About Defense Security Service

CONTRIBUTING TO NATIONAL SECURITY

The Defense Security Service (DSS) is an agency of the Department of Defense (DoD) located in Quantico, VA, with field offices throughout the United States. The Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence provides authority, direction, and control over DSS. DSS provides the military services, Defense Agencies, 23 Federal agencies, and approximately 12,000 cleared contractor facilities with security support services.

DSS Vision and Mission

DSS is the premier provider of personnel and industrial security services in the DoD. DSS supports and improves national security and the warfighter, secures the Nation's technological base, and oversees the protection of U.S. and foreign classified information in the hands of industry.

We accomplish this mission by clearing industrial facilities, personnel, and associated information systems; collecting, analyzing, and providing threat information to industry and Government partners; managing foreign ownership control and influence in cleared industry; providing advice and oversight to industry; delivering security education and training; and providing information technology services that support the industrial security mission of DoD and its partner agencies.

CORE MISSION AREAS

National Industrial Security Program

DSS administers and implements the defense portion of the National Industrial Security Program pursuant to Executive Order 12829. Approximately 285 Industrial Security Representatives are spread across the United States in four geographic regions. They provide oversight and assistance to cleared contractor facilities and assist the organization's management and Facility Security Officers in ensuring protection of national security information. DSS has responsibility for approximately 12,000 cleared contractor facilities. DISCO, located in Columbus, Ohio, processes requests for industrial personnel security investigations and provides eligibility or clearance determinations for cleared industry personnel under the NISP.

CDSE

The Center for Development of Security Education (CDSE) directorate is located in Linthicum, MD, and oversees the missions of Education, Training, Security Professionalization, Technology-Enhanced Learning, and Security Analysis and Innovation. CDSE provides security education and training to DoD and other U.S. Government personnel and employees of foreign governments. Its professional staff of instructors, technology professionals, and education support personnel combine expertise to create, collaborate, and facilitate delivery of quality education and training. Through formal classroom, computer-based training, and distance learning, the CDSE provides a curriculum focusing on the core security disciplines, Physical, Information, Industrial, Personnel, and Special Access Programs while integrating Counterintelligence and Information Systems Security.

SCDPO Services

The Security Career Development and Professionalization Office (SCDPO) facilitates development validation and maintenance of security skill standards and identifies security education and training products that address those standards. In addition, SCDPO provides career development advice and guidance to assist security professionals and practitioners with identifying appropriate security education and training resources available that will enhance their proficiency. SCDPO supports existing and emerging DoD strategic initiatives to broaden the knowledge of professionalism within the security community.

About the Security Professional Education Development (SPēD) Program
