

Logistics Services Officer

When you work for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), new missions bring new challenges.

Learning and doing go hand-in-hand. Individuals make progress when teams succeed. And no two days are ever the same.

High-Performance Careers

Logistics Services Officers work in the nerve center of the Agency. Success here depends on fast, thorough support to all components of the CIA. Our Officers are motivated, bright and resourceful, with a desire to serve our country in a diverse, challenging environment.

The Role of a Logistics Services Officer

The CIA is one place where you'll never run out of things to do. If it comes or goes in or out of the CIA, you'll be a part of it. Your responsibilities make the acquisition and global transportation of materials possible. You'll manage construction projects, coordinate office moves, and provide complete on-site logistics support. Flexible performances in various parts of the supply chain call for problem-solving skills over multiple assignments. Your day-to-day life will reflect the skills you have, and will continue to build, as you perform both transactional and physical, hands-on work.

What It Takes to Be CIA

If you are a US citizen with a high school diploma, you may qualify for a position as a Logistics Services Officer. We favor candidates with relevant work experience in government, military, or the private sector in areas such as purchasing, transportation, processing, inventory management, vehicle management, facility services, and accountable property. A demonstrated record of excellent job performance and proven time management and organizational skills are a must in this demanding field.

All candidates are required to have a medical evaluation, polygraph interview, and extensive background investigation.

Your Logistics Career at the CIA

Your career with the CIA begins with a five-year, contract-term employment agreement. We offer a competitive and negotiable salary, based on qualifications and experience.

Extensive on-the-job and formal training opportunities exist. Most Logistics Services Officer positions are in the Washington, DC/Northern Virginia area.

Support for Critical Missions

You'll keep things moving at the CIA while your career makes progress, too. Expand your knowledge base and skills through diverse assignments and training, setting and achieving both personal and professional goals in the process. All in an environment where no two days will ever be the same.

The CIA is America's premier intelligence agency, and we are committed to building and maintaining a work force as diverse as the nation we serve.
