Permanent signs to be placed along BiRD stops

Bill Deaver, 778th Civil Engineer Squadron senior general engineer, marks a spot where a BiRD sign will be permanently located. The BiRD program has seen much growth since it began in November 2010.

New signs will soon be placed to mark the permanent location of stops along the Buses into Robins, or BiRD, route.

For the past 18 months, temporary markers have been in place where three buses pick up and drop off passengers each weekday morning and afternoon. While details are still being finalized, sign installations are a welcome element for a program that has seen much growth since it began in November 2010.

"The program has been successful," said John Pugh, 78th Mission Support Group deputy director. "It is slow, positive growth – but it is positive. The workforce is not only supporting the program with the Clean Air Campaign, but also mass transit at Robins, which includes BiRD, car-

Traffic feasibility study meetings

The Warner Robins Area Transportation Study is seeking public comment on a transit feasibility study being conducted for the Warner Robins metropolitan area. WRATS will hold two public information meetings Tuesday to gather public input on transit: from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Centerville Public Library and from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Perry Public Library.

There will be a formal presentation toward the beginning of each meeting and attendees will have an opportunity to ask questions and offer comment on the need for public transit in the Warner Robins metropolitan area. Public comment will help identify areas where transit service will be examined in greater detail, and the types of transit service to be studied.

A transit survey for the study is also available at www.wrga.gov.

pool and vanpool programs."

Pugh, along with Bill Deaver, 778th Civil Engineer Squadron senior general engineer, rode along the BiRD route May 11, marking where permanent signs will be positioned at nine stops.

Ridership numbers have seen steady growth since first tracked in December 2010, when BiRD began with about 214 riders.

During April, there were 1,219 riders who used the service.

BiRD partners with the Macon-Bibb County Transit Authority to take Bibb County residents to and from work. Since more than 60 percent of Robins' military and civilian employees live in Houston County, a feasibility study is in the works to determine additional mass transit options into the base.

Twelve Robins units have been recognized with "gold" in the Warner Robins Air Logistics Center's Voluntary Protection Program Safe Site Challenge.

Employee teams are assessed against a series of Bronze-Silver-Gold checklists designed to grow and sustain a site's safety and health practices.

The recent additions bring the number of units at Robins which have achieved Gold-level recognition to 134, with 150 other sites achieving either bronze or silver.

1st Lt. Karl Kappler, 689th Combat Communications Wing, and then-2nd Lt. Karl Hurdle, 116th Air Control Wing, deliver a wreath during last year's Camellia Garden Memorial Service.

The month of May includes two ceremonies that will involve all of Team Robins.

A Memorial Day Retreat Ceremony will be conducted Wednesday at 5 p.m. in front of Bldg. 905, 78th Air Base Wing headquarters. The retreat will include representatives of every organization on base in a 26-person formation.

Maj. Gen. Robert McMahan, Warner Robins Air Logistics Center commander, will serve as the commander of troops. All members will wear service dress uniforms.

Monthly retreats are part of Air Force Materiel Command's "Back to Basics" initiative, conducted to bring back some of the service's heritage, customs and courtesies.

The annual Camellia Gardens Memorial

Service – which pays tribute to the men and women who have served their country from Robins Air Force Base – will take place Thursday at 10:15 a.m. in the gardens across from Horizons. A reception will follow at Horizons.

All military should wear the uniform of the day; civilians should wear business attire.

The service is a 35-year tradition rooted in a partnership between Robins, the Middle Georgia Camellia Society and the Robins Regional Chamber of Commerce.

At the garden's entrance are the names of 1,782 deceased military and civilian Robins members who have been honored.

Robins partnerships produce future educational opportunities

BY CHRISSEY MINER
christine.miner@robins.af.mil

In a meeting May 10 with two members of the Georgia Board of Regents, base leaders continued to solidify future educational opportunities for the workforce.

Maj. Gen. Robert McMahon, Warner Robins Air Logistics Center commander, and Deryl Israel, WR-ALC executive director, discussed the newly designated Middle Georgia State College – a consolidation effort of Middle Georgia College of Cochran and Macon State College – with Regents Larry Walker and Bob Hatcher.

The merging of the institutions, approved May 8, will produce new advanced degree programs in Houston County that will directly benefit the Robins workforce.

The new name and consolidation efforts will become effective in January.

“This is wonderful news for the community and the workforce,” said Israel, a champion of base education and professional development activities. “Right on our front doorstep we will have additional resources for personal and professional development.”

McMahon was also pleased with the outcome of the meeting, and that the focus remains on furthering educational programs and opportunities for the base.

“The Regents recognize the importance of the mission at Robins and the need to groom future leadership for the base and the Air Force,” said McMahon.

Israel stressed that the best is yet to come for base workers looking to advance their education.

“It’s all a part of our continuing dialogue with regional academic institutions,” said Israel. “This is just another fine example of how this community evolves and supports the needs of Robins.”

Currently, there are two regional schools which offer advanced degrees for the workforce – Georgia College and State University and Mercer University.

CELEBRATING SACRIFICE

Reflection, gratitude befit Memorial Day

BY GEN. DONALD HOFFMAN
Air Force Materiel Command commander

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AIR FORCE BASE, Ohio – As I prepare to retire, I once again find myself reflecting on what it means to serve. Foremost in my thoughts are those who have risked their lives to preserve freedom and democracy.

Even as we are hosting barbecues on Memorial Day weekend, or just enjoying extra time with our families, brave men and women are demonstrating their commitment to the United States and our way of life as they engage in military operations far from home. During the years, more than one million American Soldiers, Sailors, Coast Guardsmen, Marines and Airmen have made the ultimate sacrifice in defense of our great nation. That number continues to grow. We owe these fallen warriors our gratitude and, though it can never truly be repaid, we should never forget that debt.

Take, for example, the Doolittle Raiders, who commemorated their 70th anniversary last month. Their mission was risky even as planned, but unexpected circumstances forced a difficult choice – cancel the raid or launch early and risk running out of fuel. They chose to launch. The Raiders dropped their bombs, but as their fuel gauges dropped, they knew they could not reach their designated airfields. Only 73 of the 80 Raiders returned home, some after being held prisoner for more than three years. Although the strike caused relatively little physical damage, the selfless mission of those brave Airmen forced the Japanese to strategically re-position their forces and boosted the morale of America and its allies.

Indeed, our history is full of stories of ordinary people who displayed extraordinary heroism through their service. This Memorial Day, remember the ones those stories are about – the sons and daughters, fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters who bravely served and died protecting our freedoms.

461st officer wins AF Marquez award

Capt. Kevin Scholz is a recipient of a 2011 Lt. Gen. Leo Marquez award.

Scholz, an operations officer with the 461st Maintenance Squadron, was presented the award May 10 during the Team Robins Quarterly Award ceremony at the base theater.

The annual Air Force-level award honors military members and civilians for outstanding service in the maintenance field.

“This is a huge honor,” said Scholz, who is responsible for backshop and specialist maintenance actions on the JSTARS fleet. “Words cannot describe it. This is very humbling. It encompassed a year of my life while I was overseas in Afghanistan, where I experienced a lot of emotions.”

Scholz, who has been at Robins for three years, was deployed to Kandahar Airfield for 185 days in 2011. He served as the 451st Expeditionary Aircraft Maintenance Squadron operations officer, and was responsible for maintaining more than 120 aircraft. During this time, those aircraft flew more than 16,000 combat sorties totaling more than 130,000 combat hours in support of U.S. and coalition ground forces.

He also assisted rescue helicopters, which performed combat search and rescue missions, and is proud of the role he

Base pools open May 25

Summer is around the corner and this year, Robins will help people beat the summer heat by opening both outdoor pools.

The pools will be open daily from noon to 7 p.m. The Heritage Club pool will close on Mondays, while the Horizons pool will close on Thursdays for cleaning. They will open May 25 and will remain open on Memorial Day. The Heritage pool will be closed May 29.

In addition, this year there will be no charge to use the facilities, although you must be a cardholder to access the pools. Cardholders will be allowed to bring guests to the pool, but must remain with the guests at all times.

Karan Taggart, Robins aquatics director, said opening two pools allows them to offer more swimming lessons than last year.

“We are offering more than 50 classes, ranging in age from 6 months and up. It’s never too late to learn to swim,” she said.

She said there will be concessions available at both pools.

To register for swim lessons or for more information about the pools, call Outdoor Recreation at 468-4001.
