NASA ANNOUNCES NEW SHARED SERVICES DEPUTY DIRECTOR

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. – The NASA Shared Services Center (NSSC) Executive Director Michael J. Smith named Rebecca Dubuisson as the organization's deputy director, effective March 25, 2012.

As deputy director, Ms. Dubuisson will assist Smith in managing the NSSC and providing leadership to the business and technical functional areas of financial management, human resources, information technology, procurement and agency business support services.

Ms. Dubuisson has 24 years of experience in business administration including acquisition management, institutional management, and financial management. She began her NASA career in 1988 at the Stennis Space Center (SSC) as a Procurement Analyst in the Procurement and Business Management Office. In 1999, she began serving as Procurement Officer for SSC and was the Center's advocate for competitive sourcing. After leading a year-long propulsion test operations source evaluation board, Ms. Dubuisson was named the SSC Program Manager for the implementation of NASA's Integrated Financial Management Program. In 2005, Ms. Dubuisson joined the newly forming NSSC as Deputy Director, Business and Administration. She became Director of this office in 2007. Ms. Dubuisson was appointed to the federal Senior Executive Service (SES) in September 2007. A graduate of the Florida Institute of Technology, Orlando, Florida, with an M.B.A., Ms. Dubuisson also holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Delta State University, in Cleveland, Mississippi.
