

RICHARD G. DAVIS
Chief Technology Officer

As Chief Technology Officer, Davis is responsible for the Office of Programs, Strategy, and Technology which provides management support, process discipline, business process reengineering and transparency to key agency strategic programs. Davis also oversees the conceptualization and development of GPO's Federal Digital System (FDsys).

Biography

Davis has held various positions at GPO including: Acting Superintendent of Documents, Managing Director of Library Services and Content Management, Product Services Manager, Assistant Director and Director of Electronic Information Dissemination Services (EIDS,) head of the Electronic Transition Staff, Management Analyst for Library Programs Service and Program Analyst in the Technical Support Group. In these positions, Davis contributed to the development and management of GPO Access and GPO's Federal Digital System. Prior to joining GPO, Davis worked for RJR Nabisco.

Davis earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Political Science at James Madison University. He was awarded a Master of Arts degree in Government by the College of William and Mary. He has also completed additional graduate work at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.