SEC. 2. FINDINGS; STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds as follows:

(1) Export sales by United States companies are critical to national economic growth.

(2) Increased demand for United States exports in emerging markets will help small and large companies maintain and create United States jobs.

(3) The Export-Import Bank contributes to a stronger national economy by financing the export of United States goods and services in markets where private capital is limited or unavailable.

(4) The Export-Import Bank of the United States does not compete with private sector lenders.

(5) The Export-Import Bank of the United States helps finance United States exports to 183 countries.

(6) A large percentage of global growth will be centered in markets served by the Export-Import Bank of the United States, and the Bank will be critical to helping United States companies compete for these opportunities.

(7) Through its support for exports, in fiscal year 2010 the Export-Import Bank of the United States supported 227,000 American jobs at over 3,300 companies.

(8) The Export-Import Bank of the United States helps to level the playing field for United States exporters by matching the financing that other governments provide to their exporters.

(9) All the leading exporting nations have official export credit agencies that are used actively to support their exporters.

(10) Through its insurance, loan, and loan guarantee products, the Export-Import Bank of the United States supports the promotion and maintenance of high levels of employment and real income and increased development of the productive resources of the United States.

(11) The Export-Import Bank of the United States requires reasonable assurance of repayment for the transactions it authorizes, and the Bank closely monitors credit and other risks in its portfolio. The Bank prices transactions based on its risk assessment of the buyers.

(12) Since 1934, the net loss rate for all long-, medium-, and short-term loans made by the Export-Import Bank of the United States is 1.5 percent.

(13) The Export-Import Bank of the United States has been a self-sustaining institution since fiscal year 2008, and surpluses of the Bank are remitted to the United States Treasury. From fiscal years 2008 through 2010, the Bank generated a surplus of $551,000,000.

(14) In fiscal year 2010, the Export-Import Bank of the United States provided a record $5,000,000,000 directly supporting United States small business exporters through 3,091 transactions, representing 20 percent of the total value of the Bank's authorizations and nearly 88 percent of the total number of the Bank's authorizations.

(b) STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to reauthorize the activities and operations of the Export-Import Bank of the United States to ensure that the Bank provides financing, when commercial banks are unable or unwilling to do so, competitive with the financing provided by foreign export credit agencies, in order to enable United States companies to contribute to a stronger national economy by maintaining or increasing the employment of workers in the United States through the export of goods and services.

SEC. 10. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS REGARDING BANK ACCOUNTABILITY.

It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the Board of Directors of the Export-Import Bank of the United States (in this section referred to as the “Bank”) should establish a formal, transparent, and independent accountability mechanism that would review, investigate, and report on allegations by affected parties of failure of the Bank to follow its own policies and procedures, including situations where the Bank is alleged to have failed in its follow-up on the borrower’s obligations in financing agreements with respect to such policies and procedures;

SEC. 20. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Act and the amendments made by this Act shall take effect on October 1, 2011.

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 2072, the Securing American Jobs Through Exports Act of 2011, would amend the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 by extending the authority of the Export-Import Bank of the United States (the Bank) for four years, from 2011 to 2015. The mission of the Export-Import Bank is to finance the export of U.S. goods and services to create and maintain U.S. jobs. The purpose of H.R. 2072 is to reauthorize the activities and operations of the Bank so it may carry out its mission and in so doing contribute to a stronger national economy.

Key provisions of H.R. 2072 include: (1) a four-year reauthorization of the Export-Import Bank charter; (2) a gradual increase in the Bank’s financing authority from $100 billion to $160 billion; (3) a requirement that the Bank establish clear and comprehensive guidelines regarding the type and amount of content in a good or service eligible for Bank financing; (4) authorization for the Bank to use up to $20 million of its surplus, subject to appropriations, to upgrade its information technology system; and (5) a number of new transparency and accountability requirements for the Bank.

The enhanced transparency and accountability requirements included in H.R. 2072 would ensure that the Bank's default rates remain low, its internal policies and procedures are followed, and taxpayers are protected. Bank accountability would be strengthened by requiring the Government Accountability Office to conduct biennial audits of a representative sample of Bank transactions. The Bank would be required to submit a report to Congress if its default rate equals or exceeds two percent, with a written explanation of why the rate increased and a plan to reduce the rate to less than 2 percent. The Bank would be encouraged to establish a formal, transparent, and independent mechanism for affected parties to hold the Bank accountable for noncompliance with its internal policies and procedures. The Bank would be required to post on its website short descriptions of proposed transactions that equal or exceed $75 million no later than 25 days before final consideration by the Board. In addition, in its Annual Report the Bank would provide a justification for each long-term loan and guarantee transaction it supports. Finally, the bill includes a prohibition on Bank assistance unless entities certify they have not recently engaged in prohibited activities with Iran.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

H.R. 2072 was introduced by Rep. Gary Miller, the Chairman of the Subcommittee on International Monetary Policy and Trade, to amend and reauthorize the charter of the Export Import Bank of the United States (the Bank). The charter under which the Bank operates is set to expire on September 30, 2011. Reauthorization is necessary to ensure that the Bank's support of small and large U.S. companies seeking to export their products can continue uninterrupted in order to maintain and create U.S. jobs.

The Bank was established by an Executive Order in 1934 and was made an independent agency by Congress in 1945 (Public Law 79-173). The Bank is the official export credit agency (ECA) of the United States and serves to promote the creation and maintenance of U.S. jobs by providing direct loans, loan guarantees, working capital guarantees, and export credit insurance to exporters. During Fiscal Year 2010, the Bank provided $24.5 billion in export financing and estimates that 227,000 jobs were created or maintained at more than 3,300 companies because of its programs. The Bank is a self-sustaining organization and surplus revenue is remitted to the U.S. Treasury. For Fiscal Years 2008 through 2010, the Bank returned $551 million to the Department of the Treasury.

The Bank's policy is to supplement and encourage, and not compete with, private capital. The Bank requires reasonable assurance of repayment for all authorized transactions. Transactions are based on the Bank's risk assessment of the buyers, and since 1934 the net loss rate for all long, medium, and short term loans made by the Bank is 1.5 percent.

Export sales by United States companies are critical to national economic growth. A large percentage of future global growth will occur in markets served by the Bank, and the Bank will play a critical role in helping U.S. companies compete for these opportunities. The Bank currently supports exports to 183 countries, and has focused its efforts on nine emerging market nations where the Bank estimates there will be $3 trillion in infrastructure investments in the next five years. Other countries' ECAs, foreign governments, and foreign firms are also focusing on these markets to gain and maintain market share in these growing economies. Therefore, the Bank's financing is essential to leveling the playing field for U.S. firms seeking to export to these markets.

The Bank provides financial support to small businesses through increased outreach efforts in local communities and enhanced small business loan and insurance programs. Last year, there were more than 700 first-time small business users of the Bank's programs, while the Bank authorized $5 billion in support of small business interests. In Fiscal Year 2010, 87 percent of the Bank's 3,532 transactions directly benefited small businesses.

The Bank is subject to statutory restrictions and oversight to safeguard its fiscal soundness, limit mismanagement, and prevent corruption. The Bank's charter requires it to submit annually a detailed report of its operations to Congress. In addition, the Bank is required to report annually on its support for small business and its competitiveness in comparison to foreign ECAs.

Since the financial crisis of 2008, the Bank has been an integral part of the U.S. effort to resuscitate the economy by providing export credit financing when private capital is limited or unavailable. At a time when demand for Bank support is increasing, H.R. 2072 would ensure the Bank has the tools and resources it needs to meet such demand, while effectively mitigating risk. The Bank's volume continues to grow at a rate of approximately $1 billion per month. To meet this demand, H.R. 2072 would gradually increase the Bank's financing authority from $100 billion to $160 billion. H.R. 2072 would add new audit procedures, disclosure requirements, and enhanced accountability mechanisms to ensure the continued success and integrity of the Bank.

The Bank needs an information technology system upgrade to keep up with its current rate of growth and to ensure sound underwriting, and guard against fraud. H.R. 2072 would authorize the Bank to use 1.25 percent of its annual surplus, up to an aggregate of $20 million, to improve its information technology system. The Bank's Inspector General testified that the Bank needs to improve its information technology system to better protect proprietary information, enhance underwriting, and prevent fraud and abuse. The technology upgrade in H.R. 2072 would remedy operational weaknesses and risk management vulnerabilities by enhancing information flow, managing data, and enhancing the operational capacity of the Bank.

Currently, the Bank does not have a transparent process for developing and implementing guidelines that detail the amount of goods and services eligible for Bank financing. H.R. 2072 would direct the Bank to establish clear and comprehensive guidelines for the type and amount of content in a good and service that is eligible for bank financing. These guidelines would be reviewed every two years and would be subject to a notice and comment period so that all stakeholders can provide feedback to the Bank. Proposed guidelines would also be sent to Congress before they are implemented. The Bank's Inspector General would report to Congress on guidelines within one year of new or modified guidelines taking effect.

H.R. 2072 would also direct the Bank to assess how it can serve additional industry sectors that demonstrate both creditworthiness and the need for Bank assistance. In addition to allowing the Bank to establish separate content guidelines for service-industry exports, the legislation would encourage the Bank to consider the needs of the textile industry. The bill would direct the Bank's Advisory Committee, which meets quarterly and advises the Bank on a range of issues, to expand its focus to include the textile industry. The Advisory Committee's findings would be included in the Bank's Annual Report. In addition, the Bank would conduct a study examining its financial assistance to the textile industry.

As a sense of Congress, the Committee urges the Bank to work with all stakeholders to establish an accountability mechanism, which can help decrease risk and provide stability for successful and sustainable business enterprise. Such a mechanism at the Bank should have two functions. One would be to provide a conflict resolution process for affected people seeking to solve problems with activities supported by the Bank. The purpose of this function is to allow complainants and the Ex-Im client to enter into a structured dialogue with the help of a Bank mediator. This approach can address existing complaints about real, perceived, or potential harm from Bank activities, as well as prevent such harm from escalating or occurring at all. The second function would be compliance review, where a complainant may seek an independent review of the Bank's operation to determine whether or not the Bank has violated its own policies and procedures. Further, the mechanism should operate independently of Bank management, in a transparent manner with a public registry of complaints and clear rules of procedure.

As the Bank supports increased U.S. exports, H.R. 2072 would ensure that the Bank remains accountable, that its policies and procedures are followed, and ultimately the taxpayer is protected.

H.R. 2072—Securing American Jobs Through Exports Act of 2011

Summary: H.R. 2072 would extend through 2015 the authority of the Export-Import Bank of the United States (Ex-Im) to provide loans and insurance to finance exports of U.S. products and services. The bill also would gradually raise to $160 billion the total amount of insurance, loan guarantees, and loans that Ex-Im can have outstanding at any time. Finally, it would prohibit the bank from doing business with entities who cannot certify that neither they nor their business partners or affiliates have engaged in certain business dealings with Iran.

CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would increase spending by about $170 million over the 2012–2016 period, assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts. Pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply to this legislation because it would not affect direct spending or revenues.

H.R. 2072 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of H.R. 2072 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget functions 150 (international affairs) and 800 (general government).

Basis of estimate: H.R. 2072 would extend and modify Ex-Im's authority to provide export financing through 2015 (an additional four years). CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would increase spending by $171 million over the 2012–2016 period, assuming appropriation of the estimated amounts.

The bill does not authorize the appropriation of specific amounts. CBO assumes that appropriations would continue for both the administrative costs and the subsidy costs of new loans and guarantees as defined in the Federal Credit Reform Act (FCRA).<sup>1</sup> Certain loan guarantees have a negative subsidy (that is, they result in net additional collections); under current law, Ex-Im uses those collections to fully offset both of those costs, and spends any excess on providing additional loans and guarantees with positive subsidy costs. CBO expects that Ex-Im would continue that practice under the bill. For the purpose of this estimate, CBO assumes that the bill will be enacted near the start of fiscal year 2012, that the estimated authorization amounts would be appropriated near the start of each year, and that outlays will follow historical patterns.

REAUTHORIZATION AND INCREASED EXPOSURE CAP

The Export-Import Bank assists in financing the export of U.S. goods and services by providing products such as loans, loan guarantees, and export credit insurance. The bank's authority to enter into new agreements expires at the end of fiscal year 2011; however, under current law, the bank would continue to operate for some years after that date to service its existing contracts.

As required under FCRA, Ex-Im receives appropriations each year to cover its administrative expenses and the positive subsidy costs of its loans and insurance. Ex-Im also provides loans on which it makes a profit—also known as a negative subsidy. In recent years, Ex-Im has generated sufficient receipts through those negative subsidy loans to more than offset its other costs. It uses some of those excess receipts to provide additional loans and the remainder are retained as balances or returned, eventually, to the U.S. Treasury. The dollar amount of loans, guarantees, and insurance that Ex-Im can have outstanding at any given time is limited by a cap on its exposure.

<sup>1</sup>Under the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, the subsidy cost of a direct loan or loan guarantee is the net present value of estimated payments by the government to cover defaults and delinquencies, interest subsidies, or other expenses, offset by any payments to the government, including origination fees, other fees, penalties, and recoveries on defaulted loans. Such subsidy costs are recorded in the budget when the loans are disbursed.

Section 3 would allow the bank to continue providing new loans, guarantees, and insurance through 2015. Section 4 would increase Ex-Im's maximum allowable financial exposure to $120 billion in 2012, $140 billion in 2013, and $160 billion each year thereafter. CBO estimates that such an increase would allow Ex-Im to continue expanding at its recent rate of about 15 percent a year. Together, CBO estimates that implementing sections 3 and 4 would decrease spending subject to appropriation by $1.3 billion over the 2012–2016 period, assuming appropriations action consistent with the bill. The components of this estimate are discussed below.

Administrative Expenses. Based on information from Ex-Im, CBO estimates that the bank would require additional appropriations of $58 million in 2012 for administrative expenses. Over the 2013–2015 period, CBO estimates that Ex-Im's administrative expenses would grow by 10 percent each year. In 2016, when the bank's authorization would again expire, CBO estimates the additional amounts needed would begin to decline. Assuming appropriation of the estimated amounts, CBO estimates that under sections 3 and 4, administrative expenses would increase by about $440 million over the 2012–2016 period.

Positive Subsidy Costs. CBO further estimates that in 2012 Ex-Im would require appropriations of $76 million for the subsidy cost of new agreements (that amount is identical to the President's request for 2012). Over the 2013–2015 period, CBO estimates that Ex-Im's originations and the subsidy appropriations required would grow by 15 percent each year. In 2016, when Ex-Im's authorization would expire, the bank would not need a subsidy appropriation. Assuming appropriation of the estimated amounts, CBO estimates that subsidy costs under sections 3 and 4 would increase by about $300 million over the 2012–2016 period.

Negative Subsidies. Ex-Im's long-term loan guarantees have negative subsidy rates and generate collections for the bank. CBO estimates that under sections 3 and 4, Ex-Im would collect an additional $117 million in 2012 and $2.2 billion over the 2012–2016 period. Each year in annual appropriations acts, Ex-Im is authorized to use the negative subsidy receipts it has generated to offset the amounts that would otherwise need to be appropriated for administrative expenses and the positive subsidy costs of new loans and insurance.

Spending of Collections. Assuming those appropriations, CBO further estimates that after using its collections to offset its administrative expenses and subsidy costs, Ex-Im would spend about $125 million of its excess collections over the 2012–2016 period. (Those amounts would be used for loans and insurance that have a positive subsidy cost. Ex-Im has indicated that because of limited demand for such deals, it does not anticipate using more than $50 million a year in such authority.)

CERTIFICATIONS REGARDING IRAN

Section 19 of the bill would require applicants for Ex-Im products to certify that since July 1, 2010, neither they nor their business partners or affiliates have engaged in any activities for which sanctions might be imposed under various laws and regulations pertaining to Iran. It would prohibit the bank from doing business with entities that cannot make such certifications. Ex-Im has indicated that complying with those requirements would both lower the volume of certain lucrative deals and increase its administrative costs. CBO estimates that implementing this provision would have a net cost of about $1.5 billion over the 2012–2016 period, assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts.

Most of the deals that would be affected by the prohibition in section 19 would be long-term loan guarantees with negative subsidy rates that generate collections for Ex-Im. A reduction in the volume of such deals would lower Ex-Im's collections. Based on information from Ex-Im, CBO estimates that the bank would originate 40 percent fewer loans and guarantees and that collections would fall by almost $1.5 billion over the 2012–2016 period. In 2015, collections would no longer be sufficient to offset Ex-Im's other costs, thereby reducing spending of those collections.

Based on information from Ex-Im, CBO estimates that in 2012 the bank would require additional appropriations of $6 million for administrative expenses to collect and process the required certifications. After adjusting for inflation, CBO estimates that the administrative costs associated with implementing this provision would amount to $33 million over the 2012–2016 period, assuming appropriation of the estimated amounts.

It is unclear whether section 19 is intended to apply retrospectively to Ex-Im's existing contracts. If Ex-Im concludes that is the case, it could be forced to cancel contracts with entities found to have links with Iran. Any resulting penalties, reimbursements, or reductions in spending would be considered direct spending; however, in the absence of clear congressional intent CBO expects that the requirement would only be applied to new deals and Ex-Im would not cancel any existing contracts.

GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTABILITY OFFICE REPORT

The bill would require the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to conduct a study and report to the Congress on the methodology Ex-Im uses to estimate how its financing promotes job creation. GAO also would be required to conduct biennial audits of bank transactions. Based on information from GAO, CBO estimates that implementing those requirements would cost less than $500,000 over the 2012–2016 period, assuming availability of appropriated amounts.

Pay-as-you-go considerations: None.

Estimated impact on state, local, and tribal governments: H.R. 2072 contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in UMRA and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

Estimated impact on the private sector: H.R. 2072 would prohibit Ex-Im from guaranteeing, insuring, or extending credit to any applicant that cannot certify that since July 1, 2010, neither they nor their business partners or affiliates has engaged in activities with Iran for which sanctions may be imposed under various laws and regulations. If Ex-Im concludes that those provisions would apply retroactively, it would be forced to terminate existing contracts with entities found to have certain ties to Iran. Such an action would impose new conditions on existing agreements, and therefore, would constitute a mandate on certain private-sector entities. However, in the absence of clear Congressional intent to terminate existing contracts, CBO expects that the requirement would only apply to new Ex-Im contracts. Requirements that are imposed pursuant to new voluntary contracts with the Federal Government are not considered mandates under UMRA. Consequently, CBO expects the bill would impose no private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA.

Estimate prepared by: Federal costs: Sunita D'Monte; Impact on State, local, and Tribal Governments: J'nell L. Blanco; Impact on the private sector: Marin Randall and Sean Lowry.

Estimate approved by: Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1: Short title; table of contents

This section provides a short title to the bill of "Securing American Jobs Through Exports Act of 2011."

Section 2: Findings; statement of purpose

This section includes findings that the Export-Import Bank contributes to a stronger national economy by financing the export of U.S. goods and services where private financing is limited or unavailable. This assistance helps U.S. firms compete in important and growing export markets and creates U.S. jobs. The section also states that in 2010, the Bank supported 227,000 American jobs at over 3,300 companies.

This section provides that the purpose of H.R. 2072 is to reauthorize the activities and operations of the Export-Import Bank to ensure that the Bank provides financing, when commercial banks are unable or unwilling to do so, competitive with the financing provided by foreign export credit agencies, in order to enable

United States companies to contribute to a stronger national economy by maintaining or increasing the employment of workers in the United States through the export of goods and services.

Section 3: Extension of authority

This section reauthorizes the Export-Import Bank for four years, from 2011 to 2015.

Section 4: Limitations on outstanding loans, guarantees, and insurance

This section increases the Bank's lending authority from $100 billion to $160 billion over three years, increasing $20 billion per year up to $160 billion in total exposure.

Section 5: Content guidelines for the provision of bank financing

This section provides that after a notice and comment period and Board approval, the Bank is required to establish comprehensive content guidelines for goods and services eligible for Bank financing. In establishing these guidelines, the Bank must take into account required considerations that support the creation and maintenance of U.S. jobs and contribute to a stronger national economy through the export of goods and services. In addition to the considerations listed in the bill, the Bank is permitted to take into account any considerations it deems relevant to increasing U.S. employment.

Under this section, the Bank is authorized to establish separate guidelines for (1) goods and services; (2) financing terms and financial products; and (3) small business concerns. Also, before receiving financial support, an exporter is required to certify that the domestic content of a good was not reduced solely as a result of the new guidelines.

Additionally, the Bank must publish proposed content guidelines no later than 60 days after the date of enactment of the Act for notice and comment. Within 60 days after the end of the notice period, the Bank is required to submit the proposed guidelines to Congress for review. Following a 60-day Congressional review period, the guidelines would be considered final and would be implemented.

This section also provides for the Bank to review and, as appropriate, modify the guidelines every two years. Within one year after the implementation of the content guidelines, the Bank's Inspector General would evaluate the Bank's content guidelines and submit a report to Congress.

Section 6: Improvement of method for calculating the effects of bank financing on job creation and maintenance in the United States

This section directs the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to conduct a study to determine the most accurate method to calculate the effects of Bank financing on job creation in the United States, and to recommend modifications to the Bank's current methodology, if needed. The GAO is required to submit the results of the study within six months of the date of enactment of the bill.

Section 7: Biennial audits of bank transactions

This section requires the GAO, in consultation with the Inspector General of the Bank, to audit a representative sample of Bank transactions every two years to ensure Bank transactions meet the Bank's policies, guidelines and due diligence standards.

Section 8: Use of portion of the bank surplus to update information technology systems

This section provides that for each fiscal year, the Bank may use up to 1.25% of its surplus to upgrade its information technology systems, up to an aggregate amount of $20 million. The use of the Bank's surplus funds for the purpose of investing in its information technology system is subject to appropriations.

Section 9: Monitoring of default rates on bank financing; reports on default rates

This section requires the Bank to monitor and calculate its total default rate at least every quarter of each fiscal year. If the total default rate equals or exceeds two percent, then the Bank must submit a report to Congress, within 45 days, explaining the circumstance of the default and develop a plan to reduce the default rate.

Section 10: Sense of the Congress regarding bank accountability

This section provides that it is the sense of the Congress to encourage the Board of Directors to establish an independent process for affected parties to hold the Bank accountable for instances of noncompliance with its policies and procedures.

Section 11: Sub-Saharan Africa Advisory Committee

This section reauthorizes the Sub-Saharan Africa Advisory Committee for four years, from 2011 to 2015.

Section 12: Extension of authority to provide financing for the export of non-lethal defense articles or services the primary end use of which will be for civilian purposes

This section provides for an extension of the Bank's authority to finance the export of non-lethal defense articles or services used primarily for civilian purposes for four years, from 2011 to 2015.

Section 13: Elimination of obsolete provisions

This section removes the provisions of the Bank charter relating to the Foreign Credit Insurance Association and certain Marxist-Leninist Countries that no longer exist.

Section 14: Examination of bank support for small business

This section provides that within 180 days of the enactment of this Act, the Bank must examine its current products, programs, and policies and report to Congress on whether the Bank adequately meets the needs of small business exporters.

Section 15: Categorization of purpose of loans and long-term guarantees in annual report

This section provides that, in its annual report, the Bank must categorize each loan and long-term guarantee according to the following purposes:

(1) To assume commercial or political risk that an exporter or private financial institutions is unwilling or unable to undertake.

(2) To overcome maturity or other limitations in private sector export financing.

(3) To meet competition from a foreign, officially sponsored, export credit competition.

(4) Not identified. The reason why the purpose is not identified.

Section 16: Disclosure requirement for board meetings

This section requires the Bank to publish on its website information on proposed financing transactions that equal or exceed $75 million, no later than 25 days before final consideration by the Board of Directors. The Bank may not, however, publish confidential or proprietary business information that would violate the Trade Secrets Act or jeopardize jobs in the United States by supplying competitors with information that could be used to compete with U.S. firms.

Section 17: Modifications relating to the Advisory Committee

This section provides for the inclusion of the textile industry in the interests that will be broadly represented on the Bank's Advisory Committee. The Advisory Committee is directed to consider ways to support the maintenance, promotion and expansion of jobs in the textile industry. Also, in its Annual Report to Congress, the Bank must include a section on Advisory Committee determinations relating to the textile industry.

Section 18: Financing for goods manufactured in the United States used in global textile and apparel supply chains

This section requires the Bank to conduct a study examining the ability of the textile industry to access Bank products, and to report to Congress within 180 days of the date of enactment how the Bank could increase accessibility to Bank financing for the textile industry. In addition, the Bank's Annual Report to Congress must include a description of its record in meeting the needs of the textile and apparel industry, and detail the steps taken to increase Bank accessibility.

Section 19: Prohibition on bank assistance for project to be participated in by an entity that has recently engaged in certain prohibited activities with respect to Iran

This section prohibits the Bank from providing financing to a person, unless the person certifies to the Bank that, since July 1, 2010, neither the person, nor any other person under common ownership or control with the person, has engaged in activities sanctionable under Section 5(a) of the Iran Sanctions Act of 1996, or Section 106(c) of the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act of 2010, or part 560 of Title 31, Code of Federal Regulations (Iranian Transactions Regulations).

Section 20: Effective date

This section provides that the Securing American Jobs Through Exports Act of 2011 and its amendments would take effect on October 1, 2011.
