

HOW TO FIND RELIABLE HIV/AIDS TREATMENT INFORMATION ON THE INTERNET

August 2011

Evaluating Health Information on the Internet

The World Wide Web contains an abundance of free health information, available 24 hours per day. However, one must be cautious to evaluate that information because much of it is unreliable. The National Library of Medicine (NLM) is a good place to start to find trustworthy, up-to-date health information. Beyond that, there are some important criteria you should consider to determine if a site is trustworthy. Briefly, the categories you should consider are the following:

- ▶ Authority and Accuracy
- ▶ Coverage
- ▶ Currentness
- ▶ Objectivity
- ▶ Design Features

Savvy Health Surfing (see following page), a printable reference guide from the National Library of Medicine, provides a detailed list of these criteria with sample questions for each to assist you.

Additional Resources

For further information, we recommend these additional resources:

Questions to Ask About Health-Related Web Sites

Authority and Accuracy

- ▶ Who is the author or source?
- ▶ Can you verify their credentials?
- ▶ Do they represent a recognized organization or is it a personal page?
- ▶ Is affiliation information provided?
- ▶ Does the Web site have an advisory board?
- ▶ Can the information be verified through links to the sources?
- ▶ If the site offers advice, do qualified health professionals provide it?
- ▶ Is contact information provided?

Coverage

- ▶ Who is the intended audience for this site?
- ▶ What is the purpose of the site?
- ▶ Does the site promote or advocate a viewpoint?
- ▶ Is the depth of coverage on the site reasonable?
- ▶ Is the information primary or secondary?
- ▶ If appropriate, are there links to additional information?

Currentness

- ▶ When was the site created?
- ▶ When was the site last updated?
- ▶ When was the data or information collected?
- ▶ Are the links kept up to date?

Objectivity

- ▶ Is the purpose of the site clearly stated?
- ▶ Is the information presented objectively?
- ▶ Is any sponsorship clearly acknowledged?

Design Features

- ▶ Is the site well-organized and user-friendly?
- ▶ Is the site easy to navigate?
- ▶ Is the graphic layout of the site pleasing? Is it clear and uncluttered?
- ▶ Are there any features that increase or decrease usability? Do you need additional viewers or plug-ins?
- ▶ Is there an internal search engine on the site?
- ▶ Are there customizable options?
- ▶ Can you ask questions or provide feedback?
- ▶ Is the site accessible to individuals with disabilities?

HIV/AIDS Treatment Web Sites

This list of HIV/AIDS treatment resources on the Web is arranged alphabetically by topic. Topic names were assigned based on the quality and quantity of information available. Click any topic to go to that topic in this document. Beginning with the following page, a topic navigation bar is provided on the left. The Home button on the top right of each following page will return you to this page.
