PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

S. 383, the “Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program Act of 2009,” would clarify the law enforcement authority of the Special Inspector General and provide additional hiring flexibility for the Office of the Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program (SIGTARP).

Specifically, S. 383 would amend the TARP provisions of the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 (EESA, P.L. 110–343), by providing the SIG with more authority to examine actions taken under TARP; clarifying the law enforcement authority of the SIG; providing the SIG with temporary hiring authority for six months; permitting the SIG the ability to hire federal annuitants without the need for such hires to offset their pension, and requiring the Treasury Department to notify Congress of the reason for failing to follow any written recommendations made by SIGTARP; requiring cooperation amongst the Inspectors General that have oversight responsibility over TARP; adding the SIGTARP to the council of Inspectors General; and changing the timing of reporting requirements and the time limit for release of funds to SIGTARP.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Nearly five months ago, Congress enacted EESA, which authorized the establishment of the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP) within the Treasury Department, and created the Office of Financial Stability within Treasury to implement TARP. The Act also established the Office of the Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program and authorized $50 million for the office.

President Bush nominated Neil M. Barofsky on November 14, 2008, to serve as the Special Inspector General for TARP. Subsequently, Mr. Barofsky was confirmed by the Senate on December 8, 2008, and was sworn into office on December 15, 2008.

Senator Claire McCaskill introduced S. 383, the Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program of 2009, on February 4, 2009. The Senate passed the bill by unanimous consent on February 4, and the bill was subsequently referred to the House Committees on Financial Services and Oversight and Government Reform for consideration.

On February 24, 2009, the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations held a hearing on TARP Oversight. At this hearing, Mr. Barofsky testified that the additional hiring flexibility provided by S. 383 is urgently needed to enable his office to quickly hire experienced investigators to help effectively and expeditiously carry out the congressional mandate to “conduct, supervise, and coordinate audits and investigations of the purchase, management, and sale of assets by the Secretary of the Treasury under any program established by the Secretary” under TARP.

On March 5, 2009, Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations Chairman Dennis Moore and Subcommittee Ranking Member Judy Biggert introduced H.R. 1341, an identical version of the Senate legislation. In introducing the companion legislation, Chairman Moore and Ranking Member Biggert noted that SIGTARP is the sole TARP oversight body charged with criminal law enforcement authority, and given the scale of government funds being quickly disbursed, the SIGTARP should have every tool available to vigilantly monitor for any crimes and waste, fraud or abuse related to the TARP program. Other Members joining as co-sponsor include Representatives Bean, Driehaus, Hinchey, Kilroy, Paulsen and Sherman.

The Committee is concerned about the inclusion and utilization to the maximum extent possible of minority- and women-owned businesses in all business and activities of the Secretary and each assisted institution under TARP at all levels, including in procurement, insurance, and all types of contracts. As such, the Committee encourages the Special Inspector General to closely monitor and provide ongoing reports to the Congress on the ability of these groups to participate under TARP, and any remedial actions that might increase such participation. Furthermore, the Committee encourages the Special Inspector General to consider examining how TARP funding has been used to benefit smaller banks that may be well-positioned to provide needed credit to families and small businesses in their communities.

HEARINGS

The Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations held a hearing on February 24, 2009, on “A Review of TARP Oversight, Accountability and Transparency for U.S. Taxpayers.” The following witnesses testified:

- Mr. Neil M. Barofsky, Special Inspector General, Office of the Special Inspector General, Troubled Asset Relief Program
- Mr. Gene L. Dodaro, Acting Comptroller General of the United States, Government Accountability Office
- Ms. Elizabeth Warren, Chair, Congressional Oversight Panel & Leo Gottlieb Professor of Law, Harvard University

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, March 17, 2009.

Hon. BARNEY FRANK,
*Chairman, Committee on Financial Services,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for S. 383, the Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program Act of 2009.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Matthew Pickford.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS W. ELMENDORF,
Director.

Enclosure.

S. 383—Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program Act of 2009

S. 383 would amend the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 to expand the authorities of the Special Inspector General (SIG) for the troubled Asset Relief Program. The legislation would broaden the SIG's authority to carry out audits and investigations, and would require the Department of the Treasury to transfer to the SIG, within seven days of enactment, whatever remains of the $50 million already appropriated for the SIG's activities.

Under the act, about $40 million of amounts previously appropriated would be transferred to the SIG. Based on information provided by the SIG, CBO expects that this provision would not affect the timing of the agency's expenditures. We estimate that the other provisions of the legislation also would have no significant effect on the federal budget.

S. 383 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contacts for this estimate are Matthew Pickford and Deborah Reis. The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

FEDERAL MANDATES STATEMENT

The Committee adopts as its own the estimate of Federal mandates prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE STATEMENT

No advisory committees within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act were created by this legislation.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Pursuant to clause 3(d)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee finds that the Constitutional Authority of Congress to enact this legislation is provided by Article 1, section 8, clause 1 (relating to the general welfare of the United States) and clause 3 (relating to the power to regulate interstate commerce).

APPLICABILITY TO LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Committee finds that the legislation does not relate to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.

EARMARK IDENTIFICATION

S. 383 does not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9 of rule XXI.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short title

This section establishes the short title of the bill, the “Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program Act of 2009.”

Section 2. Audit and investigations

Clarifies existing SIGTARP authority to conduct, supervise, and coordinate audits or investigations of any action taken under Title I of EESA (TARP Authorization).

Requires the SIGTARP to be treated the same as an office under Section 6(e)(3) of the Inspector General Act of 1978, as amended. This language is similar to that included in H.R. 384, which passed the House earlier this year. Section 6(e)(3) enumerates IGs that are exempt from an initial determination by the AG regarding whether an IG, Assistant IG or agent supervised by an assistant IG may (1) carry a firearm; (2) make an arrest without a warrant while engaged in official duties as authorized under this Act or other statute; or (3) seek and execute warrants for arrest, search of a premises, or seizure of evidence issued under the authority of the United States upon probable cause to believe that a violation has been committed.

Provides that in the event that the Office of the Special Inspector General is terminated, the Inspector General of the Department of the Treasury shall assume the responsibilities of the Special Inspector General under this subsection.

Section 3. Personnel authorities

Provides SIGTARP the authority to exercise temporary hiring authorities for a limited time (six months from the date of enactment of the bill).

Also provides SIGTARP the authority to hire federal annuitants without requiring that they offset their pension. This authority would be limited to 25 employees at any one time. SIGTARP estimates that 25 staff would be equivalent to between 28 to 40 percent of SIGTARP's investigative and audit staff.

Section 4. Response to audits and cooperation and coordination with other entities

Requires Treasury to notify Congress of the reason for failing to follow any written recommendations made by SIGTARP. It also requires cooperation among the various Inspectors General touched by the Relief Program to avoid duplication of effort and to ensure comprehensive oversight of TARP.

Adds SIGTARP to the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency.

Section 5. Reporting requirements

Requires a report to Congress by September 1, 2009, on the use of funds received by financial institutions. The general quarterly reporting requirements for SIGTARP are changed so that reports will be due 30 days after the end of each fiscal quarter.

Section 6. Funding of the Office of the Special Inspector General

Adds a time limit of seven days after enactment of this bill to the existing requirement of release of funds to SIGTARP set forth in EESA.

Section 7. Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency

Adds the Special Inspector General for Iraq Reconstruction and the Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction as members of the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency established pursuant to the Inspectors General Act of 1978, as amended.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

ADDITIONAL VIEWS

Republicans support giving the special Inspector general for the Troubled Asset Relief Program (SIGTARP) the necessary audit and investigative authority to ensure that taxpayers are protected and that the program is free of waste, fraud and abuse. S. 383 gives the SIGTARP authority to quickly hire auditors by granting him temporary hiring authority, and requires the Treasury Secretary to explain to Congress why any specific SIGTARP recommendation is not implemented. While these are useful provisions, Republican offered amendments during Committee consideration of S. 383 to substantially improve the bill by strengthening accountability in the TARP and enhancing taxpayer protections. These amendments, summarized below, were opposed by every Committee Democrat, largely on the ground that making any changes to the Senate-passed versions of S. 383 would slow down the process. Because Republicans believe that it is more important to get it right than to get it done quickly, we urge the Majority to reconsider its opposition to these common-sense amendments and allow them to be considered in the full House.

Paulsen amendment. An Amendment offered by Mr. Paulsen of Minnesota would have mandated that the SIGTARP include within its required regular reports to Congress information on how the TARP is being used to benefit small financial institutions, such as community banks. (A second degree amendment to the Paulsen amendment was adopted by voice vote that directed the SIGTARP to report to Congress on efforts by recipients of TARP funds to utilize women, minorities, and women and minority owned businesses.)

Hensarling amendment. Mr. Hensarling of Texas offered an amendment that would have explicitly required SIGTARP to review the Treasury Department's efforts to "minimize any potential long-term negative impact on the taxpayer" in its implementation of TARP.

Lee amendment. Mr. Lee of New York offered an amendment to improve oversight of TARP by requiring the SIGTARP to immediately seek out and hire as subcontractors private auditors who are knowledgeable in the operation of financial institutions.
