

Geoff Gamble

Geoff Gamble is the Vice President for Research and Economic Development at the University of North Texas (UNT), the largest university in the Dallas-Fort Worth region and the fourth largest university of the State of Texas, with 36,000 students.

As former president of Montana State University, Gamble developed its research and academic programs and helped the university achieve the title of Very High Research Activity by the Carnegie Foundation. Under his leadership Montana State surpassed $100 million in research expenditures in 2005 and is nationally recognized for its undergraduate programs.

Gamble, who retired in 2009, is currently President Emeritus and Professor Emeritus at Montana State, and previously served as Provost and Senior Vice President at the University of Vermont, and as Vice Provost for Academic Affairs at Washington State University. He holds a Ph.D. in Linguistics from the University of California, Berkeley. Gamble is the author of two books and a dozen articles on Native American languages.

At UNT, Dr. Gamble is responsible for promoting the University's mission in research, original scholarship, and artistic creativity; facilitating research opportunities at UNT Discovery Park; managing IPs and technology transfer; and fostering interdisciplinary partnerships among its departments and colleges as well as with other universities, government agencies, and various industries. He works closely with the Office of the Provost and other vice presidential areas to transform and expand UNT's research enterprise.
