94AW Chaplains Office introduces new members and more worship services

By Master Sgt. Angelita Colón-Francia
Public Affairs

Chaplain Lt. Col. William Ferrell, wing chaplain to the 94th Airlift Wing, wants Air Force members assigned to Dobbins Air Reserve Base to know that the Chaplains' Office has added new personnel and new worship services.

Capt. Doug Collins, chaplain, and Staff Sgt. Rodriguez Washington, chaplain assistant, joined the Chaplains' Office last fall, bringing the number of chaplains and chaplain assistants here to three respectively.

"Chaplain Collins and Staff Sgt. Washington are great assets," said Chaplain Ferrell. "I'm glad to have both of them on board."

Chaplain Ferrell said he is exploring options for offering a Catholic service for Airmen and is looking for a Catholic Lay Leader to assist in holding Catholic services during the UTA.

Currently the 94th AW Chaplains' Office offers three Protestant worship services on Sundays during unit training assemblies: 6 a.m. in Building 744; 7:30 a.m. in the Base Chapel; and 11:30 a.m. in the auditorium of Building 727. Details about when and where Catholic mass will be held will be coming soon.

Other religious services are offered at Naval Air Station Atlanta, including a 9 a.m. Catholic mass and a 10 a.m. Protestant service. Both are held at the Navy Chapel.

By offering more opportunities to worship closer to where Airmen work during the UTA, Chaplain Ferrell hopes more Airmen will be able to attend a service. He said he and his staff intend to increase their level of involvement with every Air Force squadron, unit and area assigned here and that there are plans to assign a chaplain and chaplain assistant to each.

"We want to make sure everyone knows their chaplain," Chaplain Ferrell said.

Chaplain Ferrell said that his office will work to accommodate unit requests for a special service to allow organizations to worship together when regular service times conflict with work or training.

He added that although right now all the 94th AWs chaplains are Protestant Christians, he and his staff will facilitate all other religions. Some of the many ways the Chaplains Office helps accommodate other religions are by putting Airmen in touch with area churches, synagogues and mosques or by providing a space for Airmen groups to meet on base; by providing faith-oriented literature; and by working with commanders to understand religious accommodations like providing kosher and pork-free meals, religious observations and religious holidays.

"We're here because the 94th (AW) is here," he said. "Our job, our responsibility is to facilitate every Airman's right to practice his or her faith."

Airmen can contact the 94th AW Chaplains Office at (678) 655-4955 with questions, requests for faith-oriented services or if they want to refer a qualified Catholic Lay Leader to direct Catholic services.

The United States Air Force Chaplain Service

While Air Force personnel serve around the world through chaplains and chaplain assistants serve alongside them, providing spiritual guidance and opportunities for Air Force members and their families to exercise their constitutional right to freedom of religion.

Chaplains are ordained clergy from diverse faiths and are commissioned officers. They conduct worship services, religious rites and pastoral counseling.

Chaplain assistants provide support to chaplains, not only through administrative means but also in ways that provide ministry to Air Force members.

Air Force chaplains represent many faith groups endorsed by the Air Force to include Eastern Orthodox, Jewish, Muslim, Protestant and Roman Catholic.

President Bush lands at Dobbins during Atlanta visit

President George W. Bush landed at Dobbins Air Reserve Base, Ga., on Thursday, Sept. 7, on his way to a speech at the Cobb Galleria in Atlanta. Following his speech, the President met with the Columbus, Ga., Little League World Series winners. The group met the President at Air Force One, shook his hand, got his autograph and presented him with their team's ball cap. The winners had the hats embroidered specially for the President and the First Lady. President Bush departed Dobbins the same day. The Columbus little leaguers remained at the base for a short tour of a C-130, a fire truck and lunch at the Consolidated Club.

BDU Marches to a New Order

With the latest edition to the Exchange Online Store, busy troops can now assemble their uniforms with just a few clicks of the mouse.

The virtual exchange's new "Uniform Ready-to-Wear" site makes it easy to complete uniform orders through one easy-to-use webpage. The final product is shipped to the Airmen's door, ready to wear right out of the box with no assembly required.

Uniforms can be ordered along with add-on items such as boots, belts, t-shirts and socks. A local alterations contractor will even attach all nametapes, rank, insignia, badges and patches.

"This is the most convenient way for an Airman or officer to purchase a set of BDUs," said Army & Air Force Exchange Service Air Force Program Manager, Military Clothing Maj. Brian Schooley. "The uniform is delivered directly to the mailbox and once the local command patch is attached the uniform is ready to wear."

Operational since July 24, the "Uniform Ready-to-Wear" site may be accessed by logging on to www.aafes.com. From there, military service members need to select "Military Uniforms Ready-to-Wear" to begin creating their custom uniform.

Dobbins observes Fire Prevention Week

Fire Prevention Week was established to commemorate the Great Chicago Fire, the tragic 1871 conflagration that killed more than 250 people, left 100,000 homeless, destroyed more than 17,400 structures and burned more than 2,000 acres. The fire began on Oct. 8, but continued into and did most of its damage the next day.

According to popular legend, the fire broke out after a cow – belonging to Mrs. Catherine O’Leary – kicked over a lamp, setting first the barn, then the whole city on fire. Chances are you’ve heard some version of this story yourself, for more than 130 years. But recent research by Chicago historian Robert Cromie has helped to debunk this version of events.

The “Moo” myth

Like any good story, the “case of the cow” has some truth to it. The great fire almost certainly started near the barn where Mrs. O’Leary kept her five milking cows. But there is no proof that O’Leary was in the barn when the fire broke out – or that a jumpy cow sparked the blaze. Mrs. O’Leary herself swore that she’d been in bed early that night, and that the cows were also tucked in for the evening.

But if a cow wasn’t to blame for the huge fire, what was? Over the years, journalists and historians have offered plenty of theories. Some blamed the blaze on a couple of neighborhood boys who were near the barn sneaking cigarettes. Others believed that a neighbor of the O’Leary’s may have started the fire. Some people have speculated that a fiery meteorite may have fallen to earth on Oct. 8, starting several fires that day – in Michigan and Wisconsin, as well as in Chicago.

The biggest blaze that week

While the Great Chicago Fire was the best-known blaze to start during this fiery two-day stretch, it wasn’t the biggest. That distinction goes to the Peshtigo Fire, the most devastating forest fire in American history. The fire, which also occurred on Oct. 8th, 1872, and roared through Northeast Wis., burned down 16 towns, killing 1,152 people, and scorching 1.2 million acres before it ended.

Historical accounts of the fire say that the blaze began when several railroad workers clearing land for tracks unintentionally started a brush fire. Before long, the fast-moving flames were whipping through the area “like a tornado,” some survivors said. It was the small town of Peshtigo, Wis., which suffered the worst damage. Within an hour, the entire town had been destroyed.

Eight decades of fire prevention

Those who survived the Chicago and Peshtigo fires never forgot what they’d been through; both blazes produced countless tales of bravery and heroism. But the fires also changed the way that firefighters and public officials thought about fire safety. The anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire would henceforth be observed not with festivities, but in a way that would keep the public informed about the importance of fire prevention. The commemoration grew incrementally official over the years.

In 1920, President Woodrow Wilson issued the first National Fire Prevention Day proclamation, and since 1922, Fire Prevention Week has been observed on the Sunday through Saturday period in which Oct. 9 falls. According to the National Archives and Records Administration’s Library Information Center, Fire Prevention Week is the longest running public health and safety observance on record.

94th Airlift Wing commander proclaims Fire Prevention Week

WHEREAS, the 94th AW is committed to ensuring the safety and security of all those working at and visiting our installation; and

WHEREAS, fire is a serious public safety concern both locally and nationally, and homes are the locations where people are at greatest risk from fire; and

WHEREAS, the nonprofit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) has documented through its research that cooking is the leading cause of home fires. One out of three home fires begins in the kitchen – more than any other place in the home.

WHEREAS, Dobbins Fire Emergency Services first responders are dedicated to reducing the occurrence of home fires and home fire injuries through prevention and protection education; and

WHEREAS, 94th AW members are responsive to public education measures and are able to take personal steps to increase their safety from fire; and

WHEREAS, using proper care when cooking will have a positive effect on the home fire problem; and

WHEREAS, each cooking fire that is prevented is an opportunity to prevent painful injury and costly property damage; and

WHEREAS, the 2006 Fire Prevention Week theme, “Prevent Cooking Fires: Watch What You Heat”, effectively serves to remind us all of the simple actions we can take to stay safer from fire during Fire Prevention Week and year-round.

THEREFORE, I Heath Nuckolls, Commander 94th AW do hereby proclaim Oct. 8-14, as Fire Prevention Week at this installation, and I urge all the members of the Dobbins community to heed the important safety messages of Fire Prevention Week 2006, and to support the many public safety activities and efforts of Dobbins Fire Emergency Services.

Building a wall of hope at ground zero

By Tech. Sgt. Micky Cordiviola
Public Affairs

Earlier this year, Dobbins Firefighter, Gerard Reheiser created a painting on a tile to commemorate 9/11. Mr. Reheiser entered that tile in a contest sponsored by Tiles for America at an Earth, Paint and Fire store in Woodstock, Ga. Little did he, know that the painting he had created would not only win the contest, but the tile would be displayed at ground zero as part of a permanent tribute to the tragedy of Sept. 11, 2001 in New York City.

“I did not have any expectations to win,” said Mr. Reheiser. “I have a deep sense of remorse for the people who have died for this country, both military and civilian. I felt that creating a tile in memory of the brave firefighters and police officers who died on Sept. 11, 2001 was a way that I could contribute to their lasting memory.”

Reheiser has been painting and drawing pictures since he was very little. He has sold his artwork to individuals who have asked him to draw specific pictures in memory of their loved ones.

“I love to create artwork and it is a passion of mine,” said Mr. Reheiser. “I only create artwork that has meaning and this tile contest definitely had deep meaning. I take pride in what I do and hopefully the tile I created reminds people to never forget the tragedy of that day and remember the heroes that gave their lives to save other people.”

Mr. Reheiser pointed out that the tile included everything that he viewed was good and pure about the United States of America. From the flames of tragedy arose the Phoenix of the American will. Mr. Reheiser wanted it displayed in his tile that for that one day he felt the United States of America was truly united. He viewed this day as one where race, creed or color did not make a difference because we were Americans first.

The tile is on display on a wall at ground zero in conjunction with other tiles from around the country. The painting took approximately one and half days to complete with a combination of mixing paints to create the shadow effect.

“At the time of Sept. 11, I was on active duty at Patrick Air Force Base, and I remember watching on television how people did not care about anything else except helping each other,” said Mr. Reheiser.

The contest included approximately 100 paint studios nationwide and Mr. Reheiser received a $50 gift certificate for winning the contest. Three tiles per store were sent to ground zero to place on the wall surrounding the property. Two of the tiles were created by the Earth, Paint and Fire store staff and included the names of 26 of the World Trade Center victims. The other tile was open to the public for the contest and judged by the store staff.

“We chose Gerard’s tile because it was absolutely fantastic,” said Lisa Delosh, owner of Earth, Paint and Fire. “The amount of detail that went into a small six by six tile was incredible. He included so many different aspects that represented the total picture.”

Mr. Reheiser pointed out that the $50 gift certificate was not important to him, but the fact that he put his heart into this painting and it is going to be placed at ground zero is an honor that he will never forget. He also made it very clear that the primary reason for creating the tile was “in hope that Americans would read it and realize that it doesn’t have to take a national tragedy to unite us and make us look past our imperfections. This is something that we should be doing every day of our lives.”

Families meeting families

S softball, fun runs, moonwalks, a 25-foot rock-climbing wall, hot dogs, hamburgers and families meeting families. This is a brief description of Dobbins Annual Family Day, held at the Dobbins Consolidated Club on Saturday of the September unit training assembly. "We are having a great time," said Senior Master Sergeant Steve Winn, 622nd Regional Support Group logistics planner. Sergeant Winn and his son Spencer, 10, built a toy organizer during family day. Sergeant Winn said this year's events were great for the kids. The Home Depot donated workshop kits for children to build cho-cho trains, toy organizers, and bird houses to name a few. Prizes donated included vacation packages, a skill saw and a cordless drill, which were prizes for those lucky servicemembers or family members who signed up for the drawings. One of those lucky servicemembers was Senior Airman Viki Bloemker, 94th Airlift Wing Command Post controller, who won the skill saw. "I don't know what I will build, but I'm excited I won," said Airman Bloemker. Another winner was Cameron Collins, 7, who won the 1-mile fun run. Aside from the run, other activities for the children included three sword fights performed by knights from Medieval Times, an inflatable forty-foot fire engine with an obstacle course inside, a stars and stripes moonwalk and a four in-one moonwalk. During the four-hour event, children were running back and forth between the different activities or lined up for the rock-climbing wall. As they enjoyed the different activities, their parents enjoyed socializing with co-workers and their families.

After all, that's the goal family day at Dobbins Air Reserve Base. It's an opportunity for servicemembers to bring their spouses and children out to the base and have some food, fun and reacquaint or introduce them to their co-workers, supervisors and commanders and their families; as well as an opportunity for local businesses to demonstrate services they have available to servicemembers and their families.

Family Day was sponsored this year by the Dobbins Air Reserve Base Services Division, the Dobbins Consolidated Club, the Associated Federal Credit Union, Courtyard by Marriott, Residence Inn Cumberland, The Home Depot Vinnings Store, American Legion-Horace Orr Post 29, Georgia 4-H Club and Medieval Times of Lawrenceville, Ga.

At the conclusion of the day, attendees were given the opportunity to participate in a 1-mile, 1.5-mile or 2-mile Fun Run.

While numerous activities were going on outside, the inside of the Consolidated Club was full of information booths, games for kids, a puppet show, face painting, a dessert contest and more opportunities to win prizes.

Flying Club Open House

The Atlanta Navy Flying Club will host an Open House Saturday, Oct. 14 from 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. Anyone interested in learning more about flying, the flying club and the opportunities available through the club are invited to attend. Some of the other opportunities available include earning a private pilots license, upgrading a current rating to instrument, commercial, or CFI, and aircraft rental for local and cross-country flights. The flying club is a Federal Aviation Administration approved Part 141 flight training school, and is Veterans Affairs approved for training. The flying club has four aircraft available: two Cessna 172s, one Piper Arrow III and one T-34. The club is located at the northwest end of Naval Air Station Atlanta, on Patrol Road, in Hangar 5. Call the flying club manager at 770-422-9434 for more information and detailed directions.

Consolidated Club Autumn Harvest Party

The Dobbins Consolidated Club wants to start the fall season off by celebrating with an Autumn Harvest Party on Oct. 14. Free hors d'oeuvres will be served as you dance the evening away to the sounds of a live DJ. For more information call the club at 678-655-4594.

Annual Fall Fitness Fun Run

The Dobbins Annual Fall Fitness Fun Run is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 18. The 2.1-mile run begins at 11:45 a.m. along the scenic trails behind the Fitness Center. T-shirts and drinks will be provided to all who participate. Stop by the Fitness Center or call 678-655-4872 to sign up.

Prime Rib and Shortcake Bar

The Dobbins Consolidated Club is offering additional outstanding fine dining experiences during the month of October. According to a recent survey, a large percentage of members indicated they wanted more evening dining and dancing opportunities. To satisfy that request the club has added an additional evening of fine dining during October. On Oct. 20 and 27, come let the experienced staff pamper you and yours with our Prime Rib and Shortcake bar. Afterwards, enjoy dancing to the sounds of one of Atlanta's premier DJs. The Prime Rib and Shortcake Bar is still a great value at a cost of only $13.95 for members and $15.95 for non-members. Reservations are necessary, so call 770-427-5551.

Shop for Antiques

Shop for antiques and take in the beautiful fall colors in the North Georgia Mountains. Outdoor Recreation is offering a trip to Blairsville, Ga., on Oct. 28. The bus will leave the Rental Center at 7 a.m. and return at approximately 6 p.m. The cost of this trip is $12 per person.

Sign up by Oct. 24 by calling the Rental Center at 678-655-4870.

Karaoke comes to Dobbins

The Dobbins Consolidated Club will soon be joining the wave of lounge entertainment. Stop by the club on Thursdays and Fridays between 5 - 7 p.m. for Karaoke and Open Mic Night. Karaoke kickoff announcements will be forthcoming. Free hors d'oeuvres will continue to be served during the Friday social hour.

3-on-3 tournament

The 94th Services Squadron is hosting a three-on-three basketball tournament at 11 a.m. on Saturday of the November UTA. Teams need to sign-in by 10:30 a.m. to participate. T-shirts and prizes will be given out. For more information, call 678-655-4872 or email Staff Sgt. Zandra Hayes, Staff Sgt. Ronnie Duckworth or Staff Sgt. Jamie Weaver. All squadrons are encouraged to come and compete.

The Annual Dobbins Corn N' Sausage Roast raises $2,175 for Dobbins families

The Annual Dobbins Corn N' Sausage Roast Fundraiser was held recently. Proceeds benefit the Family Support Dobbins Emergency Fund. Patrons were treated to roasted corn, grilled bratwurst, drinks and dessert. To help raise even more funds, donated items such as hand-sewn quilts, scarves, handmade wooden items and more were auctioned. Additionally, guests were treated to a free automobile show, where new and antique vehicles were on display, to include a "fully dressed-out" Vietnam-era military Jeep. At the end of the event, after the coals had cooled, and the workers refreshed, net proceeds of $2,175 had been raised. The total included a $500 donation from the Dobbins Thrift Store. "We do this event every year" stated Mr. Sam Farmer, event chairman. "Our contribution, in support of our Air Force Family at Dobbins is a rewarding and heartwarming experience. All this would not be possible without outstanding coordination and support of a lot of quality people, on and off base, as many non-members promote the event by advertising and selling tickets for the event." Plans are already under way for next year's event.

Dobbins 56 Group

Meeting: Oct. 15, 2006

Time: 12:30-1 p.m.

Location: Bldg. 747, Rm. 120

Focus: Deserving Airman Commissioning Program

The mission of the group is to promote morale, esprit de corps, and enhance communication within our ranks as well as with the community. As the group continues to strive to be positive role models, it would like to extend a challenge to all other junior noncommissioned officers to seek, learn, share knowledge, and increase their roles as managers with an opportunity to actively participate within an organization of their peers. The group's most recent projects are Holiday Hopes, which helps single and deployed family members during the holidays. The group is looking for those motivated self-starters that want to make a difference. Find out how and become a leader by example with a purpose and a vision. It begins with you.

Visit the group website at www.dobbins56group.com and find out more on Sunday.
