

Acknowledgments

This history builds upon four histories previously printed that covered 1813 through 1982. By adding this new section, this history now chronicles some of the most significant oversight and historical legislation of the past 25 years.

Prepared in a collaborative effort between the Majority and Minority Committee staff, the update of this history benefited significantly from the guidance, contributions and cooperation of a number of Congressional offices, including the Congressional Research Service, the U.S. Capitol Historical Society, the U.S. House of Representatives Office of History and Preservation, the Office of the House Historian, and the Government Printing Office.

Within the Congressional Research Service, Judy Schneider, a specialist in American Government, deserves special recognition and appreciation for her very important contributions to this document and her expert knowledge. Thanks to her team at CRS, especially Michael Koempel whose contributions to this publication were significant, also to Elizabeth Bazan, Christopher Davis, Betsy Palmer, Elizabeth Rybicki, and Kevin Gates.

Thanks to Dr. Donald Kennon, the Historian at the U.S. Capitol Historical Society, who provided “A Brief History of the Judiciary Committee 1813–2007”; Barbara Wolanin, the Curator with the Architect of the Capitol, who provided guidance on the history of the Committees’ meeting rooms; Felecia Wivchar, a clerk in the History and Preservations Office of the U.S. House of Representatives, who was instrumental in researching and locating many of the Chairmen photographs; and, Anthony Willis, a research assistant in the Office of the House Historian, who also helped to locate photographs.

Special thanks go to the Government Printing Office production staff including Jerry Hammond, Lyle Green, Janice Sterling, Joseph Benjamin, Jamie I. Harvey, especially for her creative expertise, and Tara Parekh for their professionalism and guidance in the design, layout, and printing of this historical document.

The Judiciary Committee staff responsible for coordinating the final compilation of this history were Michele Utt of the Majority Republican staff and Sampak Garg of the Minority Democratic staff under the supervision of Philip Kiko, General Counsel of the Committee and Patricia Schwartz, Chief Clerk and Administrator.
