COMMISSION ANNOUNCEMENTS

SEC ADOPTS NEW RULES ADDRESSING THE BANK EXCEPTIONS TO BROKER-DEALER REGISTRATION IN THE GRAMM-LEACH-BLILEY ACT

On May 11, the Securities and Exchange Commission announced that it adopted interim final rules that address the bank exceptions to broker-dealer registration in the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act. These statutory provisions, which were effective as of May 12, 2001, replace the banks' long-standing full exception from broker-dealer registration with 15 functional exceptions. Banks that limit their securities activities to these 15 functions remain excepted from broker-dealer registration. Banks that engage in additional securities activities, however, either will need to register as broker-dealers or shift those additional activities to registered broker-dealers.

The interim final rules respond to questions raised in recent months by banks, securities firms, and other interested groups about the application of the broker-dealer exceptions. The Commission is soliciting comments on all aspects of the interim final rules and will amend them as appropriate in response to comments received.

Some of the interim final rules address interpretive questions received by the Commission by defining key terms used in the 15 new exceptions. Other rules provide targeted exemptions that are consistent with the functional exceptions.

The Commission also adopted temporary exemptions that give banks additional time to comply with the new statutory requirements. These rules will extend the full exception for banks from broker-dealer registration until October 1, 2001. They also will give banks until January 1, 2002 before their compensation arrangements must meet the conditions of certain statutory exceptions from the definition of broker as well as the compensation provisions of the newly granted exemptions. In addition, the rules give banks a temporary exemption that protects them from rescission actions arising from a failure to correctly determine broker-dealer status.

Finally, the Commission is adopting a rule that will treat savings associations and other thrifts – which are not considered “banks” under the federal securities laws – the same as banks for broker-dealer registration purposes.

The text of the new interim final rules is available on the Commission's website at <http://www.sec.gov/rules/finrindx.htm>. (Press Rel. 2001-48)

ENFORCEMENT PROCEEDINGS

COMMISSION OBTAINS TRO AGAINST REED SLATKIN

On May 11, 2001, the Commission obtained a temporary restraining order and asset freeze against Reed E. Slatkin, a co-founder, former director and substantial shareholder of Earthlink, Inc., in federal district court in Los Angeles. The Commission alleges that Slatkin defrauded as many as 500 clients through his unregistered investment advisory business located in Santa Barbara, California.

From 1985 to April 2001, Slatkin managed at least $230 million for about 500 clients through purported securities trading accounts in Switzerland. The Commission's complaint alleges that in February 2001, Slatkin misappropriated $10 million in client funds that he had received purportedly to invest in a money market fund and misused the client's funds by using $6.975 million to pay other clients and using over $24,000 to pay personal expenses, including credit card bills, telephone and other utility bills, fees at two country clubs, and pool maintenance fees. The Commission further alleges that the Swiss trading accounts do not exist and that Slatkin was merely operating a fraudulent securities scheme.

The Commission's complaint alleges that Slatkin violated and is continuing to violate the antifraud provisions of Section 17(a) of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b-5 thereunder, and Sections 206(1) and 206(2) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and the investment adviser registration provisions of Section 203(a) of the Investment Advisers Act. In addition to the temporary restraining order and asset freeze, the court ordered Slatkin to not destroy documents and to produce an accounting. The Commission is also seeking a preliminary injunction, a permanent injunction, disgorgement, and civil penalties. [SEC v. Reed E. Slatkin, Civil Action No. 01-04823, C.D. Cal.] (LR-16998)
