Additional Information for Claims Relating to Groups.

LinkedIn supports and encourages its members to form LinkedIn groups based on common interests in order to facilitate communication amongst its Users. In some situations, Users may form groups based on an interest in a third party entity and accordingly identifies themselves with or references the third party's brand. Before submitting this form, please consider if any of your disputed uses qualify as a fair use permitted under the law and whether there is clear confusion as to your sponsorship and/or affiliation with the group. Further, if you claim any rights to own and/or administer the group which is using your name, logo or other brand features, we encourage you to contact the group owner/administrator directly to discuss transfer of ownership of the group.
