

INSIDE

Getting ship-shape

National Public Lands Day drew more than 200 people to volunteer to help clean up at the Naval Surface Warfare Center, Corona Division. C5

NORCO: PITCHING IN TO CLEAN UP

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS-ENTERPRISE

Rosalie Gallegos, 14, of Chino Hills, and Brandon Iwabuchi, 17, of Moreno Valley, help clean up the Naval Surface Warfare Center, Corona Division, on National Public Lands Day, which drew more than 200 people.

The cleanup was jointly sponsored by the warfare center, the Naval Weapons Station Seal Beach Detachment Corona and the Lake Norconian Club Foundation. Volunteers included members of Norco Girls School Troop 491 and the mayor of Norco.

The participants cleared vegetation and did other chores around the facility.

Sponsors of the national observance said Public Lands Day began in 1994 with three federal agencies and 700 volunteers.