FACULTY LIBRARIAN LIAISONS

What is a Librarian Liaison? A Librarian Liaison is a professional librarian who has been designated to foster communication and collaboration between USAWC faculty and the Library. With this service, the librarian's expertise in research and information resources is partnered with faculty subject knowledge.

What are some of the services and benefits faculty can expect from their Liaisons?

- Assistance in the use of Library resources
- One-on-one consultations for research and special projects
- Mediated literature searching
- Notification of new materials and resources tailored to faculty's subject areas
- Customized instruction for individual students or seminar groups based on faculty recommendations
- Selected reading lists on specific topics
- Private refresher sessions on use of EZproxy article linking, subscription databases, and other electronic tools
- Group demonstrations and tutorials for department's support staff
- Library presence at departmental meetings and visits to offices and seminar rooms

What is the difference between Research Librarians and Librarian Liaisons? The three Research Librarians are always available to provide traditional Reference service for all faculty, staff, students, and other customers. However, faculty may also choose to connect directly with their own Liaisons to seek help, answer questions, or any of the other services listed above.

How do I find out more about the Librarian Liaison Program? If you have any questions please contact Mr. Bohdan Kohutiak, Library Director, at 245-3400 or atwc.alb@us.army.mil.
