- Your Education is our number one priority
- Communication is the key:
 - Students ensure you take your “Green Sheets” to your spouses!
 - Spouses – check your email and community calendar often!
- We will provide you with more “things” to do than you can accomplish ... prioritize and make informed choices

The programs offered at The Army War College are like a Chinese buffet ... there is a lot of food, some you love, some that you don't and some that you are curious to taste ... but, in the end, everyone leaves the table satisfied ~ Student, AY2006

Combined/Joint Force Land Commander Course

General Cucolo, one of the guest speakers during the Combined/Joint Force Land Commander course held at the Army War College.

The Combined/Joint Force Land Commander Course is a seminar-based, limited to 16 general officers or executive leaders from the U.S. Armed Forces, coalition partners, and often the Department of State. The course is designed for corps and division commanders and deputy/assistant commanders, and commanders of equivalent theater-level joint or service commands. The selected commanders will need to plan, prepare for, and execute land-centric military campaigns that provide coalition commanders with capabilities to achieve policy objectives through unified land operations. The mid-year session is multinational in scope, with increased participation by general and flag officers from current and potential coalition partners.

This seminar-based course challenges general and flag officers to examine the key elements of developing and executing land component command functions at the theater level in support of joint force commanders and in conjunction with air, maritime, and special operations functional commands. Retired General David D. McKiernan guides an examination of Operation Iraqi Freedom as a primary case study which explores the challenges of commanding unified land operations. Other current operations and theater-level political-military subjects are also addressed. The course also includes a rigorous small-group exercise that challenges the attendees to devise solutions and issue guidance on deploying, forming, controlling, protecting, operating, and sustaining a combined and joint land command at the theater and operational level of war.

The exercise sessions and discussions are guided by senior advisors, who are retired general officers who served previously as theater-level joint and combined commanders. These highly qualified experts provide experience-based mentoring, teaching, and advice to the multinational participants throughout the course.

Here is how to enter:

Bring your photo of your beloved family member to Delaney Field Clubhouse between August 1st and August 17th.

The photo can be any size not to exceed 8 x 10 inches. You may mount your photo yourself (any way you prefer) or we can mount it for you on our board.

On the back of the photo please place your pet's name, your address and contact info. so we can notify you if you are a winner.
