Most of the people behind "fair-use" and other movements to weaken intellectual property laws don't actually produce anything.

Posting a general poll will just bring out pirates who don't want to be under threat of the government.

Software comes from countries that have strong intellectual property laws. That's key point that should always be remembered.

- David C.