Why This Matters

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, as amended, (Recovery Act) appropriated $1 billion to the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) for buying and installing screening equipment at airports. This is one of a series of audits that we are performing to help ensure that Recovery Act funds were used for authorized purposes.

The objective of this audit was to determine whether funds invoiced by the Spokane Airport Board for the installation of closed-circuit television cameras (CCTVs) at the Spokane International Airport were allowable, allocable, and reasonable.

DHS Response

We did not require a response to this report because the report did not contain any recommendations.

Review of Costs Invoiced for CCTVs at Spokane International Airport

What We Determined

We determined that costs of $1,950,696 invoiced by the Spokane Airport Board under agreement no. HSTS04-09-H-REC304 with TSA were allowable, allocable, and reasonable for reimbursement. Also, we verified that the Airport Board complied with requirements for submitting quarterly reports to the federal government and for paying prevailing wages.
