ignition Source: NIST provided a status report on its analysis of a literature review of relevant studies and on potential surrogate ignition sources, as the standard cigarette ignition source (a conventional, unfiltered cigarette with specific physical characteristics) is no longer produced.

Toys Annual Update: Staff completed the report, Toy-Related Deaths and Injuries, Calendar Year 2010. The report was posted on the CPSC's website, coinciding with a public safety announcement about toys, and is available at: <http://www.cpsc.gov/library/toymemo10.pdf>.

Toy-Related Incident Identification: Staff completed the collection and analyses of data collected from a special study. A preliminary draft report was completed.

Trampoline Falls: Staff completed the development of a preliminary survey instrument to collect hazard scenario information from injury victims treated in NEISS hospital emergency departments.

Upholstered Furniture: In 2011, staff performed tests of upholstery materials to support the development of proposed test methods, and staff implemented a cooperative agreement with California to share test materials and research.

COMPLIANCE AND ENFORCEMENT

The CPSC learns about potential product defects from many sources, including incident reports, consumer complaints, the agency's Hotline, and its website. In addition, firms are required legally to report to the Commission potential product hazards or violations of standards. The Commission works with companies to remove products from the marketplace when they violate mandatory safety standards or are defective and create a substantial risk of injury. This section presents:

- Voluntary recall orders taken by importers or manufacturers;
- Letters of Advice to importers and manufacturers; and
- Commission determinations and judicial actions.

1) Voluntary Recall Orders Taken by Importers or Manufacturers: Through their own investigations of potential product defects, headquarters and field staff identify defective products not covered by regulations. In addition, firms, by law, are required to report potential product hazards or violations of standards to the Commission. When a recall is necessary, compliance staff negotiates with the responsible firm. In 2011, CPSC staff completed 412 cooperative recalls (100 percent voluntary) of products that either violated mandatory standards or were defective and presented a substantial risk of injury to the public. If a firm refuses to recall a product voluntarily, the CPSC may litigate to require a recall. This section lists the voluntary recalls performed by companies to address possible hazards in 2011.

The CPSC developed the Fast-Track program to streamline the process of recalls for firms that were willing and prepared to recall their products quickly. Because every defective product presents a risk of injury or death, removing hazardous products from the marketplace faster can prevent more injuries and save lives. Last year, 234 of 412 recalls were under the Fast-Track program. Recalls under the Fast-Track program are conducted without the need for time-consuming hazard analyses. In 2011, Fast-Track recalls were initiated within 20 days of a firm's report to the CPSC 95 percent of the time.

2) Letters of Advice to Importers or Manufacturers: Imported products are screened at the port by the CPSC or in coordination with U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP). For all products regulated by the CPSC, the Commission issues a Letter of Advice (LOA) when there is a violation of a mandatory standard. It advises the company of the violation and the nature of the necessary corrective action (to correct future production (CFP); to stop sale and CFP; or to recall, stop sale, and CFP). This section lists the LOAs sent to importers and manufacturers in 2011, where the Commission received a response from the company confirming the violation; the Commission decided that the company completed a voluntary correction agreed upon for the company to remedy the hazard; or the CBP seized the product at the port.

3) Commission Determinations and Judicial Actions: When companies knowingly fail to report potential product hazards or violations of standards to the Commission, as required, the CPSC can seek civil penalties in U.S. courts. In 2011, the CPSC negotiated out-of-court settlements in which 13 companies voluntarily agreed to pay $3.26¹⁰ million in civil penalties to the U.S. Treasury. Other tools used for enforcement may include legal action under either section 12 or section 15(c) or 15(d); federal court actions for violations of prohibited acts of

¹⁰ This amount does not include a suspended penalty of $160,000.

Compliance and Enforcement

the statutes that the CPSC administers; and pursuit of criminal cases, where appropriate. Enforcement and litigation activities are listed in several tables in this section of the report.

1) Voluntary Recall Orders Taken by Importers or Manufacturers

Headquarters and field staff identify defective products not covered by regulations through their investigations of potential product defects. In addition, firms are required by law to report potential product hazards or violations of standards to the Commission. In 2011, CPSC staff completed 412 cooperative recalls (100 percent voluntary) of products that either violated mandatory standards or were defective and presented a substantial risk of injury to the public. If a firm refuses to recall a product voluntarily, the CPSC may litigate to require a recall. This section lists the voluntary recalls performed by companies to address possible hazards in FY 2011.

Consumers should immediately take the toy’s jars and caps away from children and dispose of any jar lids without vent holes. Only use jars that have lids with vent holes. Pressure from the buildup of carbon dioxide in the jars of Bath Bombs/Balls or Bath Fizzies that come with the kits can cause the unvented lids to blow off, posing explosion and projectile hazards. The flying pieces also can cause property damage. Additionally, the mixture of water with the Bath Bombs/Balls or Bath Fizzies can create citric acid. This acid can get into consumers' eyes when the jars explode, posing a risk of eye irritation.

The crib's drop-side rail hardware can malfunction, detach, or otherwise fail, causing part of the drop side rail to detach from the crib. When the drop-side rail partially detaches, it creates a space between the drop-side and the crib mattress. An infant or toddler's body can become entrapped in the space, which can lead to strangulation and/or suffocation. A child can also fall out of the crib. Drop-side incidents can also occur due to incorrect assembly and with age-related wear and tear.

Angel Line Recalls to Repair Longwood Forest Drop-Side Cribs Due to Entrapment, Suffocation and Fall Hazards

When the drop-side rail partially detaches, it creates a space between the drop side and the crib mattress. An infant or toddler's body can become entrapped in the space, which can lead to strangulation and/or suffocation. A child can also fall out of the crib. Drop-side incidents also can occur due to age-related wear and tear.

3) Commission Determinations and Judicial Actions

When companies knowingly fail to report potential product hazards or violations of standards to the Commission, as required under section 15 of the CPSA, the CPSC can seek civil penalties. The Commission has the authority to compromise any civil penalty or file suit in federal court seeking a civil penalty. In 2011, the CPSC negotiated out of court settlements in which 13 companies voluntarily agreed to pay $3.26¹¹ million in civil penalties to the U.S. Treasury.

The Commission may also seek pursuit of criminal penalties against offenders. Enforcement and litigation activities of the Commission are listed in several tables below.

Commission Determined Further Action - Section 15 of the CPSA

There were no instances in 2011 where the Commission took action under section 15(c) or 15(d) of the CPSA. All product recalls in 2011 were initiated through voluntary compliance.

PUBLIC OUTREACH

The Commission warns the public about product-related hazards through print, electronic, radio and broadcast media, its Hotline, websites, and other outreach activities. The Commission also meets with stakeholders to discuss matters related to the mission of the CPSC. This section presents information on many of the activities used to provide safety information to consumers and industry in 2011 through:

- consumer outreach;
- dissemination of technical information; and
- cooperation between Commission officials and stakeholders.

1) Consumer Outreach: The CPSC alerts the public through recall alerts, print and video news releases, public service announcements, publications, national and local television appearances, the CPSC Hotline, and listservs. The CPSC communicates with the public through various electronic venues, including:

- the CPSC's websites (www.CPSC.gov, www.Recalls.gov, www.ATVSafety.gov, www.PoolSafely.gov, www.SaferProducts.gov);
- CPSC information centers (resale/thrift stores, drywall, cribs, generators);
- the OnSafety blog (www.CPSC.gov/OnSafety);
- recall widget (www.CPSC.gov/cgi-bin/javascrpts/widgetrss.html); and
- social media sites (YouTube, Twitter, Flickr).

The CPSC also alerts the public through other outreach activities, such as the Neighborhood Safety Network (NSN). This is a grassroots program that provides timely, lifesaving information to about 3,600 organizations and individuals who, in turn, share CPSC safety posters and news alerts with underserved consumers who otherwise might be unlikely to hear or receive information from the CPSC.

The number of visits to the CPSC's website, www.CPSC.gov, has grown rapidly from about 200,000 visits in 1997, to more than 51.4 million visits in 2011. The increase is due in part to the new CPSC 2.0 social media initiative, including YouTube, Twitter, Flickr, the OnSafety blog, and the recall-sharing tool widget. In 2010, the CPSC made available for the first time a widget, a Web-based tool that third parties can feature on their Web pages that displays brief summaries of the latest CPSC safety information. The presence of the CPSC widget on other organizations' Web pages accounted for an additional 81 million views of CPSC safety information.

While the CPSC's website, www.CPSC.gov, was recently enhanced to widen and speed public access to important safety information, it is in need of a long overdue redesign, which continued development in 2011, and is scheduled to be launched in 2012. The redesign will enhance the user experience, improve search functionality, and streamline the content management and posting process.

The Hotline is a toll-free service that allows consumers to report product complaints or product-related injuries, learn about recalls and safety hazards, and obtain safety publications.

The National Injury Information Clearinghouse provides data to the public in response to about 1,200 requests each year. It also alerts manufacturers to potential hazards associated with their products, providing them with consumer complaints, reported incidents, and incident investigations involving their products.

In December 2008, the Virginia Graeme Baker Pool and Spa Safety Act (VGB), which addresses the hazards of child drowning and drain entrapment, became effective. In 2010, the CPSC awarded a contract to develop and implement a comprehensive information and education campaign that teaches pool and spa safety steps that stress prevention of drowning and entrapment by engaging stakeholders as partners at the national and grassroots levels. Child safety experts work on public and residential drowning prevention programs for parents and children, and industry organizations share VGB compliance information with pool and spa owners and operators.

- 2) Dissemination of Technical Information: As part of the CPSC’s research activities and other support work, the Commission develops many technical reports and presentations to present findings and share ideas. These documents are very useful to other researchers and industry. The reports listed in this section were developed in 2011, and are located on the CPSC’s website.

- 3) Cooperation between Commission Officials and External Stakeholders: In the course of the year, the Commissioners and staff at the CPSC held meetings with consumers, industry, and the public on matters related to the mission of the CPSC. A list of meetings of “substantial interest” for 2011 is provided in this report. CPSC’s Meetings Policy defines “substantial interest” as “any issue that is likely to be the subject of a regulatory or policy decision by the Commission.” The Meetings Policy requires CPSC staff and Commissioners to: (1) announce meetings in advance on the Public Calendar; (2) hold meetings that are open to the public unless certain specified exceptions apply; and (3) submit meeting summaries to the Office of the Secretary. For copies of the Public Calendar visit: www.cpsc.gov/calmenu.html.

1) Consumer Outreach

(For more detail, visit the electronic version on the CPSC website at <http://www.cpsc.gov/cpsc/pub/pubs/reports/2011rpt.pdf> or follow the link.)

Reached Consumers on product-related hazards:

Import Safety

About 544 million impressions related to messages on import safety were achieved through newspaper stories, radio stories, social media outreach, TV appearances, and video broadcasts. The CPSC experienced a sharp decline from 2010 to 2011 in the number of views of import safety-related stories due to a reduction in high profile and emerging hazard-related stories regarding imported consumer products. Coverage of a CPSC-AQSIQ meeting in Shanghai was significant, but unmeasured in China, and there was no U.S. coverage.

Fire Hazards

About 476 million impressions related to fire safety messages were achieved through newspaper stories, radio stories, social media outreach, TV appearances, and video broadcasts.

Carbon Monoxide (CO) Hazards

About 158 million impressions related to carbon monoxide safety messages were achieved through newspaper stories, radio stories, social media outreach, TV appearances, and video broadcasts.

Children's and Other Hazards

About 751 million impressions related to children's product safety messages were achieved through newspaper stories, radio stories, social media outreach, TV appearances, and video broadcasts.

Conducted Public information efforts:

ATV Safety: Rapid Response materials were upgraded and a new software-aided contact list facilitated outreach to dozens of media organizations in regions where fatalities occurred. The standalone website, www.ATVSafety.gov, was updated biweekly with fatality information from news reports, and Twitter (@OnSafety) was used to promote safe ATV riding and Rapid Response messages. The CPSC published a blog and promoted the ATV safety video on YouTube.

Bicycle/Helmet Safety: In 2011, the CPSC issued a "Back to School Safety" blog, highlighting bicycle and bicycle helmet safety. Also the CPSC produced a video, titled the "ABC's of School Safety," which was distributed through the U.S. Department of Education and the Consumers Union's National School Safety Coalition, reaching more than 30 national school organizations. The Department of Education posted the video on its Facebook page and distributed it throughout internal and external networks. The video was also sent to state education departments that have Facebook, Twitter, and other social media outlets. The CPSC issued bicycle helmet recalls and used the National School Safety Coalition monthly call to update members and forward bicycle safety materials for distribution. CPSC staff promoted bicycle safety and helmets through two blogs and multiple tweets throughout the year. Finally, bicycle helmets were highlighted at the CPSC annual toy safety campaign in November 2010, reaching more than 90 million viewers.

CCA Pressure Treated Wood: Working with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Forest Service, a trifold brochure was produced, printed, and disseminated. More than 5,000 copies of the brochure were sent to the other agencies, field representatives, and other contacts. The brochure was posted online for ordering or printing and linked to the other agencies' websites. Staff participated in media interviews, while information about the brochure and safety messages were included in a Twitter message and also were featured prominently on the resource area of the CPSC's website.

CO Alarms: The CPSC issued a press release in November 2010 and again in March 2011, urging consumers to change the batteries in their CO alarms when they change their clocks for Daylight Saving Time. The CPSC also tweeted about the importance of having CO alarms throughout the house.

CO Poster Project: In September 2010, The CPSC launched the first nationwide middle school (aimed at sixth, seventh, and eighth graders) safety poster contest to raise awareness about the dangers of CO in the home. CPSC staff, state designees, and external safety organizations distributed contest fliers and other promotional materials that generated about 450 eligible posters and represented nearly half of the 50 states. The majority of these entries came from classrooms where CO safety was discussed, and posters were created by the middle school students. The posters were showcased on the Challenge.gov platform, a new GSA online tool for federal agencies to post challenges and solicit public solutions. A CPSC panel of technical judges selected nine contest winners and the grand prizewinner, who received recognition and cash awards. The grand prizewinner was an eighth grade student from Hawaii, whose poster was converted into a CPSC publication to encourage CO home safety. In addition, the CPSC partnered with the New Hampshire governor and local fire officials at a press conference honoring a runner-up in that state. This CO safety campaign educated youth about promoting CO safety, supported recognition of finalists at state and local CO poison prevention venues, and brought CO safety information into thousands of homes.

Drawstrings in Children's Clothing: In 2011, the CPSC issued a press release on the new federal rule for drawstrings (Section 15(j) of the CPSA) and issued nine drawstring recall press releases and four drawstring civil penalty press releases. Drawstring safety was included in the "Back to School" safety campaign launched this year through various social media outlets. Drawstring recalls were highlighted during the National School Safety Coalition monthly conference calls reaching more than 30 school safety organizations and federal partners. Staff also conducted television, radio, and print media interviews on drawstring safety throughout the year. Staff informed parents of the risks involved with drawstrings through staff's school safety blog and through multiple tweets, both surrounding the drawstring rule and through drawstring recalls.

Fireworks Safety: The CPSC launched the annual fireworks safety program on June 22, 2011, with a national news conference in front of the U.S. Capitol reflecting pool. Chairman Inez Tenenbaum was interviewed for NBC's Today Show and MSNBC (reaching more than 6 million viewers). CPSC demonstrated the dangers associated with fireworks, as well as gel fuel for the morning show and press conference. The Chairman was joined by the Assistant Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection and the Assistant Director Enforcement Programs and Services for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives. Chairman Tenenbaum conducted numerous one-on-one interviews at the event. In addition, staff produced a video news release that reached 37 million viewers. A press release and OnSafety blog post were produced for the media and consumers.

Halloween Hazards: In October 2010, the CPSC issued a news release and posted a blog reminding consumers how to prevent fire and burn injuries associated with Halloween-related costumes, decorations, and other accessories during the Halloween season. The CPSC highlighted a YouTube video and conducted a media tour resulting in media interviews with local and national news stations, including CNN.

Holiday Decoration Hazards: In 2011, the CPSC released a holiday decorating safety guide featuring the top 10 safety tips, ranging from fire prevention associated with holiday trees to preventing shock hazards from faulty light strings. In addition, the CPSC created and distributed a blog, new Neighborhood Safety Network poster, and holiday decorating safety video on YouTube. Staff conducted media interviews with local and national TV and radio stations.

Home Heating (Fire Hazards): The CPSC issued a joint winter weather warning and home heating safety alert with the U.S. Fire Administration in January 2011. The joint press release featured the CPSC's latest data on home heating-related fires, and it stressed safe use of space heaters and fireplaces and the lifesaving benefits of having working smoke alarms in the home. Coinciding with Daylight Saving Time, the CPSC also issued a press release on the importance of having working smoke alarms.

Home Heating (CO hazards): CPSC's joint winter weather warning and home heating safety alert with the U.S. Fire Administration featured the CPSC's latest data on carbon monoxide-related deaths. The safety alert featured safety tips to help consumers avoid carbon monoxide poisoning, including having an annual professional inspection of all fuel-burning appliances and never using a portable generator indoors. The safety alert also stressed the importance of installing carbon monoxide alarms in the home. Coinciding with Daylight Saving Time, the CPSC also issued a press release reminding consumers to change the batteries in their smoke and CO alarms. The CPSC also blogged and tweeted multiple times about CO safety.

Imported Products: In 2011, an international news conference was held in Shanghai, China (October 2010) at the Second Tri-Lateral Summit with the United States, European Union, and China, in addition to live TV interviews done in Shanghai with CNN-Asia and Bloomberg-Asia.

In-Home Drowning Prevention: The CPSC issued a press release in conjunction with the publication of staff's annual in-home drowning death and injury report. In addition to posting the release on the CPSC and PoolSafely websites, staff sent a listserv message to drowning-prevention advocates and state and local health officials, posted an OnSafety blog that was reposted by other bloggers, and tweeted messages (@OnSafety). Pool Safely partners notified their constituents about the report and posted information about in-home drowning, now a permanent part of their websites and education outreach.

Mattress Standard Information and Education Materials: Staff promoted the mattress standard publication, "Sleep Safer," on www.CPSC.gov during September and continued to disseminate copies of the publication through the industry. Staff also began work on a public service announcement aimed at mattress fire safety, which is planned for release in the second or third quarter of 2012.

Natural Disaster Preparedness: On August 26, 2011, prior to the landfall of Hurricane Irene, the CPSC issued a joint press release with the U.S. Fire Administration offering tips for surviving the aftermath of a hurricane. The press release, featured on the CPSC's home page, urged consumers to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning by using portable gasoline generators safely, including never using generators inside the home, garage, basement, or near the home. It also provided safety tips on charcoal grills, camp stoves, and candles; electricity and gas safety; and it stressed the importance of installing carbon monoxide alarms in the home. The CPSC also blogged about generator safety and tweeted during the most deadly days after Hurricane Irene hit, doing rapid response tweets surrounding deaths and promoting safety.

Poison Prevention: The CPSC issued a warning to parents and consumers about a reemerging poisoning hazard: the dangers associated with children and senior adults swallowing coin-size button batteries unintentionally. Button batteries are now found in a greater number of household products that are sometimes easily accessible to small children or mistaken for medicine by senior adults. The CPSC launched a safety campaign that included a news release announcing the hazard and data; a blog post; a YouTube video, featuring a doctor from the American Association of Poison Control Centers; a consumer safety quiz for the Poison Prevention Week Council's Facebook page; and a new Neighborhood Safety Network poster. Partner organizations from the Poison Prevention Week Council supported the CPSC's hazard warning by re-tweeting and linking to our safety information. Staff conducted a number of interviews during Poison Prevention Week and throughout the year, resulting in national television and print media coverage.

Port Safety: Staff coordinated closely with CBP staff to arrange for filming and interviews with two broadcast media—one on the East Coast and another on the West Coast—at coastal ports where inspectors for each agency are collocated, for stories highlighting import inspections of consumer products and enforcement activities.

Portable Gas Generators: The CPSC featured a video on the agency's website and YouTube channel in August 2011, to warn consumers about carbon monoxide hazards involving generators and other fuel-burning appliances. The CPSC issued press releases warning about safe generator use following severe storms in the Northeast in February 2011, and issued another press release offering generator safety tips in August 2011, before Hurricane Irene hit the East Coast. Staff also carried out rapid response actions following carbon monoxide-related events, including the deaths of five people in a camper in Tennessee in September 2011.

Product Tip-Overs: The 2011 product tip-over campaign included a new Neighborhood Safety Network poster, an updated safety alert, a reissuance of a dramatic video news release on YouTube and to the media, a new death and injury report, and media interviews with the parents of a recent victim. We also conducted an extensive social media campaign through our OnSafety blog and @OnSafety tweets. As a result, CPSC secured 68 million TV and online news impressions; 215,000 Twitter impressions; and 130,000 impressions on the official Spanish language website of the U.S. federal government, GobiernoUSA.gov.

SaferProducts.gov: Staff updated the www.SaferProducts.gov website to include video of the rulemaking process and public outreach events. In addition, staff created and distributed a press release and blog for the launch, promoted the site at events and in speeches by the Chairman, created a brochure, handouts and ad specialties used to create awareness in general and targeted audiences, and conducted numerous interviews with media about the launch and subsequent milestones.

Safety Publication Update: Staff updated 16 publications, including: “Public Playground Safety Handbook” (Pub. 325); “Smoke Alarms Can Save Your Life” (Pub. 557); and “Repairing Aluminum Wiring” (Pub. 516). Staff worked effectively and efficiently to update more publications than expected, so that consumers could have access to the latest information related to changes in standards, building codes, and technical research.

Smart Holiday Shopping/Toy Safety: On November 18, 2010, the CPSC Chairman and staff hosted a “Holiday Toy Safety” production, reaching more than two dozen media outlets with an audience outreach of nearly 80 million. Additionally, the Chairman appeared on Good Morning America, reaching 4 million viewers, and the CPSC’s Spanish-speaking spokesperson conducted an interview on Telemundo, reaching 500,000 viewers. Recalled products, CPSIA toy safety requirements for lead and phthalates, and toy safety tips were highlighted through television, radio, print, and social media outlets. The toy safety NSN poster was highlighted with simple toy safety tips for all audiences.

Smoke Alarms: The CPSC issued a press release in November 2010, and again in March 2011, urging consumers to change the batteries in their smoke alarms when they change their clocks for Daylight Saving Time. The CPSC did an interview with the Weather Channel, which aired in November 2010, about space heater safety in which staff provided tips on the safe use of space heaters and also stressed importance of having working smoke alarms in consumers’ homes.

Window Covering Cords: Staff issued tweets and a blog that highlighted a recall of 50 million Roman shades and roll-up blinds (December 2010), as well as the Chairman’s speech (November 2010), which urged manufacturers to stay on track in creating a comprehensive set of safety standards by October 2011. In addition, staff conducted media interviews on this topic throughout the year. The “Are Your Window Coverings Safe?” publication was disseminated to key audiences during the Minority Outreach Tour. Additionally, Chairman Tenenbaum delivered speeches to the Window Covering Manufacturers Association and the International Consumer Product Health and Safety Organization, emphasizing the importance of eliminating child strangulations in looped cords, in addition to the message that the industry needs to deliver on a promise to establish robust and comprehensive safety standards.

Implemented a Minority Outreach Program through:

Minority Outreach Tour: Staff visited six cities that hosted conferences geared toward minority leaders and communities, participating for the first time in the National Association of Black Journalists conference. During these visits, staff distributed about 5,000 publications, met with dozens of community leaders, and conducted interviews with national and local media representing minority populations. Many of these organizations signed up to become NSN members.

Minority Outreach Awareness Campaign: Staff compiled 100 new minority media contacts that will be included in the CPSC’s media listserv. Staff created two shortened versions of the “Safe Sleep for Babies” video—one in English and one in Spanish—for minority consumers. The videos were incorporated into the long version of the DVD. The Spanish language version of the video was launched on CPSC’s Spanish YouTube page, which as of the end of the fiscal year, had more than 9,000 upload views. In addition, staff translated 37 press releases, three blogs, and the following five publications into Spanish: Crib Standard Q&A, Safe Sleep for Babies Brochure, Lock Up for Poison, Gas Connectors, Playground Safety Handbook. Staff reached 21 million consumers; 11 million of those were reached through a Satellite Media Tour to address hazardous products related to minorities, which took place in December 2010.

Neighborhood Safety Network Membership: A contract for services, specific to the goal of increasing membership, was not awarded until late in the year. The total number of members at the end of the fiscal year was 2,745. It is expected that in 2012, the contractor will help the CPSC sign up 5,000 additional members to meet its goal of increasing membership in the NSN.

Grassroots Initiative: During the year, NSN sent out 13 messages that included posters, video links, and blog messages to support local grassroots safety programs conducted by NSN members. Membership emphasis for the year was with state WIC (Women, Infants and Children) offices serving minority and underserved populations.

Informed the Public about Pool and Spa Safety through:

Consumer Outreach: About 590 million views related to pool and spa safety messages were achieved through different efforts. Media outreach produced about 400 million views of the Pool Safely PSAs on TV and radio. Another 100 million impressions came from print PSAs and free media coverage through press releases, interviews and resulting articles, and social media, including blogging and tweeting. CPSC purchased online ads, which provided 90,000 visits to www.PoolSafely.gov and additional views of the ads. Efforts by Pool Safely partners around the country added to these figures through event coverage and media outreach often from using press release templates provided by the Pool Safely team.

Public Information and Education Campaign: In 2011, the CPSC hosted seven major events including:

- 1) March 31: Pre-season summit for partners and organizations involved in consumer and child safety. CPSC's public relations contractor hosted a meeting with 15 attendees and 12 teleconference participants.
- 2) April: National Drowning Prevention Symposium in Colorado Springs - Chairman Tenenbaum was the keynote speaker and participated in a Radio Media Tour with 10 participating stations; staff participated in a partner meeting to plan for 2011 partnering activities; and CPSC's Campaign Leader was a panelist on an outreach plenary session.
- 3) May: Campaign launch with Chairman Tenenbaum in San Diego at a Chula Vista Y with Mayor Cheryl Cox, Olympian Janet Evans, and a parent advocate. Chairman Tenenbaum, Janet Evans, and the CPSC's Spanish speaking spokeswoman participated in a Satellite Media Tour prior to the event with 11 participating TV stations. CPSC's Campaign Leader presided over a partner meeting the day before, with 40 participants from local pool and spa and safety organizations.
- 4) June: Phoenix pre-July 4 press event at a Y with partners the American Red Cross, the National Drowning Prevention Alliance, Phoenix Fire and Rescue, and Phoenix City Councilmen. A partners' meeting was hosted by the Phoenix Fire Department, with 45 participants from the regional and state partnering, advocacy, and rescue organizations attending.
- 5) June: Pool Safely Day—The CPSC invited partners who deal with public pools to participate in a full day of activities and education at their facilities about Pool Safely. In all, 86 facilities in 26 states participated, by hosting safety training, often providing swimming instruction and handing out Pool Safely materials, including temporary tattoos for kids.
- 6) June: Asian American Hotel Owners Association (AAHOA) event. —Pool Safely hosted a booth to educate and inform attending representatives from this 10,000-member small hotel and motel owners group. Many of these facilities have pools and spas, and they have been slow in adopting VGB. AAHOA signed an MOU with Pool Safely and printed an article on their "Lodging Business" website, and many facilities have requested materials, with one even posting a Pool Safely billboard.
- 7) July: Y event in Broward County with Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz, to promote Joe DiMaggio Children's Hospital and efforts by the Y and Safe Kids to spread the word about water safety in that community. CPSC staff participated in the event and presented the campaign to an audience of Y members and local officials.

PoolSafely.gov Website Development: The www.PoolSafely.gov website was expanded in 2011, to include a Kid's Corner with an interactive three-part cartoon video on safe behavior at pools and spas for pre-school children. Links to partner materials, including the Home Safety Council, Safe Kids USA, the National Drowning Prevention Alliance, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, were added to www.PoolSafely.gov to diversify and expand programs for young children and their families. Some of these materials were available in English and Spanish. Staff regularly updated the information on the VGB, such as adding press releases, FAQs, interpretations, and Commission statements. Listserv messages were sent regularly to more than 2,400 subscribers, notifying them of news or changes on the site.

Rapid Response Initiative: A contractor managed the Rapid Response program through June 2011, and responded to more than 300 media reports of drowning or near-drowning incidents. The contractor responded to 100 percent of these tragic incidents within 1 business day, and sent materials to the reporting agency and numerous media outlets in the vicinity of the incident.

Informed the Public about Safe Sleep Environments through:

Safe Sleep for Babies: The Safe Sleep for Babies education campaign included a multifaceted outreach approach to the media, parents and expectant parents, medical professionals, and grassroots organizations. The Safe Sleep for Babies video was produced to reach these audiences. A newly produced version of the video was released (4 minutes, rather than the original 12 minute version), as well as videos on the new crib standards, baby monitor cords, infant slings, and infant sleep positioners. These videos were released on the CPSC's Crib Information Center page at: www.cpsc.gov/cribs, and they were sent out through social media outlets and juvenile products firm websites.

Additionally, the Safe Sleep for Babies video was released through our federal partners, including the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, the Health Resources and Services Administration, Early Head Start, the Administration for Children and Families, and Women, Infant and Children (WIC) offices, reaching more than 3,000 WIC offices, 2,000 family child care homes, and 260 tribal nations servicing more than 500,000 babies. The video also aired through The Newborn Channel Network, reaching more than 3 million viewers directly through hospitals. An additional 1 million new and expectant parents, community health departments, and community organizations also watched the video.

Crib Safety Mandatory Standards: The CPSC produced and distributed three new crib standard safety publications for (1) child care facilities; (2) hotels, motels and public accommodation facilities; and (3) consumers. Staff also hosted two conference calls, reaching more than 270 state childcare licensing facilities, and they created listservs to distribute the newly produced materials. CPSC staff and the Chairman promoted the new and improved crib safety rule through various media interviews, reaching more than 57 million viewers and another six million consumers via Twitter. Newly created Frequently Asked Questions were posted on the Crib Information Center page on the CPSC's website, along with newly produced crib standard safety videos and posters. Chairman Tenenbaum was the keynote speaker at the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association annual meeting. Staff delivered a "Safe Sleep" speech at the CPSC state designee meeting in Chicago in March 2011, and the minority outreach team highlighted the safe sleep campaign in six major U.S. cities during the summer 2011.

Safe Sleep Environments: Staff produced and released new safety alerts and videos on infant slings, sleep positioners, and baby monitor cords. These safety materials were highlighted on the Crib Information Center page on the CPSC’s website, and newly produced videos accompanied the print materials. Media coverage on these topics included more than 17 million viewers. These topics were also highlighted as part of the overall “Safe Sleep” interviews that were conducted throughout the year, which secured more than 127 million impressions. The NSN network and federal partners—such as the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, National Institutes of Health, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services—helped to distribute these materials through their internal and external networks.

Reaching Consumers on Safe Sleep: Staff reached more than 127 million viewers, listeners, and readers through television, radio, print and social media outlets, including blogs and tweets.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL COORDINATION

The Commission works with many agencies over the course of a year. This section describes the significant coordination the CPSC has had with other governmental organizations. Specifically, this section provides information on: (1) a major state-supported safety initiative for the Virginia Graeme Baker Pool and Spa Safety Act; (2) the Commission's efforts coordinating with state and local programs; and (3) significant communication with other governmental agencies and offices, including any notification under section 218 of the CPSIA.¹² In 2011, no state or local official filed a written notice to the Commission under section 218 of the CPSIA.

1) Major State-Supported Safety Initiatives

Virginia Graeme Baker Pool and Spa Safety Act (VGBA): The VGBA affects public pools and spas nationwide, and the Commission's enforcement of the Act requires the cooperation of state and local agencies. In 2011, states worked cooperatively with the CPSC to conduct over 2,000 inspections of pools to verify compliance with the Act. Inspection reports were submitted to the CPSC for the appropriate follow up and corrective action. State employees conducting the compliance activities were:

1. recognized by the state or local government as an inspector with delegated authority and/or jurisdiction for inspecting pools and spas in the State;
2. knowledgeable of swimming pool circulation systems and equipment; and
3. knowledgeable of the VGBA and requirements that were necessary for compliance with the law.

2) State and Local Programs

Section 29(a) of the Consumer Product Safety Act requires that the Commission establish a program to promote federal-state cooperation for the purpose of carrying out the Act. The goal of the program is to reduce consumer product related deaths and injuries by leveraging CPSC resources through cost-effective cooperation with state and local governments. In 2011, activities included the following:

- Assigning compliance and enforcement activities to the states. The table below provides the number of CPSC assignments to state officials made during the year;
- Supporting states through technical assistance and participation in conferences;
- Monitoring industry's compliance with CPSC mandatory laws;
- Engaging in outreach and dissemination of information through multiple venues, such as journal, print, electronic media, and presentations sharing product safety research;
- Hosting the annual training meeting for state designees;
- Working to meet or exceed annual performance goals. In 2011, state partners conducted product safety activities, including recall checks and inspections, and completed 100 percent within 90 or fewer days after assignment.

¹² [Section 218 of the CPSIA amends the CPSA, Prohibited Acts, allowing] the attorney general of a state, or other authorized state officer, alleging a [specified] violation ... of the Act, ... on behalf of the residents of the state, ... to obtain appropriate injunctive relief. [The Act requires] a state [to] provide written notice to the Commission [prior] to initiate[ing] civil action by filing a complaint, ... at least 30 days before [unless] ... immediate action is necessary. The Commission may intervene in such civil action.
