Ready Now

The Navy Reserve force motto is “Ready Now. Anytime, Anywhere.” It’s not merely a tagline, catchphrase or slogan but a goal all members of the Force strive to achieve every day. Being “Ready Now. Anytime, Anywhere” is a pledge to fellow shipmates, the Navy and the Nation. To honor this pledge, actions must match words.

Being “Ready Now” starts with individual readiness. Sailors must meet Navy standards for physical, medical, dental, family and personal readiness. Training must be current and military records must be in order.

There’s a lot of data to track – and fortunately the Force has the right tool for the job. The Navy Reserve Readiness Module (NRRM) is a powerful tool delivering on-demand readiness information available to all levels of leadership. Using up-to-date information from authoritative databases, NRRM can identify who is ready, who is not, and what needs to be done to be ready.

For unit leaders, using NRRM can help Sailors achieve and maintain readiness. It helps leadership make the most valuable use of our Sailors’ time. Because NRRM tracks the entire Force, the Navy Reserve can quickly, accurately and confidently report exactly how many Sailors are Ready Now – and leaders can slice and dice the data many ways: by unit, NOSC or region, by rating or designator, or by qualifications (NOBC, NEC, AQD).

This visibility has helped improve the readiness of the Force. If you’re not already using NRRM, request an account by logging onto the Navy Reserve Homeport and selecting NRRM under the “Applications” link. NRRM is such a great tool that this Navy Reserve system will be adopted Navy-wide. Like all great tools, it is both easy to use and helps get the job done better and more efficiently. While NRRM is a great tool, it’s just a tool. It’s up to each leader to put NRRM to work. In the end, being ready is about Sailors, not systems.

When Sailors are ready, units are ready, the Force is ready. When Reserve Force is Ready Now, we are aligned with the Chief of Naval Operation’s Tenets: “Warfighting First. Operate Forward. Be Ready.” And as the President and Secretary of Defense wrote in their 2012 Defense Strategic Guidance, our readiness and ability to make sustained contributions to national security has been vital in the decade since 9/11, just as it has in decades and generations in the past. The challenges facing the United States today and in the future require our continued readiness. The readiness of every Sailor matters!

Being ready is living up to the Navy heritage and Navy Ethos. Being ready is living the commitment expressed in the Navy Core Values. Ensuring readiness is each Sailor’s first obligation; helping every Sailor be ready reflects the very best of who we are as a Navy. It’s how the Reserves honor the promise of the Navy Reserve Force motto: Ready Now. Anytime, Anywhere.
