Ederle celebrates Independence Day

USAG Vicenza Family & MWR

Caserma Ederle celebrates American Independence Day this year July 3-4 with several celebrations, hosted by USAG Vicenza's Directorate of Family, Morale, Welfare and Recreation.

The activities will take place along Olson Avenue at the sports and fitness field and in front of the Ederle Inn.

"This year's festivities begin July 3 at 4 p.m. for ID cardholders and at 6 p.m. for our Italian neighbors and will continue until 10 p.m.," said Peggy Schadler, Vicenza's chief of Family and MWR Marketing.

July 3 events include:

Transformations with balloons, break dancing, hip hop, the Michael Jackson Ballerinas, Tango Band Rica Suerte, classic rock band Drop Simpler. Wandering street entertainers include face portraits, face painters, balloon creations, clay creation, Clown Piero and portraits.

The evening ends with a fire breather show from 9-10 p.m. on Olson Avenue.

Family fun will continue July 4 for ID cardholders from 4-6 p.m. and Italian guests are welcome from 6 p.m. until midnight.

July 4 events include:

A Robin Hood fashion parade throughout the fest area with a fashion show at 4:30 p.m. on Olson Ave. At 5:30, catch the Queen of Flowers magic show on the main

PARKING PLAN

The following areas will be closed for the 2010 festivities:

From Monday-July 4, 9th Street in its entirety, including the theater parking lot, will be closed. A portion of the theater parking lot will reopen following the Sober Safety event.

From Monday-July 4, Olsen Avenue will be closed from Pino's and the post office to the Ederle Inn. Note: Pino's coffee shop will be closed during the event.

See Page 3 for the full parking plan.

Calling all runners:

Runners take part in the 2009 Army Europe 10-Miler at Grafenwoehr, Germany. This year, officials are hoping more participants will enter Grafenwoehr's July 10 qualification race that will determine which Soldiers will compete in the Oct. 24 Army 10-Miler in Washington, D.C. The top 12 active-duty Soldiers (six each in the men and women's divisions) will be nominated to represent USAREUR in the annual D.C. run. To be considered, male competitors must finish under 68 minutes; female runners must finish at 86 minutes or better. For more information, see Page 8 or call DSN 379-766, CIV (49) 06202-80-7667.

Got an Italian bank account? You may have one more tax form to file

By KEITH BRACEY
Client Services Chief USARAF

The tax season may be over for 2009, but some taxpayers may still have one important form to file with the Department of the Treasury.

Taxpayers who have a financial interest in or signature authority over any foreign financial accounts, including bank, securities, or other types of accounts in a foreign country, must file a special eight-page form with the Treasury Department by Wednesday if the aggregate value of these accounts exceeded $10,000 at any time during 2009.

GFEBs briefing comes to Ederle, preps personnel for April launch of new web-based finance system

By ADRIANE FOSS
Outlook editor

The Army plans to launch a new financial management system next year in Europe.

Named the General Fund Enterprise Business System, or GFEBs, the web-based financial management and asset accounting system will deploy at Caserma Ederle in April.

The system is expected to transform the way the Army does business and will cover a broad range of activities including budgeting, funding, acquisitions, purchases, cost and asset management and financial analysis.

In a nutshell, what is expected to become one of the world's largest enterprise financial systems will integrate more than 80 percent of the financial and real property capabilities of the Army, explained Jennifer Gettelman, G-8 budget analyst with U.S. Army Africa.

And that's not to mention that GFEBs will eventually manage more than $140 billion in spending by the active Army, the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

"It's a really smart way of doing business that will give the Army a visibility, allowing us to see just how much we're getting for every dollar spent," said Gettelman, who is the GFEBs program manager. "Commanders and leaders at every level will be able to view the status of funding and the cost of operations."

Gettelman said GFEBs is an extremely

Army Family Action Plan: improving your life, one suggestion at a time

As the Assistant Chief of Staff for Installation Management, one of the most important duties I have is overseeing the Army Family Action Plan process.

The AFAP is the Army's grassroots effort in which members of the Army Community (Soldiers, Civilians, Families and Retirees) identify and elevate significant quality of life issues affecting the Army Community to senior leaders for action. The AFAP is also a key component of the Army Family Covenant because it gives commanders and other Army leaders' insight into needs and expectations of the Army Community.

Simply stated, AFAP is a voice for the Army Community to inform and partner with Army leaders to determine if we're doing the right things, whether we're doing things right and to find out what we're missing.

I want you and every member of the Army Community to know about AFAP, understand how it works and to become a partner in the process. The AFAP allows you to communicate with and receive feedback from the most senior military and civilian leaders of the Army and Department of Defense about issues important to the health and well-being of Soldiers, Civilians and Family Members.

How it works

Here's how it works: The AFAP is a year-round process that begins on installations where representatives of the community meet in forums to identify, develop and prioritize issues they believe are important to maintain a good standard of living for the Army Community. Approximately, 90 percent of the AFAP issues that emerge are resolved at the local level and result in ongoing community improvements.

However, some issues require support beyond the local level. Those issues are elevated to mid-level (Army command) AFAP conferences. Issues that require the attention of higher-level authorities go to the Headquarters Department of the Army AFAP Conference, where delegates from across the Army determine which issues will be worked by the Army Staff.

Following up

The AFAP General Officer Steering Committee, comprised of senior DoD officials, Army leaders and field representatives (commanders and command sergeants major), meets every six months to provide senior leader direction on action plans, milestones and resolution of AFAP issues.

In the six months since the last AFAP GOSC meeting, functional representatives from the DA staff and I have met for six AFAP sessions, reviewing 86 active AFAP issues. During those sessions we studied the history and latest developments for each issue, then decided on a recommended status (remain active, complete, or unattainable) to present to the AFAP GOSC for consideration.

After I present our recommendations to the GOSC on June 30, we will determine the next steps and status for each issue. The results from this GOSC, as well as previous GOSC meetings, are available on the new AFAP website.

The AFAP website is conveniently located in Army OneSource (www.myarmyonesource.com) to provide the Army Community with easy one-stop-shopping for Army information, including meeting results from the January GOSC and previous meetings.

The AFAP website has been improved by the addition of the Active Issue

Search Application. This new feature allows users to search the status of all issues using several filter options, such as keywords, issue status, service component, subject, demographic group, command and more.

The Army is dedicated to building awareness of AFAP across the Army and ensuring everyone has full access to AFAP recommendations and accomplishments and knows how to become a partner in the process.

As the ACSIM, I am committed to ensuring all AFAP recommendations are thoroughly analyzed to determine if they are realistically achievable based on factors such as Congressional support, cost and other factors. I am also committed to ensuring that the GOSC provides the Army Community with the results of our analysis and decisions as quickly as possible.

Proof positive

This is important work. Previous recommendations submitted through the AFAP process have had very positive and wide-reaching affects for the Army Community. For example:

- 2009 - Distribution of GI Bill benefits approved for dependents;
- 2008 Military annual leave carryover upped from 60 to 75 days;
- 2007 - Established toll-free Wounded in Action phone number; improved communication to Families.

As you can see, the AFAP has an excellent record of success. Some 117 AFAP recommendations have resulted in legislative changes; 162 resulted in Department of the Army policy changes; and 178 improved programs or services.

Current issues

But our work is not complete. The following is just a sample of the AFAP recommendations we will be working on at the next GOSC:

*AFAP Issue Recommendation #610. Establish a comprehensive integrated rehabilitative program for Traumatic Brain Injury patients at military Medical Centers of Excellence.

*AFAP Issue Recommendation #653. Fund a formal program to provide service dogs for Wounded Warriors.

*AFAP Issue Recommendation #658. Install visual monitoring systems for surveillance of hallways, common areas and parking lots, and require keyless entry and peep holes in barracks across the Army.

*AFAP Issue Recommendation #647. Require the availability of 24/7 child care for all age groups through Child, Youth and School Services delivery systems at all Army garrisons.

Now that you know more about this grassroots process that was created to enable the Army Community to collaborate with leaders, from the installation level to Congress, get involved! I encourage you to go to the AFAP website and view the status of the 86 active issues. I also challenge you to become a partner with us in our continuing effort to improve our Army by contacting your garrison AFAP Program Manager within Army Community Service and becoming a volunteer, participating in an AFAP forum, or submitting an AFAP issue.

Your contributions to the AFAP provide real-time information that enable commanders to respond more rapidly to resolve problems, implement good ideas, guide policy formation, and enhance Soldier, Civilian and Family well-being and installation readiness.

large system with a steep learning curve, but once it is completely operational, it is going to transform our business processes and improve the accountability of our resources.

"That's why it's so important for the people in each directorate who have been identified to attend next week's briefings to be there and ready to learn," she said.

A GFEBs team from Kingstowne, Va., will brief identified personnel on the new system Wednesday and July 1 at the post movie theater (see schedule below).

"We are excited that Vicenza was chosen as one of the European site visit locations. The most important element of the visit will be the supervisor-user assignment working session July 1 from 1-5 p.m.," said Gettelman.

"This workshop will address each end-user roles and how they will function in the new GFEBs environment," she said.

End user roles determine the future GFEBs computer-based training curriculum and instructor-led training classes that will be held in the January-March timeframe.

"This is really the starting point for our training program," said Gettelman, "so that we're prepared to go live next year."

File Form TDF 90-22.1 before Wednesday

Form TDF 90-22.1 is not a new form. It has been around for years. It is not a tax form, and is not supposed to be included with your income tax return. Instead, you must send it separately to the U.S. Department of the Treasury, P.O. Box 32621, Detroit, MI 48232-0621. The Wednesday deadline cannot be extended.

The form helps the Treasury Department keep tabs on money laundering and related activities, and there are criminal penalties for failure to file this form. The IRS has indicated it intends to start cracking down on taxpayers who fail to file this form.

Accounts in military banking facilities such as Community Bank or one of the various credit unions that serve the military community overseas are not considered foreign bank accounts for the purposes of filing this form.

However, many members of the military community maintain bank accounts on the Italian economy (e.g., BNL accounts) that they use for paying bills or their mortgages. Considering that the average exchange rate for calendar year 2009 was 0.719 Euros to the U.S. dollar, if you had more than 7,190 Euros in such an account (or accounts) at any time in 2009, you need to file this form.

U.S. citizens and resident aliens must file the form. So must those who filed a joint return with a non-resident alien spouse. By filing a joint return, you are electing to treat your spouse as if they were a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes, whether or not they currently hold a green card. If you have a foreign spouse with a sizable foreign bank account or investments and you filed a joint tax return, you should take a good look at the instructions to Form TDF 90-22.1 to determine if you must file the form.

Form TDF 90-22.1 can be downloaded from the IRS website at <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f90221.pdf>.

For more information, call the Vicenza Legal Assistance Office at 634-7041 or CIV 0444-71-7041.

Laser light show wraps up Fourth of July celebrations

At 6:30 p.m. a marching band will play throughout the fest area. Enjoy hip hop and country dancers beginning at 7 p.m. The rock band Soul Direction will perform a set at 9:15 p.m. and again following the 10:30 p.m. laser light show.

Enjoy AFN the Eagle music in between sets of live entertainment on both days. Families can also enjoy the ongoing street events including children's carnival rides, merry-go-round, mini rodeo, flying swings, bumper cars and inflatable slides. The dunk tank and Car Bash will be operated by B.O.S.S.

Italian guests are invited to enter through Gate 5 near the health clinic on Via Corbetta.

Italian guests who are signed on by ID cardholders will be required to enter Gate 1 on Via Aldo Moro.

Sponsors must remain with their guests at all times. Alcohol, glass bottles, roller skates, skateboards, Heelies, bicycles, mopeds and pets will not be allowed in the festival area.

"This year, the hot food will be provided by Fiera di Grisignano," said Schadler. "The American menu will include hamburgers, hot dogs, bratwursts, French fries and sodas."

Private organizations on post will provide ice cream, popcorn, cotton candy, lemonade and sweet tea, Texas Chili, chips and cheese, baked goods and snow cones. New this year are LED flashing light items, red/blue pompoms, heart sunglasses, rainbow masks, chaser necklaces, lapel pins, body lights and more. Purchases can be made in euro or dollars.

Ederle Inn patrons will park in the parking lot in front of the library only with a pass from the Ederle Inn.

Health clinic patrons should park on 8th Street or other open areas on the installation.

MPs will not enforce two-hour parking areas on the days of the event.

The following areas will be closed for the Salute to the Nation, Tuesday-July 2:

Parking areas on both ends and down both sides of Hoekstra field will be closed. The parking lot next to AFN and 4th Street (in front of the dining facility) will remain open.

"The military police know this will cause some inconvenience to the community," said Deputy DES Director Adeal Frater, "but we request again, like in previous years, the community bear with us to make this another successful and safe event for our community and Italian guests."

Removal of the construction fence opens up most of the new parking around the new health center to the community, an immediate gain of over 210 parking spaces. Parking will be blocked off along 9th street north (the side opposite the existing clinic) on the first day to complete the remainder of the EHSC parking lot. The parking lot is slated for completion by mid August, resulting in an additional 70 spaces for a total of 280 parking spaces around the new clinic.

Employee retires ... for third time

CHIARA MATTIROLI

USAG Livorno Public Affairs

The third time's a charm ... for Patrick Dorsey.

Dorsey, who was recognized for 50 years of service during a May 20 ceremony at the Camp Darby Community Club, will retire for the third time later this month.

"I came to Camp Darby the first time when I was 19, soon after I joined the Army in 1958," he said. "I spent five years at Darby and I married my Italian wife while I was assigned here."

Dorsey retired from the Army after 28 years of service as a Chief Warrant Officer 4. After retiring from active duty, he returned to Livorno with his family and worked with the 201st Material Management Command as an Army civilian.

"I was a Department of the Army Civilian for 11 years then, upon the drawdown at the 201st I was supposed to go back to the States," said Dorsey. "Since I did not feel like moving again, I decided to retire and to remain in this much loved area."

Dorsey is now a Nonappropriated Fund employee at the Casa Toscana Army Lodging reception desk, where he has been taking care of lodging guests for the last decade.

He said he's ready to hang up his work uniform and name badge one final time.

"This time all I want to do is to become a beach fan and spend my days laying in the sand and relaxing," said Dorsey. "On the other hand, I can't go back to Arizona, there is no beach there."

Dorsey has spent most of his life at Camp Darby and seen many changes take place at the installation.

"The worst thing that happened to Camp Darby was the drawdown. I saw many things changing after that period," he said.

He shared his memories of the installation's old Riviera Club, once located where the Youth Services building sits. He said the single Soldiers club was very active until the 70's.

"I also have great memories of the commanders' calls. We used to meet every Friday at the community club to share some fun time with colleagues and commanders, building camaraderie and esprit de corps," he said. "We got more work done there than you do in the office."

Dorsey said that as a company they also supported an orphanage in Lucca, visiting and doing minor repairs or painting jobs for them two or three times every year.

"All these collateral activities helped us grow and build a friendship relation with our neighbors in Italy," said Dorsey.

Dorsey said Darby gave him a good retirement, a wonderful place to live and lastly his wife, who he met during his first assignment at Darby.

"I loved Darby with the good and the bad for 50 years," said Dorsey. "I am going to miss working here."

Fourth of July at Camp Darby

Story and photos by
JOYCE COSTELLO

USAG Livorno Public Affairs

Independence Day evokes favorite childhood memories of sitting on the beach at Hilton Head Island, Galveston, Corpus Christi and even Cleveland and watching fireworks burst into the sky and reflect on the ocean.

Those weekends were always spent eating barbecue, floating in the waves, collecting sea shells and building sand castles with new friends. It's a family tradition that the Costello clan keeps sacred.

July 4th is always celebrated at the beach with family and loved ones. It's a tradition I try to keep with my own daughter even though we are stationed overseas.

For the last three years we've gone to the American Beach in Tirrenia, just minutes away from Camp Darby. We rent an umbrella for the weekend and she tries to bury me under the sand, draws on the big graffiti coloring wall and chases after errant volleyballs during beach volleyball games.

Sure, she always wants me to buy the neon necklaces and fresh coconut from beach vendors, but at the end of the night when she hugs me tightly while gasping at the fireworks display, I know this is a family tradition she will love and cherish.

This year, we will again return to the American beach for Independence Day. She has already begged to bring some of her friends from school. What can I say- life at Camp Darby is good.

Find out for yourself.

Mako Sharks gear up for summer

By Lt. Col. JOHN J. CASEY III
Special to the Outlook

The Mako Sharks have announced their coaches for the 2010-2011 season.

Michelle Hughes was selected as the new head coach, and Cassie Benjamin will be the assistant head coach.

Hughes was an assistant coach for the Makos last year. She is a certified Level I coach with the USA Swimming Association. She has been coaching with USA Swim for three years.

Hughes is also a certified water safety instructor and has been lifeguarding for 13 years. She currently works with the Aquatics Center at Caserma Ederle.

Benjamin is new to the Ederle community, having arrived in January. She has seven years of coaching experience, including two community-age group swim teams and two high school swim teams.

She is also a certified water safety instructor and has been a certified lifeguard for 10 years.

"Hughes and Benjamin both bring an amazing amount of experience and enthusiasm to the team," said Ericka Jones, head of the coaching committee. "They both swam at the collegiate level and can help answer questions high school swimmers may have regarding the next level of competition."

This summer the Mako Sharks will partner with the Child, Youth, and School Services (CYSS) EDGE! Program and MWR Sports, Fitness and Aquatics to conduct a summer conditioning program.

EDGE! provides out-of-school opportunities for children ages 6-18 with participation in cutting-edge fitness programs. Swimmers must have completed American Red Cross swim Level 4 to participate. The program kicked off Monday and will continue through Aug. 26 with a community fun swim meet on Aug. 28.

The Mako Sharks fall swim meet schedule has been set and will allow swimmers an opportunity to swim in five different countries. For more information on the team, visit <http://makosharks.homestead.com/index.html>.

"The Mako Sharks are a private organization affiliated with the European Forces Swim League and depend on the generous donations of the Vicenza Community Club and local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8862," said Jones.

Panthers advance to the Italian Superbowl

By Maj. WILLIAM KOST
Special to the Outlook

After finishing the Italian Football League regular season with a 7-1 record and winning their playoff game in an exciting fashion, the Parma Panthers are returning to the IFL Superbowl.

They will play the Catania Elephants at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at Stadio Breda on Via XX Settembre in Sesto San Giovanni, Milan.

In their semifinal game against the Bolzano Giants, QB Joe Craddock's 58-yard touchdown scramble and a strong defensive stand with five minutes remaining sealed the 21-20 victory over the reigning IFL champions.

"The season has seen a youth movement in the IFL with traditional powers starting to lose their once dominating presence," said Panthers head coach Andrew Papoccia. "The league is a lot more competitive than in years past, and the playing level continues to grow.

"We were blessed to have a great group of talented young players join a solid group of veterans to form a truly special team," said Papoccia. "We emphasized the importance of getting better each week, and the players really bought into it. We now find ourselves... with a chance to bring the first-ever championship to the Parma Panthers organization."

The 7-1 Elephants were the only team to beat the Panthers in the IFL this year. They defeated the Bergamo Lions, 27-14, in the playoffs to earn their Superbowl berth.

Superbowl festivities kick off at 3:30 p.m. with the Under-13 and Under-15 Flag Football National Finals.

At 5:45 p.m., the regional cheerleading contest will be held.

Tickets can be purchased at the gate or online at www.greenticket.it. Entrance is 10 euro for men and 5 euro for women and children ages 11-16. Entrance for children 10 and younger is free.

Visit www.superbowl.it for play-by-play coverage or tune in to Italian TV stations RAI SPORT+ or ITALY SPORT.
