OVERVIEW

USAID WORKS TO ELEVATE DEVELOPMENT AND SEIZE PIVOTAL OPPORTUNITIES THROUGH EXPANDED PARTNERSHIPS WITH NONGOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

INTRODUCTION

In April 2012, Dr. Rajiv Shah, Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development, released his second annual letter, stating:

"Two years ago, President Barack Obama and Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton both called for elevating development within America's foreign policy. Many people in the development community assumed their call to elevate development was about recognizing the importance of the work USAID and others have done for decades. But the President and Secretary's call for elevating development was not a show of gratitude. It was not a reward. It was a challenge. It meant we would have to move past old debates and embrace new opportunities. Over the last two years, we've worked hard to take up the President and the Secretary's call."

One of USAID's key responses to the Quadrennial Development and Diplomacy Review (QDDR) and its call to "elevate development" in U.S. Foreign Policy is USAID Forward. USAID Forward is a set of reforms aimed to transform the Agency into a "modern development enterprise," focused on more innovative and strategic approaches to development cutting across the sectors of the Agency's work. USAID Forward, with an emphasis on innovation and a relentless focus on results, is fostering new partnerships with civil society and the private sector.

The USAID Forward reforms encompass the universe of Agency operations, internal and external, and focus on streamlining business processes, formalizing evaluation and learning methodologies to improve performance, and promoting innovative solutions to development challenges. One of the central objectives of USAID Forward is Implementation and Procurement Reform (IPR), including the expansion of USAID partnerships with a wider range of development actors, specifically nongovernmental organizations (NGOs), small businesses, and local civil society and private-sector organizations. Increasing direct relationships with local organizations furthers a key goal of USAID Forward and IPR to increase the sustainability and cost effectiveness of the Agency's development investments. Nearly two years into this reform process, the Agency has reformed procurement procedures, revised regulations, amended policies, and elevated learning and accountability around capacity development to help transform USAID culture to one more amenable to fostering direct relationships with a broad range of implementing partners, including local organizations.

In 2010, USAID created the Development Innovation Ventures Fund, which uses a venture capital model to fund, pilot, and bring creative solutions to scale. In addition, the Agency has initiated Grand Challenges for Development, which identifies solvable development problems and provides a framework for overcoming scientific and technological barriers to find scalable solutions to address the problems. The first Grand Challenge, Saving Lives at Birth, generated more than 600 proposals to address the survival needs of women and newborns in low-resource, rural settings.

USAID Forward is also providing opportunities to reorganize the Agency and elevate innovation and partnerships. For example, the Private and Voluntary Cooperation Division has been renamed the Local Sustainability (LS) Division and is now part of the Office of Innovation and Development Alliances (IDEA), which is working to more quickly, cost-efficiently, and sustainably achieve development goals by supporting innovations that lead to significant improvements in development impact.

During the past year, the LS Division continued its efforts to expand partnerships with a wide range of private voluntary organizations (PVOs) to support their direct activities, as well as their work with local partners. The LS Division also has expanded direct relationships with a wide range of local organizations. USAID recognizes the contributions that PVOs and local organizations make to the world's development objectives and believes that PVOs and local organizations, as participants on the frontlines of development, are essential to the process of generating low-cost, transformative solutions to improve lives worldwide.

To facilitate its humanitarian and development work, USAID registers PVOs so that they are eligible to compete for funding opportunities with the Agency. The purpose of the PVO registration is to:

- Identify PVOs that engage in, or intend to engage in, voluntary foreign aid operations
- Determine whether PVOs meet certain general operating guidelines and accountability standards
- Certify that PVOs are eligible to apply for USAID assistance

IDEA/LS is the Agency lead for the Registry of U.S. and international PVOs and has made significant improvements toward streamlining the online registration system, created in 2008, including efforts to enhance the submission experience and ensure the accuracy of the data collected.

2012 VOLAG REPORT

The Report of Voluntary Agencies Engaged in Overseas Relief and Development (VolAg Report) provides a snapshot of the work of the U.S. and international PVOs that are registered with USAID. As defined by USAID, a PVO is a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization that solicits and receives cash contributions from the general public and conducts, or anticipates conducting, international program activities that are consistent with U.S. Foreign Policy objectives (see 22CFR203.2 for complete definition). PVOs register with USAID to establish and maintain eligibility to compete for grants and cooperative agreements. Information about registration can be found at idea.usaid.gov/ls/pvo/

The 2012 VolAg Report includes a brief description and a summary of financial activities for the 579 U.S. PVOs, 95 international PVOs, and 6 U.S. Cooperative Development Organizations (CDOs) registered with USAID as of April 1, 2012. The information contained in this report is also available through the online PVO Registry, a searchable database that is updated daily, at pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/

PARTNERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Partnerships are a central component of USAID's vision of a modern development enterprise and the Agency's ongoing major initiatives to increase effectiveness in meeting development objectives. Working closely with local implementing partners and building their capacity is a key aspect of the Agency's implementation and procurement reform effort. The LS Division is at the cutting edge of these efforts. The Division implements several programs that complement IPR and works with and builds the capacity of local partners to strengthen local development outcomes.

IDEA/LS leads the Agency's partnership building with PVOs, NGOs, and cooperatives. In this role, IDEA/LS:

- serves as an institutional bridge between the Agency and the PVO, NGO, and cooperative communities;
- provides support and services to Agency staff and partners that are developing strategic partnerships involving NGOs, PVOs, or cooperatives;
- informs Agency efforts to develop innovative, effective programs that strengthen PVOs, NGOs, and cooperatives in USAID partner countries; and U.S. PVOs received $20.9 billion in support from U.S. citizens and private sources, over 6 times the $3.3 billion from USAID.

- provides leadership on the Agency's outreach to the PVO, NGO, and cooperative communities as well as on policy formulation and issues of concern to these communities.

In addition to PVO Registration, IDEA/LS also manages the following programs:

The Development Grants Program (DGP) focuses on building and expanding partnerships with U.S. and local, in-country organizations that have little or no direct experience in working with USAID. The DGP program enables grantees to develop their organizational and technical capabilities while implementing innovative development activities in their home countries. Through the DGP, USAID aims to create stronger, flexible, and sustainable organizations that can rapidly respond to the evolving needs of those they serve. In addition to receiving funding for activities and institutional support, DGP grantees have access to capacity development support to enhance their organizational and/or technical capabilities. This support is nimble and customized to grantees' needs, with a focus on empowering local capacity-building service providers where possible. The DGP staff helps contribute to the expertise of USAID's Mission staff and regional USAID Local Capacity Development Teams.

The Cooperative Development Program (CDP) builds the intellectual capital of major partner U.S. cooperatives and cooperative development organizations and has led to notable achievements, including new research on cooperative law and regulation, the development of tools to measure cooperative development, and the creation of a Comprehensive Guide for Rural Electric Cooperative Development. Though modest in budget, the CDP enables partners to address critical challenges to cooperative development, to develop and test solutions and, where successful, to incorporate these solutions in their broader programs, creating substantial impact and a significant multiplier effect.

The Small Project Assistance Program (SPA) / Peace Corps is a joint collaboration with the Peace Corps through which volunteers support USAID development efforts, helping to implement small self-help activities to support community-level development projects in sectors ranging from health to agriculture to small-enterprise development. SPA-sponsored projects focus on developing local community groups, including local associations, government entities, schools, and NGOs.

Volunteers also work with NGOs to improve services to surrounding communities. Participants learn key development skills that encompass program design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation, integrated planning, and service delivery.

The Limited Excess Property Program (LEPP) enables USAID-registered PVOs to access government excess property for use in their overseas development programs. LEPP partners are able to obtain property, such as hospital beds, vehicles and computers, through access to the U.S. General Services Administration's and the Defense Logistics Agency's Disposition Services' excess property programs.

LEVERAGING PRIVATE RESOURCES FOR DEVELOPMENT

PVOs and local NGOs help USAID support local capacities to address local needs, bringing additional resources to bear and facilitating sustainable development worldwide. By enlisting the PVO community's expertise and program delivery capacities, USAID is better able to direct humanitarian relief and development assistance to areas of need. As the data presented in this report indicate, the privately generated resources that PVOs spend on international development activities far exceed the resources they receive from USAID or the U.S. Government.

During fiscal year 2010, U.S. PVOs registered with USAID received $20.9 billion in support from non-U.S. Government and private sources, over six times the $3.3 billion that USAID channeled to USAID-registered PVOs. Other U.S. Government agencies and international organizations provided an additional $3.6 billion, bringing the total private and public support and revenue for registered U.S. PVOs to $27.8 billion.

USAID also provided more than $239 million to registered international PVOs in 2010, augmenting their $3.6 billion in direct spending on international relief and development activities. Meanwhile, U.S. CDOs received $316 million from USAID during 2010, as well as $293 million from other sources, to support their efforts to build and strengthen cooperative organizations overseas.

DOING BUSINESS WITH USAID

To implement its worldwide humanitarian and development activities, USAID uses a number of acquisition and assistance instruments, including contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, and purchase orders. USAID negotiates and initiates these instruments to obtain the commodities and technical assistance the Agency requires to achieve its objectives. Organizations seeking to work with USAID will find useful policy and business information at the following Web sites:

www.usaid.gov/who-we-are/agency-policy/

The Automated Directives System (ADS): details USAID's policies and procedures. (See Chapter 303 – Grants and Cooperative Agreements.)

www.usaid.gov/work-usaid/get-grant-or-contract/

Business Opportunities: provides descriptions of grant and contract processes, information on grant programs, and links to other acquisition and assistance resources, including forecasts of upcoming procurement opportunities with offices in Washington and overseas.

pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/

Registry of Private Voluntary Organizations: provides detailed information on PVOs currently registered with USAID via a searchable database.

idea.usaid.gov/organization/ls/

Local Sustainability Division: provides an overview of the Division, which manages the Agency's registration policy, the PVO registration process, and various grant programs.

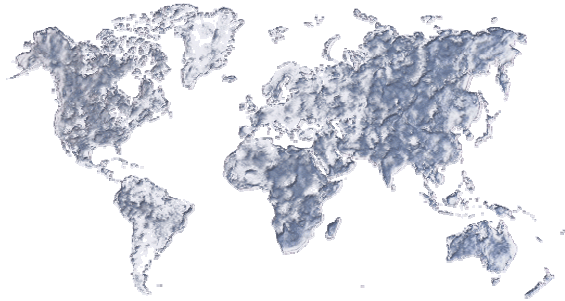

idea.usaid.gov/ls/pvo/

PVO Registration: provides information on USAID's PVO registration process, including the Conditions of Registration, a description of the information and documentation required to complete an application for registration, and a link to the registration site.

The VolAg Report is the culmination of the annual effort by the Office of Innovation and Development Alliances' Local Sustainability Division staff to collect, validate, and disseminate a clear, factual report that helps inform the Congress, Agency staff, partner organizations, and the general public about the activities of the PVO community. We hope you find it a useful resource.

UNITED STATES

PRIVATE VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS

REGISTRY

The rules governing the registration of nongovernmental, nonprofit agencies engaged in voluntary foreign aid are promulgated in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The U.S. PVO Registry consists of the following agencies.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID-registered organizations.

100X DEVELOPMENT FOUNDATION

Ms. Terri Hasdorff, VP
7020 Fain Park Drive, Suite 5
Montgomery, AL 36117
TEL: (202) 509-6005
EMAIL: info@100xdevelopment.com

Combines the groundbreaking work of making the rural poor landowners with holistic community development in four countries in Central America and in Mexico. Through Agros International's development model of training, community organizing, enterprise development, and land ownership, families become landowners and move from subsistence farming to producing as many as three harvests annually. Under the Agros model, every family gains housing and clean water and every child has access to primary education. In 2010, ninety-nine percent of loans provided through the organization's women's microcredit project were repaid on time.

AID TO ARTISANS, INC. ATA

Provides practical, market-oriented support to artisans worldwide. ATA works in partnership to strengthen artisans' business skills, helping them create sustainable livelihoods through the sale of their crafts and, thereby, preserving their rich traditions and cultures. For 35 years, ATA has been active in more than 110 countries, building sustainable artisan enterprises through its empowering programs in business- and production-skills training, design and product development, and marketing. ATA seeks, first, to attract a broader interest in crafts as a driver of economic growth and, second, to capture a larger share of local, regional, and global markets for artisan goods.

AIR SERV INTERNATIONAL, INC. ASI

Uses aircraft to fly relief workers and supplies to help the victims of disasters and suffering people in some of the most desperate situations around the world. ASI flies where other air carriers cannot—or will not—fly. ASI provides safe, reliable, and cost-effective air transportation to fellow humanitarian relief and development agencies working primarily in remote, transportation-deficient regions of the world. ASI's pilots fly small yet agile single- and twin-engine airplanes, carrying relief workers into stricken areas of Africa and Asia. ASI's operations impart a multiplier effect on donor dollars, as the organizations receiving transport share the costs. These organizations are then able to concentrate on their areas of expertise, leaving the logistics to the experts at ASI.

Partners with grassroots organizations to deliver effective development aid in a number of countries across sub-Saharan Africa. BWA's efforts focus on health care, education, orphan care, and vocational training, and the organization seeks to bring these services to Africans who would not otherwise have access to them. BWA aims for decentralized decision making, so that organizations with the greatest sense of the needs of the local population have the ability to deliver aid to meet those needs. This goal, however, is not pursued at the expense of overall accountability. BWA also seeks to improve the long-term financial viability of its service-delivery partners, with the goal of eventually phasing out BWA support.

Helps ensure that children affected by HIV/AIDS have the opportunity to live their lives in fullness and dignity.

The Children's Place Association helps families meet their children's physical, psychological, and cognitive developmental needs. This approach is based on the philosophy that child development occurs optimally in the presence of loving and nurturing adults. The Children's Place Association launched the Northern Haiti Family Support Project in January 2008. The project is assisting 442 HIV/AIDS-affected children in Gonaives, Limonade, L'Esther, and Cap Haitien. The organization also provides technical assistance to local partners in Guyana and Botswana.

Assists rural Nicaraguan communities to improve their living standards through sustainable development in clean water, sanitation, reforestation, and health education. More than two-thirds of Nicaragua's rural communities lack access to clean drinking water. Globally, 1.8 million children die annually because of illnesses linked to consumption of polluted water. Women and girls shoulder the burden of collecting water for household needs, spending hours daily carrying 40-pound buckets of water for miles. Access to clean drinking water dramatically improves family living standards, reducing disease and child mortality, freeing girls' and women's time, and improving school attendance and performance.

Creates customized communication strategies and outreach solutions that address critical challenges affecting people in the developing world in the areas of youth life-skills and livelihoods, women's and girls' empowerment, health, democracy and governance, and human rights. By designing and producing compelling local-language audio and multimedia programs in-country, Equal Access International educates and catalyzes behavior change in target audiences. The organization also analyzes local infrastructure and uses a range of technologies to develop the best dissemination strategy—satellite broadcasting, AM/FM/TV broadcasts, SMS/mobile, IVR (interactive voice response), street theater, community outreach, or a combination of methods. Partnering with international agencies and nongovernmental and community-based organizations, Equal Access has large-scale programs in Afghanistan, Cambodia, Chad, Niger, Nepal, Pakistan, and Yemen and project activities in Indonesia and Laos.

Alleviates hunger in some of the world's poorest communities by providing resources to empower people to feed themselves. FRB does not ship grain or food overseas; instead, the organization offers people dignity by giving them a hand up instead of a handout, thus breaking the cycle of dependency. As a Christian, nongovernmental, humanitarian organization, FRB is committed to providing sustainable food security in the developing world through small-scale agricultural interventions. Programs focus on education and the introduction of no-till alternatives, conservation, improved seeds and livestock, market access, water reclamation, food storage, and other techniques that allow people to feed their families, send their children to school, and improve the quality of life at home and in their communities. The organization's strategic goal is to engage the grassroots U.S. agricultural community in efforts to solve the problem of hunger worldwide.

Conducts both manual and mechanical demining and has more than 8,000 deminers and 155 heavy mechanical clearance devices at work. The Hazardous Area Life-Support Organization (HALO) Trust is the world's oldest and largest humanitarian mine-clearance organization. HALO USA has a strong ethos of local capacity development and on average employs only one international staff member for every 150 national staff members. The organization is constantly seeking new ways to develop faster and safer ways to clear landmines and has been successful at adapting proven technology for mine clearance. HALO USA works in Abkhazia, Afghanistan, Angola, Cambodia, Colombia, Georgia, Mozambique, Nagorno-Karabakh, Somaliland, and Sri Lanka. HALO USA also operates a Weapons and Ammunition Disposal Program to support the disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration process in Afghanistan and Angola.

Works to improve the living conditions of people living in disabling situations in post-conflict or developing countries around the world. HI's eight international sections based in Canada, Europe, and the United States support a total of 4,200 field staff. HI partners with local stakeholders in 60 countries to respond to humanitarian emergencies, prevent and treat disabling conditions, fight to eliminate landmines and cluster munitions, and press for the universal recognition of the rights of the disabled through national planning and advocacy. The organization utilizes local resources to work with local partners with whom it shares knowledge and builds systems to prevent disability, treat those in need, and advocate for inclusive development.

Reduces water-related illness and death in developing countries by building self-sustaining projects that make safe drinking water accessible to the poor and empowers local churches to bring physical, social, and spiritual healing to their communities. The communities targeted by HWI are often overlooked for aid because they have municipal water systems in place. Unfortunately, many of these systems deliver contaminated water, and commercially bottled water is a luxury the poor cannot afford. Attributes of HWI's water programs include the following: (1) water treatment technology; (2) health and hygiene education; and (3) a basic business model to ensure sustainable water system operations.

Promotes and develops the use of socially equitable and environmentally sustainable transportation projects worldwide. ITDP focuses on working with municipalities and nongovernmental organizations in developing countries to implement projects that demonstrate how transport emissions and accidents can be reduced, or how the basic mobility of the poor can be improved. ITDP's primary programs focus on building bus-rapid-transit systems, promoting bicycling and walking, managing traffic demand, and revitalizing city centers. Projects build local knowledge and skills while generating greater public awareness of viable sustainable transport solutions. ITDP prioritizes its involvement in projects based on the level of demonstrated local commitment to successful implementation, the availability of financial resources, and the potential benefits of the project, including the degree to which the project will demonstrate solutions to others.

Promotes quality journalism worldwide in the belief that independent, vigorous media are crucial in improving the human condition. ICFJ's work around the world—i.e., providing journalistic, media management, and technical expertise as well as information and support services—is critical to the development of effective, independent media organizations that are ethically grounded and financially stable. ICFJ also assists U.S. media organizations in providing better coverage of international issues that are too often ignored, from the global economy to immigration, and in fostering better connections among U.S. journalists and their counterparts abroad. Training for ethnic and non-English-language reporters in the United States has become a strong focus for ICFJ, given the growing influence of these journalists. ICFJ offers fellowships, facilitates exchanges, provides a range of consulting services, and has conducted training programs for some 70,000 journalists in 180 countries.

Improves the lives of the rural poor in developing nations through agricultural and economic development. IDE's guiding principle is that the rural poor are natural entrepreneurs who, if given the opportunity, will invest their limited resources to ensure their families' food supply and generate income. IDE empowers rural farmers to pull themselves out of poverty by making available quality inputs, training, affordable technologies, capital, and access to markets. Simple, low-cost water technologies increase income generation by allowing farmers to cultivate high-value, labor-intensive crops. These technologies have enabled families to become more efficient agricultural producers, generally doubling their net annual income in the first year. IDE's efforts have helped some 17 million people escape poverty.

Alleviates human suffering by deploying volunteer specialists and delivering medicines and supplies in support of its four core activities: domestic and international disaster relief, medical training, surgical outreach, and health promotion and disease prevention. IRT medical relief teams augment local health care professionals during natural disasters and other crises. Medical training teams train local instructors in emergency medicine and obstetrical and neonatal care. IRT surgical teams perform surgery in remote, impoverished areas where specialists do not practice.

IRT construction teams repair homes damaged by natural disasters and build clean water and sanitation facilities. Rather than establish field offices, IRT works in partnership with local nongovernmental organizations to build their capacities. IRT has provided assistance to more than 59 countries during its 23-year history.

Helps orphaned and abandoned children find permanent families and long-term mentoring relationships with adults. Kidsave International's Malenkaya Mama (Little Mother) program in St. Petersburg, Russia, teaches teenage mothers and pregnant teens to care for their babies. The program has been expanded to Moscow. Kidsave's family visit programs in Russia (Smolensk, Yaroslavl, and Sakhalin Island) are now operated by local nongovernmental organizations and government agencies. In Colombia, Kidsave's Encuentros Milagrosos and Project of Life programs were developed in cooperation with Colombia's national child welfare agency. The Encuentros Milagrosos program helps older orphans find permanent families and long-term mentors; Project of Life helps them develop life skills. Kidsave's Summer Miracles program helps older orphaned children from Colombia find permanent families in the United States. The organization's most recently initiated project arranges permanent family care for orphans in Sierra Leone.

Restores and protects water-dependent ecosystems and the services they provide to sustain and enrich human life. NHI is a California nonprofit public interest and conservation advocacy organization founded in 1989. NHI works in watersheds worldwide that have been significantly altered and where intact aquatic systems of exceptional ecological value are subject to imminent development pressure. NHI helps to show how changing water management policies to optimize water usage can lead to beneficial impacts, as measured in both economic value and in healthy conditions, for all a watershed's inhabitants. NHI works with an array of governmental and nongovernmental partners and provides expertise through five major practice areas: (1) public policy research and advocacy; (2) scientific research, technical investigations, and predictive modeling; (3) legal and litigation services; (4) community education and organizing; and (5) restoration planning and implementation.

Provides a preferential health care option for the poor. By establishing long-term relationships with sister organizations based in settings of poverty, PIH strives to achieve two overarching goals: bring the benefits of modern medical science to those most in need of them and serve as an antidote to despair. PIH draws on the resources of the world's leading medical and academic institutions and on the lived experience of the world's poorest and sickest communities. PIH's mission is both medical and moral; it is based on solidarity rather than charity alone. When the organization's patients are ill and have no access to care, PIH's team of health professionals, scholars, and activists will do whatever it takes to make them well.

Raises funds in the United States and directs these funds to registered nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) in Malawi and Sierra Leone (separate entities also named Project Peanut Butter). These NGOs produce a peanut butter-based Ready-To-Use Therapeutic Food (RUTF), which is used to treat severely malnourished children. The RUTF is used at the NGOs' feeding sites or sold at cost to other NGOs. The project has fed 60,000 children since 2001, with successful rehabilitation outcomes exceeding 87 percent. The project's approach to treating malnutrition has been recognized as successful by the United Nations Standing Committee on Nutrition, the World Health Organization, and the World Food Program. In addition, PPB has partnered with a program in the Philippines to provide nutrition support to tuberculosis patients.

Designs, produces, and distributes pediatric wheelchairs and other rehabilitation devices for disabled children in developing countries. These wheelchairs are made available at little or no cost to disabled children because of charitable contributions. It is estimated that 20 million people in developing countries require wheelchairs for mobility. Approximately 6.7 million of these people are children. Few children have a wheelchair, and even fewer have one that is fit to their needs. ROC Wheels develops wheelchairs for children up to age 15 regardless of their level of disability. The organization realizes that providing the right wheelchair will help each person gain his or her independence, interact with peers, and become a more active member of the community. The organization's ultimate goal is to help people help themselves.

Helps young people from regions of conflict develop the leadership skills and interpersonal networks necessary to advance reconciliation and coexistence. Founded in 1993 by award-winning author and journalist John Wallach, SOP was established on the belief that, if given the opportunity, young people will choose coexistence over conflict and hope over fear. SOP seeks to humanize the conflict, provide conflict resolution and leadership training, facilitate open dialogue, and create a network of young leaders who will become a core constituency for peace. Every summer, SOP brings together young people—American, Israeli, Palestinian, Egyptian, Jordanian, Indian, Pakistani, and Afghan—with demonstrated leadership potential to its International Camp in Maine, with the goal of dispelling fear, hatred, and misunderstanding and fostering a new generation of leadership. Camp activities are followed up with year-round programming overseas and an adult educator program.

Equips leaders to mobilize communities to care for their own children with their own resources. VCI promotes community involvement and ownership, recognizing that communities that run programs are more likely to own and sustain them over time. VCI also promotes indigenous leadership and reliance on community resources. These core principles create program standards that are not likely to create dependence on Western aid. The organization serves individuals from a number of faith traditions and seeks to enlist members and leaders of various faiths as volunteers. VCI chapters initiate development programming with the outcomes they want for their orphans and vulnerable children clearly defined. The organization evaluates program success by assessing the quality of outcomes achieved rather than the quantity of services provided.

Fights against hunger and defends the fundamental rights of populations in difficulty. Born in the context of the Afghan crisis and emergency response for Afghan refugees who fled to Pakistan in 1979, ACF, a humanitarian, voluntary, and professional nongovernmental organization, was created by a group of French intellectuals. ACF's mission is to intervene in the field to save lives and preserve and restore food security for populations. Working in conjunction with the people it serves, ACF provides the material and human resources necessary to address needs, relieve human suffering, and safeguard human dignity. ACF contributes to the protection of populations by taking action and testifying.

Fights poverty worldwide. Formed in 1972, ActionAid is an international development agency that last year helped more than 13 million of the world's poorest people in more than 40 countries. ActionAid is owned by national affiliates working with partners in Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. In December 2003, the organization established a secretariat in Johannesburg, South Africa. ActionAid works with local partners, helping poor women and men gain their rights to food, education, human security, just and democratic governance, and health care. The organization's 350,000 supporters share its commitment, providing 70 percent of its income. ActionAid's partners range from small community groups to international networks, and its national and international campaigns highlight issues that affect poor people and influence the way that governments and international institutions work.

Builds healthy and sustainable communities in Africa. For more than 25 years, CPAR has been targeting some of the most vulnerable rural areas of Ethiopia, Malawi, Tanzania, and northern Uganda with important interventions related to food security, water and sanitation, and access to primary health services. CPAR's work is guided by the underlying belief that everything is connected: specifically, that health is determined not only by the existence of health care services but also by social, economic, and environmental factors. Therefore, CPAR's work not only involves direct health interventions—ensuring a continuum of care between clinic and community—but also addresses the determinants of health, which include access to clean water, adequate food, and a safe and healthy environment. All CPAR projects are designed to be sustainable, ensuring that benefits continue to accrue long after CPAR's direct involvement.

Provides humanitarian and development assistance in 14 countries around the world. Founded in 1995, ACH belongs to the international Action Contre La Faim network, created by a group of journalists and intellectuals in Paris in 1979 and comprising ACF USA, ACF UK, ACF Canada, and ACF France. ACH relies on the skills of more than 900 professionals, including specialists in the fields of nutrition, agriculture, water and sanitation, and public health, to develop programs that are adapted to the needs of the people it serves. ACH's prime objectives are to assist the world's most vulnerable people and to sensitize people in industrialized countries about the scale of hunger in the world. The organization's ultimate goal is to enable needy people to regain autonomy and self-sufficiency as quickly as possible.

Supports projects that provide fortified foods to large populations—through market channels where feasible and through public-sector delivery systems when markets fail. GAIN is a Swiss foundation that mobilizes public-private partnerships and provides financial and technical support to deliver nutritious foods to people most at risk of malnutrition. The organization was created in 2002 at a Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly on Children. GAIN is delivering improved nutrition to an estimated 273 million people, half of whom are women and children, in more than 25 countries. GAIN's Business Alliance unites food producers and is a global focal point for private-sector strategies against undernutrition in Africa, Asia, and Latin America and the Caribbean. More nutritious food improves individual productivity and helps reduce poverty.

Assists divided and conflicted societies to build lasting peace. Interpeace, an international peace-building organization based in Switzerland, was created as a U.N. pilot project, the War-torn Societies Project, in 1994. Interpeace became an independent nongovernmental organization (NGO) in 2000 and remains a close partner of the United Nations. The organization can implement Interpeace-style programming through the United Nations via the Joint Programme Unit for UN/Interpeace Initiatives or as an NGO. The organization's success is based on its belief in local ownership and local capacities. Interpeace works with carefully formed local teams that engage all sectors of a society to identify major challenges, develop consensus-driven solutions, and strengthen the capacity to manage conflict in nonviolent ways. Currently, Interpeace has programs in Africa, Central America, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia.

Promotes youth innovation to drive positive change. As a leading global youth-development organization, YCI designs programs to meet the needs of youths affected by poverty in four integrated sectors: livelihoods, health, leadership, and the environment. Building on more than 20 years of experience, YCI engages young people in creating solutions to the challenges they face, incorporating youth development, volunteerism, partnership, and equity into all that it does.

REGISTRY

CDOs as part of the larger PVO community will be listed in the U.S. PVO Registry. In order to be listed in the Registry as a CDO, the CDO must comply with the annual documentation requirements in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The following CDOs are included in the U.S. PVO Registry.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID-registered organizations.

ACDI/VOCA

Mr. Carl Leonard, President and CEO

50 F Street NW, Suite 1075
Washington, DC 20001
TEL: (202) 469-6200
FAX: (202) 469-6257
EMAIL: mrenaud@acdivoa.org

Fosters broad-based economic growth, raises living standards, and creates vibrant communities. ACDI/VOCA's technical and management assistance enables organizations—whether enterprises, financial institutions, or cooperatives—to manage and finance themselves and succeed in the global economy. Areas of expertise include food security, agribusiness, enterprise development, financial services, and community development. Long known for its work in the areas of agricultural development and food security, ACDI/VOCA has gained prominence for value chain approaches to enterprise development and poverty reduction, establishment of sustainable financial institutions, and participatory community strengthening, especially in conflict-affected areas. ACDI/VOCA implements 98 projects in 40 countries on behalf of public, private, and multilateral funders.

CHF INTERNATIONAL

Mr. David A. Weiss, CEO

Stimulates long-lasting positive change in low- and moderate-income communities around the world, helping them to improve their social, economic, and environmental conditions. Using a participatory, demand-driven approach, CHF International has worked in 115 countries since 1952, providing innovative development assistance that promotes local economic development and fosters grassroots community participation. Using businesslike approaches and democratic principles, CHF helps bolster the capacity of microenterprises, governments, cooperatives, and nongovernmental organizations to tackle social, environmental, and infrastructural issues on their own, while strengthening community participation and cohesion. CHF applies these principles effectively in many contexts, such as post-conflict emergency recovery and reconstruction, natural disaster response, mitigation of the HIV/AIDS pandemic, and focused assistance for low-income artisans.

ICMIF/AMERICAS

Mr. Edward Potter, Executive Director

8400 Westpark Drive, 2nd Floor
McLean, VA 22102-5116

Provides support and assistance to member-owned cooperative and mutual insurance companies that provide risk-mitigation and financial protection services to underserved low-income populations in Latin America and the Caribbean. By forming cooperative and mutual insurance companies through credit unions, cooperatives, labor unions, and farmers groups, ICMIF/Americas members create a sustainable and highly effective way to develop appropriate insurance products for the personal and business risks of low-income people.

NATIONAL COOPERATIVE BUSINESS ASSOCIATION NCBA

Mr. Paul Hazen, President and CEO

1401 New York Avenue NW, Suite 1100
Washington, DC 20005-2160
TEL: (202) 638-6222
FAX: (202) 638-1374
EMAIL: ncba@ncba.coop
WEB: www.ncba.coop

Provides technical assistance and training for the development of cooperatives, member-owned businesses, small enterprises, and microenterprises at the grassroots level, primarily in rural areas. Known overseas as the Cooperative League of the USA, the organization seeks to alleviate poverty through economic empowerment, democracy building, improved business skills, access to financing and information, and a cooperative approach to gain and protect market access for the rural poor. Recently, NCBA has applied its approach to community-managed health and sustainable natural resource use as well as to strengthening local organizations and local governments to support cooperative economic development.

NATIONAL RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION NRECA

Mr. Glenn English, Jr., CEO

4301 Wilson Boulevard
Arlington, VA 22203-1860
TEL: (703) 907-5605
FAX: (703) 907-5512
EMAIL: norma.hiller@nreca.coop
WEB: www.nreca.org

Designs and implements efficient and financially sustainable rural electrification systems worldwide and promotes the consumer-owned electric utility model to ensure electric service is responsive to local needs. NRECA draws on conventional and nonconventional technologies, develops low-cost design adaptations, and uses renewable energy resources where appropriate. Other services NRECA provides include developing national rural electrification plans and training local electric utility employees in electric utility management, accounting, engineering, operations, and maintenance. NRECA maintains offices in 6 countries and currently has projects in 14 countries. Domestic NRECA member cooperatives generate, transmit, and distribute electricity to more than 42 million consumers in the United States.

WORLD COUNCIL OF CREDIT UNIONS, INC.

ON FRONT COVER

A worker surveys a USAID-funded housing site near the Caracol Industrial Park in northern Haiti on Nov. 10, 2011. USAID Photo by Kendra Helmer, 2011.

ON BACK COVER

This photo tied for second place in the USAID/FrontLines 50th anniversary photo contest. Local community members from outside of Dalanzadgad, Mongolia, often travel into town to join in USAID's entrepreneurial activities, including craft and furniture production, which results in skills building and economic strengthening. Camels are the preferred mode of travel into the local villages because they are able to carry many items, helping to ease the travel burden into Dalanzadgad. USAID Photo by James Orlando, 2007.
