Conservation Workshops

NOAA Fisheries Service

Public Workshops:
Information Gathering for Acropora spp. Conservation

Based on the proposed rule to list elkhorn (Acropora palmata) and staghorn (Acropora cervicornis) corals as threatened species under the Endangered Species Act, NOAA Fisheries Service seeks input from resource users and resource managers to identify programs and activities that may affect the species. Additionally, NOAA Fisheries is collecting information pertinent to identifying the physical and biological features essential for conserving the species and identifying possible areas to designate as critical habitat. The information gathered during these workshops will be considered in the development of any future conservation measures.

We need YOUR HELP if you:

- CONDUCT activities or programs that involve interaction with elkhorn and staghorn corals
- PARTICIPATE in activities or programs that involve interaction with elkhorn and staghorn corals
- Have information pertinent to IDENTIFYING AREAS OF PHYSICAL AND BIOLOGICAL FEATURES that involve interaction with elkhorn and staghorn corals
- Have information pertinent to IDENTIFYING possible areas of CRITICAL HABITAT

Section 7

- All federal agencies have responsibility to ensure their actions do not jeopardize continued existence
- Work with NMFS to reduce affects to the species
- If "take" is prohibited - can issue ITS

Threatened Elkhorn and Staghorn Corals

<http://sero.nmfs.noaa.gov/pr/protres.htm#acropora>

Critical Habitat

- Geographic Areas that contain Physical and Biological features essential to conservation
- Gathered Information at workshops
- Partnering with NCCOS/Biogeography Team to assemble a GIS of know presence/absence and habitat features
- Designation with One Year of final listing

Threatened Elkhorn and Staghorn Corals
