

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

Parents, try introducing your teen to people you work with, and teens, introduce your school classmates and teachers to your parents. Give a mini-tour of your job site or school so the other person can become familiar with your surroundings. Be sure to get proper permission first and be mindful of safety issues that might restrict where you go. Keep an open mind about your visit and try to ask questions that show your interest in the other's world. This is a great way for you to become more involved in each other's lives.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

Parents, try introducing your teen to people you work with, and teens, introduce your school classmates and teachers to your parents. Give a mini-tour of your job site or school so the other person can become familiar with your surroundings. Be sure to get proper permission first and be mindful of safety issues that might restrict where you go. Keep an open mind about your visit and try to ask questions that show your interest in the other's world. This is a great way for you to become more involved in each other's lives.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

Parents, try introducing your teen to people you work with, and teens, introduce your school classmates and teachers to your parents. Give a mini-tour of your job site or school so the other person can become familiar with your surroundings. Be sure to get proper permission first and be mindful of safety issues that might restrict where you go. Keep an open mind about your visit and try to ask questions that show your interest in the other's world. This is a great way for you to become more involved in each other's lives.

Parent-Teen Activity Series

Tip of the Month

Parents, try introducing your teen to people you work with, and teens, introduce your school classmates and teachers to your parents. Give a mini-tour of your job site or school so the other person can become familiar with your surroundings. Be sure to get proper permission first and be mindful of safety issues that might restrict where you go. Keep an open mind about your visit and try to ask questions that show your interest in the other's world. This is a great way for you to become more involved in each other's lives.