Personal Readiness Assessment

Below are items that you should consider BEFORE beginning an exercise program. Your physical activity readiness is a first step when planning to increase physical activity levels in your life and is for your personal use only.

Although these serve as a basic guideline, should you have any questions you should consult a physician BEFORE beginning an exercise program:

Has a physician ever said you have a heart condition and you should only do physical activity recommended by a physician?
When you do physical activity, do you feel pain in your chest?
When you were not doing physical activity, have you had chest pain in the past month?
Do you ever lose consciousness or do you lose your balance because of dizziness?
Do you have a joint or bone problem that may be made worse by a change in your physical activity?
Is a physician currently prescribing medications for your blood pressure or heart condition?
Are you pregnant?
Do you have insulin dependent diabetes?
Are you 69 years of age or older?
Do you know of any other reason you should not exercise or increase your physical activity?

If you answered 'YES' to any of the above questions, talk with your doctor BEFORE you become more physically active. Tell your doctor your intent to exercise and to which questions you answered yes.

If you honestly answered 'NO' to all questions, you can be reasonably positive that you can safely increase your level of physical activity gradually.

If your health should change so that you can then answer 'YES' to any of the above questions, seek guidance from a physician immediately.
