Increase in Court Litigation

- In the U.S., litigation of IP disputes has drastically increased.
 Specifically, in a 2007 Patent and Trademark Damages Study (Price Waterhouse Cooper), patent and trademark case filings in U.S. courts almost doubled from approximately 3,400 cases in 1991 to 6,400 cases in 2005.
- In a knowledge economy, intellectual property may be the most significant asset and affect a company's ability to survive.

Disadvantages of United States Court Litigation

- In the average patent infringement case, a party incurs about US$2.6 million in legal fees and costs. (AIPLA).
- Judges must be educated.
- Court litigation is time consuming and often appealed to higher courts.

Arbitration of Intellectual Property Disputes

- Available by agreement. Include an arbitration clause in licensing agreement or agree after the dispute has arisen.
- In 1983 the U.S. patent laws were amended to include a "voluntary arbitration" provision, 35 U.S.C. § 294.
- International Disputes. Award enforceable under New York Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards.

Advantages of Arbitration

- Less Costly.
- Faster Resolution-(average time to award 12 months or less; AAA).
- Party Autonomy Parties have flexibility to narrow the scope of the issues.
 - Expertise Parties may select arbitrators that have background in the legal and technical fields that are the subject of the dispute.
- Flexibility Arbitrators have broad remedial powers including the power to award damages and issue injunctions.

- Confidentiality Arbitrations can provide greater confidentiality than litigation in courts (for example, other licensees).
- Finality Arbitration awards are only subject to appeal on narrow grounds, not including issues interpretation and adjudication of law.
- Preservation of Business Relationships Arbitrations are normally viewed as less formal, less antagonistic proceedings which can lead to the preservation of business relationships.

Leahy-Smith America Invents Act

On September 16, 2011, President Barack Obama signed into law the Leahy-Smith America Invents Act. The Act provides four major alternatives to litigation.

- Post-Grant Review
- Inter Partes Review

Similarities of PGR and IPR

- Institution within 3 months of Preliminary Patent Owner Response.
- Patent Owner Response (after institution) requirements are essentially the same.
- Amendments requirements are essentially the same.
- Estoppel—claim by claim basis.

- Two applicants claim to be the true inventor.
- The petition must set forth with particularity the basis for finding that an inventor named in an earlier application or patent derived the claimed invention from the inventor in the later filed application.
- The petition must be filed within 1 year of the date of the first publication of a claim to an invention.
