

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

If you've never tried camping as a family, it could be fun, challenging, and a great way for your family to spend time with each other. Use this as a team-building exercise so you all can help make this trip possible. If you're worried about being inexperienced, take along another family who is more experienced to show you the ropes. Remember that a good camping trip is usually the result of good prior planning. Take advantage of all the information you can get from the internet, magazines, and outdoor sports shops.
