

On March 8, 2012, a DLA Corporate recruiter attended the EmployAbility Career & Internship Expo for Students with Disabilities at Wright State University (WSU). WSU is one of the top schools in America for students with severe disabilities. WSU has business degrees in supply chain management, information technology, and other areas that are qualifying for many of DLA's most critical occupations. Prospective students ranged from recent college graduates to more seasoned experienced graduates, and current college students.
