

Internet Assisted Review (IAR) Version 2.30.0.0 Release Notes

New Features

List of Meetings Screen Displays Confidentiality Statement Message

A new reminder message displays on the List of Meetings screen to provide instruction to Reviewers that they must agree to the Confidentiality Statement once per meeting in order to access any review material. The message also instructs the Reviewer to access the agreement by selecting the Confidentiality Statement link in the Action column.

This new message displays on the List of Meetings screen for Scientific Review Officers as well.

Notes and Tips:

- IMPORTANT: Remember that the information contained on this web site is private. Any information concerning applications, critiques or scores is highly confidential. Please remember to destroy all review materials after the review session is over. This includes all paper copies that were printed as well as and electronic files that you may have downloaded. This also pertains to the CD containing the applications being reviewed that you may have received and any files that were copied from there. If you do download files, make sure that they are downloaded to a secure PC and not to any network drives or servers.
- For information on the latest changes in IAR, go to the IAR Release Notes.

Reviewers must agree to the Confidentiality Statement, once per meeting, in order to access any review materials. Reviewers should click on the "Confidentiality Statement" link in the Action column.
