Resiliency Training Available: Call Mel at ACS at 978-796-3023. One of the Army's top priorities is to develop a holistic fitness program for Soldiers, Family members and Army Civilians in order to enhance performance and build resilience. Resilience Trainer is a course that will produce leaders with the capability to improve resilience skills to the Soldiers in order to enhance their performance and increase their resilience, both individually and collectively.

The MRT is an established program that has demonstrated efficacy in reducing behavioral health problems in a wide range of demographics. Soldiers will review the myths about resilience and why resilience is critical for success and well-being. They will also learn about the scientific literature of the core factors that predict resilience, with a specific focus on the factors that are amenable to change. These skills have a proven efficacy in contributing to the success of teams and leaders, families, students, executives and military personnel.

FINANCIAL

How to Avoid Post-Holiday Headaches By Lila Quintiliani, AFC® Military Saves Assistant Coordinator:

This past weekend as I sat at home watching scenes of Black Friday shopping mayhem unfold on television in between endless commercials; I couldn't help but think of a routine the late comedian George Carlin used to do called "Stuff." In it he used to poke fun at Americans and their obsession with acquiring things. According to Carlin, our homes are just piles of stuff with covers on them. Houses, he claimed, are places to keep your stuff while you go out and get even more stuff. But as I watched all the ads encouraging me to rush out and buy "stuff," I actually got the urge to do the opposite.

We are a military family, so we move a lot. In fact, we are awaiting orders to move yet again. Every time I have to unpack, I curse all the "stuff" we have accumulated and I say that next time I will do better. Yet each time we move we have ended up with a larger house, in part because we have so much STUFF.

But I don't know if this is a natural human instinct so much as a retailer-created need. Holidays should be about something other than buying things. Yes, I have young kids, and yes, they will get something from us. But this year I didn't do any Black Friday shopping. I am stepping back, giving less "junk" and concentrating more on the holiday experience. I would rather decorate cookies with the girls than wrap a bunch of presents they don't truly need. I would rather drink hot chocolate and watch a holiday movie next to the fireplace than wait in a line at the mall.

So here's my holiday-themed savings advice: Make a List (Set a Goal) – If you have to buy "stuff," do it thoughtfully. Sure you feel accomplished when you score the latest "hot toy" or "must buy", but is it something that will get used or is truly needed? I am remembering the last time Furbies were in fashion, when my parents rushed to buy them for my young niece and nephew only to have the toys sitting in the corner (and crying out for attention!) mere hours after they had been opened.

Check it Twice (Make a Plan) – Determine what you truly "need" and must buy and then when you go shopping stick to that list. Don't be tempted by retailers who offer add-ons or "buy one get one half off" offers. If you don't need it, don't buy it!

Make Your Holiday Nice (Not Naughty) - Hopefully by following these first two tips, you will have saved yourself some heartache when you open those credit card bills after the New Year. And then you can move on to the third step, where you make your savings plan automatic. If you haven't done this in the past, make your own version of an old-fashioned "savings club" account by taking the amount you spent on gifts this year, dividing it by 12, and putting that amount into a designated account each month. By the time the holiday shopping season rolls around next year, you'll have already paid for all of your gifts.

Or, you can do what I'm doing and just buy less STUFF.

Holiday Mailing: Holiday mailing schedule for Christmas mailing to our military around the world. Make sure your letters, cards, packages etc arrive on time check out the attachment for time frames / schedules. <https://www.usps.com/shippingdates/welcome.htm>

Operation Best Wishes: Operation best wishes returns on December 6th. Operation Best Wishes is an opportunity for anyone with a deployed loved one to send a professionally recorded greeting card, free of charge. Unlike a typical voice or video call, this greeting will be professionally recorded, and will be presented as a special message with a customized background.

It only takes a few minutes of your time but promises to deliver memories for years to come. <http://cl.exct.net/?qs=78feef91862ac3e2b5cbbbd1102470756d32ac55213dc8ef01717254e21e5413>> Creativity is encouraged - children can arrive in dance costumes, sports and cheer leading uniforms, show off karate moves, and prepare songs, poems and posters. Make their holiday come alive by surprising them with a personally recorded Internet Video Greeting Card. Feel free to forward this message to friends, co-workers or neighbors with a deployed loved one.

Date : December 6, 2012

Time : Recording sessions will be held from 11 AM - 7 PM Location : Hanscom Federal Credit Union
1610 Eglin Street, Hanscom AFB, MA 01731

The National Science Center (NSC) is now training kids to stay safe from cyber-attack malware when they are surfing the web or using email and cell phones. The new online game called Cyber Swarm Defenders is targeted to 6th-8th grade students and is also appropriate for younger students. Cyber Swarm Defenders is deployed through the social networking site jabbersmack.com, which was built for children ages 13 and under. Kid-safe requirements are built in, including a parental control feature. To access the game, visit the NSC website at www.NationalScienceCenter.org and click on the Cyber Swarm banner button. Or, go directly to Jammer. To play, participants must first register on jabbersmack, which is not accessible on some older versions of browsers.

The Minuteman Commons has launched a NEW Room Reservation app to make it easier to book a room any time of the day. Now you can make your room reservation for a squadron commander's call, holiday party, birthday party, luncheon, bridal/baby shower, wedding and more. The new app also has simplified fees and made it easier to reserve rooms. Here's the link: www.HanscomServices.com/MinutemanCommons

TRICARE Dental Program: On May 1, 2012, MetLife will become the dental carrier for the TRICARE Dental Program. All current TRICARE Dental Program enrollees will be notified about the transition to MetLife and will receive a welcome packet with a new TRICARE Dental Program Benefits Booklet. <http://www.metlife.com/TRICARE/index.html#welcome>

TRICARE Retiree Dental Program (TRDP) enrollees who are confused about the recent contract changes with the TRICARE Dental Program (TDP) and how that might affect their TRDP dental care. The contract award this past May of the TDP to MetLife was for family members and survivors of active duty, Selected Reserve and Individual Ready Reserve personnel and it does not affect retirees and/or enrollees in the TRICARE Retiree Dental Program.

To reduce confusion and circumvent any excess questions you may receive in your offices, we have been spreading the word nationwide at these retiree events and pre-retirements. If you happen to talk to any retirees, please remind them that the TRDP is a separate and distinct dental program that serves Uniformed Services retirees and their families. Delta Dental of California will continue to administer the TRDP contract until further notice.
